This Bond is one of the duly authorized issue of Bonds in the total principal amount of $820,000 (this Bond, the issue of which it forms a part and the appertaining interest coupons being hereinafter referred to as "These Bonds" or "the Bonds of 1975") issued by the City under and in full compliance with the Constitution and Statutes of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, including Sections 94.160 and 96.350 through 96.510 inclusive, of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, and pursuant to a duly adopted Bond Ordinance of said City, for the purpose of financing the cost (not otherwise provided) of the acquisition and construction of a new municipal sewer system.

Such registration, however, shall not affect the negotiability of the interest coupons, which shall always remain payable to bearer and transferable by delivery merely. SECTION 12. THE CONSTRUCTION ACCOUNT.

The City Treasurer shall be the custodian of all funds belonging to and associated with the sewer system, and such funds shall be deposited in the Dixie State Bank, Walton, Kentucky (the "depository bank"), which bank is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. All monies received by the City from the sale and delivery of the Bonds and/or of the receipt of grant proceeds, or the interest on and principal of such temporary loans may be paid simultaneously with the delivery of the Bonds (to the extent of part or all of the proceeds of the Bonds, as may be required by said Bank(s)), in which event the amount so deposited into the Construction Account shall be reduced by such amount so paid.

A. There shall immediately be paid to the Bank(s) entitled thereto an amount sufficient to pay interest on and principal of any temporary loans (if any) borrowed by the City in anticipation of the sale and delivery of the Bonds and/or of the receipt of grant proceeds, or the interest on and principal of such temporary loans may be paid simultaneously with the delivery of the Bonds (to the extent of part or all of the proceeds of the Bonds, as may be required by said Bank(s)), in which event the amount so deposited into the Construction Account shall be reduced by such amount so paid.

B. If and to the extent that the proceeds of the Bonds shall be in excess of the amount necessary to pay the interest on and principal of the aforesaid temporary loans, such excess amount shall immediately be deposited in the "City of Walton, Kentucky, Sewer Construction Account" (hereinafter referred to as the "Construction Account"), which shall be established as a supervised bank account if the Government is the purchaser of the Bonds. The proceeds of said Account shall be withdrawn only on checks signed by the City Treasurer and countersigned by the County Supervisor of the FmHA of the Government.

C. There shall be deposited in such Construction Account the proceeds of said Federal grants as received, and at or prior to the time of delivery of the Bonds, there shall be deposited in said Account the proceeds of sewer connection charges in the minimum amount of $180,000 (less any amounts therefor used for authorized purposes), to supplement the proceeds of the Bonds and grants in order to assure completion of the sewer system.

D. At or after the time the Bonds have been delivered, there shall be transferred from the Construction Account an amount sufficient to provide for capitalized interest during the construction of the system, as approved by the Engineers and by the FmHA. If and to the extent not theretofore expended in paying interest on interim financing and if and to the extent then needed to pay interest during the remaining period of construction of the system, such amount so transferred from the Construction Account shall be deposited in the Sinking Fund hereinafter created.

E. When the acquisition and construction of the sewer system has been completed and all acquisition and construction costs have been paid in full, as certified by the Engineers for the City, and/or by the FmHA, any balance then remaining in the Construction Account may be applied to the cost of constructing extensions, additions and/or improvements to the system, or shall be transferred to the Sinking Fund hereinafter created, whereupon said Construction Account shall be closed. Such balance so transferred shall be used by the City immediately to redeem outstanding Bonds (or to prepay installments due on a Fully Registered Bond) without redemption premium, further to the extent that any balance so transferred from the Construction Account to the Sinking Fund hereinafter created, to the extent that any amounts on deposit in said depository bank shall exceed the total deposits of the City in said depository bank to exceed the amount insured by the FDIC, the same shall be continuously secured by a valid pledge of U.S. obligations, having an equivalent market value, in conformity with KRS 66.480. Investments in Certificates of Time Deposit may be made only if a separate FmHA Form 4024 agreement is executed, if the FmHA has purchased any of the Bonds. Any such investments will be a part of the Construction Account, and income from such investments will be credited to the Construction Account. All such investments shall be subject to the limitations set out in Section 15 hereof.

F. Pending disbursement of amounts on deposit in the Construction Account, all such funds, or such portions of said amounts on deposit in said Construction Account as is designated by the City Council, shall be invested for the benefit of such Construction Account in certificates of time deposits, savings accounts, or U.S. obligations which may be converted readily into cash, having a maturity date prior to the date when the sums invested will be needed for construction of the sewer system, as evidenced by a certification of the Engineers designated herein, and by written approval of the Mayor or by such other official of the City as may be authorized by the City Council and by written approval of the FmHA, provided, however, that written approval of the Engineers shall not be required for matters not under the jurisdiction of the Engineers, such as legal fees, land acquisition and related items, in which cases the Banks shall disburse the required amounts upon receiving written request of such City official with written approval of the FmHA.

SECTION 13. INTERIM FINANCING AUTHORIZATION.

The borrowing of up to the aggregate sum of $1,700,000 from the Dixie State Bank, Walton, Kentucky (either alone or through its correspondent bank), and/or from any other banks or from the FmHA (hereinafter collectively and individually referred to as the "Banks") is hereby authorized; and Mayor Samuel Gamble or his successor, is hereby authorized to execute in the name and on behalf of the City any number of negotiable promissory notes, in such form as may be prescribed by the lending Banks, including Revenue Bond Anticipation Notes pursuant to KRS 58.150, each Note evidencing an advance of cash funds by the Banks to the City; and the Banks are hereby authorized and requested to make disbursement of the proceeds of such Notes directly to the parties entitled thereto for services and/or materials supplied by them to the City in connection with the construction of the aforesaid sewer system, as evidenced by a certification of the Engineers designated herein, and by written approval of the Mayor or by such other official of the City as may be authorized by the City Council and by written approval of the FmHA, provided, however, that written approval of the Engineers shall not be required for matters not under the jurisdiction of the Engineers, such as legal fees, land acquisition and related items, in which cases the Banks shall disburse the required amounts upon receiving written request of such City official with written approval of the FmHA.

The authority hereby given to the Mayor includes the execution and renewal of Notes in evidence of renewal and extension of Notes becoming due, provided the aggregate of the principal amount of all such Notes outstanding and payable to the Banks shall not exceed $1,700,000, and provided each Note which is renewed or extended is simultaneously cancelled by the Banks and transmitted to the City Treasurer. The rate of interest applicable to each Note and to each renewal Note shall not exceed a reasonable rate, which rate is subject to the approval of the FmHA. "Authority is hereby given for said total authorized interim financing of $1,700,000 to be the maximum indebtedness which the City may owe to said Banks at any given time; provided, however, that the City may reduce the amount owed by the City to said Banks from time to time as and when funds are available to the City, whether derived from the proceeds of Federal grants, the proceeds of the sale of said Bonds or otherwise, and may borrow from said Banks additional amounts in anticipation of the future receipt of additional Federal grants and/or proceeds of said Bonds and/or grants or other funds as received and which are not immediately needed for the payment of costs of the system, toward the liquidation and/or reduction of said interim financing loans until such time as additional interim financing loans are needed to provide additional funds for costs of said system as required by the City, subject to the limitation that the total amount owed to said Banks at any given time shall not be in excess of $1,700,000.

The City hereby covenants and agrees with said Banks that upon the issuance and delivery of said Bonds, the City will apply the proceeds thereof, to whatever extent may be necessary, in payment of the principal amount of all such Notes of the City then held by said Banks, together with interest thereon to the date of such payment; and the proceeds of said Bonds are hereby pledged thereto, and such pledge shall constitute a first and prior charge against said proceeds. The City further pledges the net proceeds of the system to the payment of said interim financing.

SECTION 14. CREATION OF FUNDS.

The City covenants that beginning with the date of delivery of the Bonds authorized herein, and so long as any of said Bonds and any additional party bonds are issued and outstanding, all of the income and revenues of said system shall be deposited to the credit of a separate and special account designated as the "City of Walton Sewer Revenue Fund," hereby created, hereinafter referred to as the "Revenue Fund," which Fund shall be maintained at the depository bank named above, and said Fund shall be maintained and preserved so long as any of the Bonds are outstanding. The Revenue Fund shall then be expended, used and apportioned by the City Treasurer, as follows:

A. Operation and Maintenance Fund. At or prior to the time of delivery of the Bonds there shall be deposited into the Operation and Maintenance Fund, hereby created, the sum of not less than $10,000 (less any amounts theretofore used for authorized purposes), derived from collected sewer connection charges, to provide for the initial operation and maintenance of the system. There shall be transferred monthly from the Revenue Fund, and as when revenues of the system are available in said Revenue Fund, an amount sufficient to cover the current expenses of operating and maintaining the system. The balance maintained in said Fund shall not be in excess of the amount required to cover anticipated expenditures for a two-month period pursuant to the annual budget.

B. Sinking Fund. At or after the time that the Bonds have been delivered, there shall be transferred from the Construction Account an amount sufficient (currently estimated at $110,000) to provide for capitalized interest during the construction of the system, as approved by the Engineers and by the FmHA, if and to the extent not theretofore expended in paying interest on interim financing and if and to the extent then needed to pay interest during the remaining period of acquisition and construction of the system. Such amount so transferred from the Construction Account shall be deposited in the "City of Walton Sewer Bond and Interest Sinking Fund of 1975," hereby created, hereinafter called the "Sinking Fund." After the transfers required in Section 14A above to be made in each month have been paid from the Revenue Fund, and after the expiration of the month in which interest is last payable out of the sum set aside into the Sinking Fund as capitalized interest, there shall next be transferred in each month from said Revenue Fund and deposited into said Sinking Fund on or before the 20th day of each month, for payment of interest on and principal of the Bonds, a sum equal to the total of the following:

- (1) An amount equal to one-sixth (or such larger amount as is necessary) of the next succeeding six-month interest installment to become due on the Bonds then outstanding, plus
- (2) Beginning in January, 1977, a sum equal to one-twelfth (or such larger amount as is necessary) of the principal of any Bonds maturing on the next succeeding January 1.

If the City for any reason shall fail to make any monthly deposits as required, then an amount equal to the deficiency shall be set apart and deposited into the Sinking Fund out of the first available revenues in the ensuing month or months, which amount shall be in addition to the monthly deposit otherwise required during such succeeding month or months. Whenever there shall accumulate in the Sinking Fund an amount in excess of the requirements during the next two months for paying the principal of and interest on outstanding Bonds as same fall due, such excess may be used for redemption prior to maturity of Bonds as set forth in Section 10 hereof.

On or before the twentieth days of June and/or December in each year, the depository bank shall transfer from the Sinking Fund and from the Reserve Fund (if necessary) a sum equal to the interest or a sum equal to the principal and interest, as the case may be, becoming due on the next following respective January 1 and/or July 1, and deposit the same in an account hereby created and identified as "City of Walton 1975 Bond and Interest Payment Account," and shall notify the alternate payor bank, if any, that the same is held as a trust fund to be drawn upon by the paying agents to pay maturing coupons, and/or interest installments, or Bonds and coupons, and/or principal and interest installments, as the case may be, upon presentation thereof on or after maturity and upon surrender of maturing Bonds and/or coupons. The depository bank and the City Clerk shall keep appropriate records as to payment of principal and interest installments and as to payment of principal and interest on any Coupon Bonds. Provided, however, that so long as the only Bonds outstanding is (are) Fully Registered Bonds, the functions contemplated by this paragraph shall be performed by the City Treasurer.

C. Depreciation Reserve Fund. After all of the transfers required in Paragraphs A and B above, have been made, there shall next be transferred from the Revenue Fund to the Depreciation Fund, hereinafter referred to as the "Reserve Fund," the sum of $40,000 each month until there is accumulated in such Reserve Fund the sum of $50,000, after which no further deposits need to be made into such Fund except to replace withdrawals. In addition to such monthly transfers from the Revenue Fund, there shall be deposited in said Reserve Fund all proceeds collected from potential customers, except (a) the amounts necessary to pay the actual costs of the respective meters and service connections applicable to said potential customers (with the exception of at least $180,000 of the collected connection charges required by Section 12 above to be deposited into the Construction Account until construction is completed, and at least $10,000 of the collected connection charges required by Section 14A to be transferred into the Operation and Maintenance Fund, to aid in the financing of the cost of future extensions, additions and/or improvements to such system, plus (b) the proceeds of any property damage insurance (not otherwise used to replace damaged or destroyed property); and any such proceeds so deposited shall be used solely and only for the purposes intended.

Moneys in the Reserve Fund may be withdrawn and used by the City, upon appropriate certification by the Board, for the purpose of paying the cost of unusual or extraordinary maintenance, repairs, renewals and replacements not included in the annual budget of current expenses and/or of paying the cost of constructing future extensions, additions and/or improvements to the system which will either enhance its revenue-producing capacity or will provide a higher degree of service, and when necessary for the purpose of making payment of principal and interest on the Bonds hereby authorized if the moneys on deposit in the Sinking Fund are not sufficient to make such payments.

All funds in said Sinking Fund and in said Reserve Fund shall be deposited in the depository bank, or such portion of said amounts on deposit in said respective Funds as is designated by the City Council shall be invested for the benefit of such respective Funds in time deposits, savings accounts, or U.S. obligations which may be converted readily into cash, having a maturity date prior to the date when the sums invested will be needed for meeting interest and/or principal payments, to mature or be called, provided that to the extent that any amounts on deposit in said bank shall exceed the total deposits of the City in said bank to exceed the amount insured by the FDIC, the same shall be continuously secured by a valid pledge of U.S. obligations, having an equivalent market value, in conformity with KRS 66.480. Investments in Certificates of Time Deposit may be made only if a separate FmHA Form 4024 agreement is executed, if the FmHA has purchased any of the Bonds. Any such investments will be a part of the respective Funds from which the proceeds invested are derived, and income from such investments will be credited to such respective Funds. All investments shall be subject to the limitations set out in Section 15 hereof.

D. KPAFA Loan. After making the deposits required by the foregoing subparagraphs, if any, of this Section, in each month, the City shall pay into a separate fund entitled "KPAFA Debt Service Fund" an amount equal to one-twelfth (1/12) of the next annual payment due by the City to the Kentucky Pollution Authority on the loan made by said Authority to the City in connection with said sewer system; and the amounts in said Fund shall be earmarked for and applied solely for the purpose of paying the principal and interest payments on said Loan as same become due.

E. Excess Funds. Subject to the provisions for the disposition of the income and revenues of the system in subparagraphs A, B, C and D of this Section, which provisions are cumulative, and after paying or providing for the payment of debt service on any subordinate obligation, there shall be transferred within sixty days after the end of each calendar year, the balance of excess funds in the Revenue Fund on such date to the Depreciation Reserve Fund to be earmarked for the purpose of paying or financing the cost of future extensions, additions and/or improvements to the system, or, at the option of the City, such excess funds may be applied to the maximum extent feasible, to the purchase or redemption of outstanding Bonds.

SECTION 15. LIMITATIONS ON INVESTMENTS OF FUNDS. The City covenants that sums on deposit in the Construction Account shall not be invested in investments which will produce a net adjusted yield which is more than one-eighth percent in excess of the net interest cost (effective yield) of the Bonds authorized herein, if such investment would cause the Bonds to be treated as taxable "arbitrage bonds" within the meaning of Section 103(d) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, or Section 103(d) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, and the Income Tax Regulations issued thereunder, provided, however, that funds may be invested to whatever extent and whenever such Act and/or applicable Regulations permit same to be invested without causing the Bonds to be treated as taxable "arbitrage bonds".

On the basis of the facts and circumstances in existence on the date of adoption of this Bond Ordinance, the City certifies that it is not expected that the proceeds of the Bonds authorized herein will be used in a manner which would cause such Bonds to be arbitrage bonds. The City covenants to the purchasers and/or holders of the Bonds authorized herein that (a) the City will make no use of the proceeds of said Bonds, which, if such funds had been reasonably expected on the date of issue of such Bonds, would have caused such Bonds to be arbitrage bonds, and (b) that the City will comply with (1) all of the requirements of Section 103(d) of the Internal Revenue Code; and (2) all of the requirements of the applicable Income Tax Regulations issued thereunder, to whatever extent is necessary to assure that the Bonds authorized herein shall not be treated as taxable arbitrage bonds.

The City covenants and reasonably expects: (a) that the City has entered into contracts with the Engineers in connection with the construction of the sewer system financed by the Bonds, and the fees to be paid to such Engineers will exceed 2 1/2% of the total cost of the project; (b) that work on the sewer system has commenced or will commence within the period of time from the date of issuance of the Bonds; (c) that the construction of said sewer system will proceed thereafter to completion with due diligence on the part of the City; (d) that at least 85% of the expendable proceeds of the Bonds will be expended on the costs of construction of said sewer system within less than three years from the date of issuance of the Bonds; (e) that the original proceeds of the issue will not exceed by more than five percent (5%) (or by any percent) the amount required for the costs of the sewer construction project; in fact such proceeds will be supplemented by an approved FmHA grant in the amount of $380,000, an approved DHUD grant in the amount of $252,700, an approved EPA grant in the amount of $889,845, a KPAFA loan in the amount of $403,701, and by certain sewer system charges; and (f) that the City has had no over-investment of the Bonds, and that the sewer system will not be sold or otherwise disposed of, in whole or in part, prior to the last maturity of the Bonds; and (g) that the City has not been advised of any listing or contemplated listing by the Internal Revenue Service determining that such certification with respect to its obligations may not be relied on; and accordingly it is anticipated that there will be no limitation on the permissible yield on investments made from the proceeds of the Bonds. Prior to or at the time of delivery of the Bonds, the City Treasurer is authorized to execute the appropriate certification with reference to the matters referred to above, setting out all known and contemplated facts concerning such anticipated construction, expenditures and investments, including the execution of necessary and/or desirable certification of the type contemplated by the "Proposed Arbitrage Regulations" as published in the Federal Register on May 3, 1973 (38 CFR Part D), in order to assure that interest on the Bonds will be exempt from all Federal income taxes and that the Bonds will not be treated as taxable arbitrage bonds.

SECTION 16. RATES AND CHARGES.

All rates and charges for all services and facilities rendered by the system shall be reasonable and just, taking into account and consideration the cost and value of said system, the cost of maintaining, repairing and operating the same and the amounts necessary for the retirement of all Bonds and the accruing interest on all Bonds, and there shall be charged such rates and charges as shall be adequate to meet the requirements of this and the preceding Section 14 hereof.

The City covenants that it will not reduce the rates and charges for the services rendered by said system without first filing with the City Clerk a certification of an Independent Consulting Engineer, as defined herein, to the effect that the annual net revenues (defined as gross revenues less essential operation and maintenance expenses) of the then existing system for the fiscal year preceding the year in which such reduction is proposed, as such annual revenues are adjusted, after taking into account the projected reduction in revenues anticipated to result from any such proposed rate decrease, are equal to not less than 100% of the annual debt service requirements for principal and interest on all of the then outstanding bonds payable from the revenues of the system, calculated in the manner specified in Section 25C(2) hereof.

SECTION 17. BOOKS AND ACCOUNTS.

The City shall install and maintain a proper system of records and accounts relating to the operation of the system and its financial affairs, and the holders of any said Bonds or their authorized representative shall have the right at all reasonable times to inspect the facilities and all records, accounts and data relating thereto. An annual audit on a fiscal year basis shall be made of the books and accounts pertinent to said system by a Certified Public Accountant licensed in Kentucky. No later than sixty days after the close of each calendar year, copies of such audit reports certified by such Accountant shall be promptly mailed to the Government without request, so long as the Government is the holder of any of the Bonds, and to any bondholder that may have requested same in writing. Monthly operating reports, reports annual debt service requirements and when requested by the City, during the first two years of operation and whenever requested by the City, shall be furnished to such parties at all other times.

SECTION 18. CITY OBLIGATED TO REFUND BONDS HELD BY GOVERNMENT WHENEVER SAME IS FEASIBLE.

So long as the Government is the holder of any of the Bonds, if it appears to the Government that the City is able to refund such Bonds, in whole or in part, by obtaining a loan for such purposes from reasonable co-operative or private credit sources, or to sell bonds of the City in the open market, at reasonable rates and terms, for loans or bonds issued for similar purposes and periods of time, the City will, upon request of the Government, obtain such loan and/or issue such bonds in sufficient amount to repay the Government, and will take all such action as may be required in connection with such loan.

SECTION 19. GENERAL COVENANTS.

The City through its City Council hereby covenants and agrees with the holder or holders of the Bonds that:

- (1) It will faithfully and punctually perform all duties with reference to the system required by the Constitution and laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky;
- (2) It will make and collect reasonable and sufficient rates and charges for services and facilities rendered by said system;
- (3) It will segregate the revenues and income therefrom and make application thereof consistent with and as provided by this Ordinance;
- (4) Unless the written consent of the holders of a majority in amount of the outstanding Bonds has been obtained, it agrees not to sell, lease, mortgage, or in any manner dispose of any integral part of the system, including any and all appurtenances thereto and extensions, additions and/or improvements that may be made thereto until all of said Bonds shall have been paid in full; subject to the provisions of Section 25 hereof;
- (5) It will maintain in good condition and continuously operate said system and appurtenances thereto and will charge such rates and charges for the services rendered thereby so that the gross income and revenues will be sufficient at all times to pay the costs and expenses of operating and maintaining said system, to pay the interest on and principal of the Bonds herein authorized and any other bonds as same become due and to provide for an adequate depreciation account;
- (6) It shall carry and maintain insurance on properties of the system subject to loss or damage in amounts and against hazards substantially in accordance with the practices of other corporations which own and maintain waterworks systems and/or sewer systems under similar conditions; and it will, so long as the Government is the holder of any of such Bonds, list the Government as a co-beneficiary on any such policy; and the City shall further comply with all of the requirements of Section 21 hereof (involving insurance of motors, tanks and structures).

SECTION 20. GENERAL COVENANTS APPLICABLE SO LONG AS FmHA HOLDS ANY BONDS.

So long as the FmHA shall hold any of the Bonds, the City shall comply with such regulations, requirements and requests as shall be made by the FmHA, including the furnishing of operating and other financial statements in such form and substance and for such periods as may be requested by the FmHA, the carrying of insurance of such types and in such amounts as the FmHA may specify, with insurance carriers acceptable to the FmHA, and compliance with all of the terms and conditions of the Loan Agreement between the City and the FmHA.

SECTION 21. INSURANCE OF MOTORS, TANKS AND STRUCTURES.

The City shall at the time of final acceptance of the system from the contractor, insure all electric motors, lift stations and major structures of the entire sewer system, in an amount recommended by the City's Engineers and approved by the FmHA, so long as the FmHA is the holder of any Bonds, for the hazards usually covered in such area, and shall similarly insure same in an amount recommended by the City's Engineers, without the necessity of approval by the FmHA if and whenever the City has Bonds outstanding against the system and such Bonds are not held by the FmHA.

SECTION 22. STATUTORY MORTGAGE LIEN.

For the further protection of the holders of the Bonds, a statutory mortgage lien is granted and created by Sections 94.160 and 96.400 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes upon said system and all properties connected therewith, together with all appurtenances thereof and extensions thereto, which statutory mortgage lien is hereby recognized and declared to be valid and binding upon the City and upon all of the properties constituting said system; and said lien shall take effect immediately upon the delivery of the Bonds authorized herein.

SECTION 23. EVENT OF DEFAULT: BONDHOLDERS' REMEDIES.

The following items shall constitute an "event of default" on the part of the City:

- (a) The failure to pay principal of said Bonds when due and payable, either at maturity or by proceedings for redemption.
- (b) The failure to pay, any installment of interest on said Bonds when the same shall become due and payable or within 30 days thereafter.
- (c) The failure of the City to fulfill its obligations pursuant to this Ordinance.
- (d) The failure to promptly repair, replace, or reconstruct facilities of the system that have been damaged and/or destroyed.
- (e) The entering of an order or decree with the consent or the acquiescence of the City appointing a receiver of all or any part of the system or any revenues thereof; or if such order or decree having been entered without the acquiescence or consent of the City, its failure in not having the order vacated, discharged, or stayed on appeal within 60 days after entry.
- (f) The default by the City in the due and punctual performance of any other of the covenants, conditions, agreements, and provisions contained in the Bonds or in this Ordinance.

Any holder of said Bonds may enforce and compel the performance of all duties and obligations of the City as set forth herein. Upon the occurrence of an event of default, then upon the filing of a suit by any holder of said Bonds, any court having jurisdiction of the action may appoint a receiver to administer said system on behalf of the City with power to charge and collect rates sufficient to provide for the payment of operating and maintenance expenses and for the payment of principal of interest on the Bonds, and to provide and apply the income and revenues in conformity with this Ordinance and with the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The City hereby agrees to transfer to any bona fide Receiver or other subsequent operator of the system, pursuant to any valid court order in a proceeding brought to enforce collection or payment of the City's obligations, all contracts and other rights of the City pertaining to the system, conditionally, for such time only as such Receiver or operator shall operate the system, without any proof of previous earnings or net revenues, provided the consent of the FmHA must be obtained prior to the issuance of any inferior bonds so long as the FmHA holds any of the Bonds of 1975 or any other Bonds, and provided further that after the initial acquisition and construction of the system such inferior bonds may be issued only for the purpose of providing for extensions, additions and/or improvements to the system, and only in express recognition of the priorities, liens and rights created and existing for the security, source of payment and protection of the Bonds of 1975 and any other Bonds; provided, further, that nothing in this Section is intended to restrict or shall be construed as a restriction upon, the ordinary refunding of the Bonds of 1975 and of such other Bonds.

SECTION 24. ALL BONDS OF THIS ISSUE ARE EQUAL.

The Bonds authorized herein shall not be entitled to priority one over the other in the application of the income and revenues of the system, or with respect to the security for their payment, regardless of the time or times of their issuance, it being the intention that there shall be no priority among the Bonds authorized by this Ordinance regardless of the fact that they may be actually issued and delivered at different times.

SECTION 25. INFERIOR BONDS AND PARITY BONDS.

A. Inferior Bonds. Except as provided below in this Section, the City shall not, so long as any of the Bonds (and any bonds ranking on a parity) are outstanding, issue any additional bonds payable from the revenues of the system unless the security and/or pledge of the revenues and statutory mortgage lien to secure such additional bonds is made inferior and subordinate in all respects to the security of the Bonds of 1975 and any other Bonds.

The City expressly reserves the right at any time or times to issue its bonds or other obligations payable from the revenues of the system and not ranking on a basis of equality with the Bonds of 1975, without any proof of previous earnings or net revenues, provided the consent of the FmHA must be obtained prior to the issuance of any inferior bonds so long as the FmHA holds any of the Bonds of 1975 or any other Bonds, and provided further that after the initial acquisition and construction of the system such inferior bonds may be issued only for the purpose of providing for extensions, additions and/or improvements to the system, and only in express recognition of the priorities, liens and rights created and existing for the security, source of payment and protection of the Bonds of 1975 and any other Bonds; provided, further, that nothing in this Section is intended to restrict or shall be construed as a restriction upon, the ordinary refunding of the Bonds of 1975 and of such other Bonds.

B. Parity Bonds to Complete the System. The City hereby certifies, covenants and agrees that in the event that the costs of completion of the construction of the system, as hereinbefore described, shall exceed the money available to the City from any and all sources, the City shall have the right, if necessary, to provide for such excess, and only such excess, through the issuance of parity bonds, provided the City has obtained a certification from the Engineers to the effect that it is necessary to issue the desired amount of additional parity bonds in order to enable the City to pay the cost (not otherwise provided) of the completion of the system.

C. Parity Bonds to Finance Future Extensions, Additions and/or Improvements; Conditions or Showings Required.

The City further reserves the right to add new sewer and/or related auxiliary facilities and/or finance future extensions, additions and/or improvements to the system by the issuance of one or more additional series of bonds to be secured by a parity lien on and ratably payable from the revenues of the system and also secured by a parity statutory mortgage lien on the system, provided:

- (1) That the facility or facilities to be constructed from the proceeds of the additional parity bonds or are made a part of the system and its or their revenues are pledged as additional security for the additional parity bonds and the outstanding Bonds of 1975 herein authorized.

(2) The annual net revenues (defined as gross revenues less essential operation and maintenance expenses), of the then existing system for the fiscal year preceding the year in which such parity bonds are to be issued, shall equal at least one hundred twenty percent (120%) of the average annual debt service requirements of both the Bonds of 1975 and any other Bonds then outstanding plus the anticipated requirements of the additional parity bonds then proposed to be issued. The calculation of average annual debt service requirements of principal and interest on the additional bonds to be issued shall, regardless of whether such additional bonds are to be serial or term bonds, be determined on the basis of the principal of and interest on such bonds being payable in approximately equal annual installments.

(3) The City has obtained the written consent of the FmHA for the issuance of such parity bonds, if the FmHA is the owner of any of the Bonds of 1975 herein authorized at the time of issuance of such parity bonds; or the written consent of the holders of three-fourths in amount of the then outstanding Bonds of 1975 and any other Bonds.

D. Covenants to be Complied with at Time of Issuance of Parity Bonds. The City hereby covenants and agrees that in the event any additional parity bonds are issued, the City shall:

- (1) Adjust the monthly deposits into the Sinking Fund on the same basis as that prescribed in the provisions establishing such Fund, to reflect the average annual debt service requirements on the additional parity bonds;
 - (2) Adjust the maximum annual amount to be deposited monthly into the Reserve Fund on the same basis as that prescribed in the provisions establishing such Fund, taking into account the future replacement costs of the facilities to be constructed and acquired with the proceeds of such additional parity bonds; and
 - (3) Make such additional parity bonds payable as to principal on January 1 of each year in which principal falls due and payable as to interest on January 1 and July 1 of each year until the final maturity of such parity bonds.
- E. Priority of Lien; Permissible Disposition of Surplus or Obsolete Facilities; Conditions.

The City covenants and agrees that so long as any of the Bonds of 1975 are outstanding, the City will not sell or otherwise dispose of any of the facilities of the sewer system, or any part thereof, and, except as provided for above, it will not create or permit to be created any charge or lien on the revenues thereof ranking equal or prior to the charge or lien of the Bonds of 1975 herein authorized. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the City may at any time permanently abandon the use of, or sell at the fair market value, any part of the facilities of the system, provided that:

- (a) It is in compliance with all covenants and undertakings in connection with all of the bonds then outstanding and payable from the revenues of the system, and the Sinking Fund Reserve(s), for such respective bonds, has been fully established.
- (b) It will, in the event of any such sale, apply the proceeds to either (1) redemption of outstanding bonds in accordance with the provisions governing prepayment of bonds in advance of maturity, or (2) replacement of the facility so disposed of by another facility, the revenues of which shall be incorporated into the system, as hereinbefore provided;
- (c) It certifies, in good faith, prior to any abandonment of use, that the facility or facilities to be abandoned are no longer economically feasible of producing net revenues;
- (d) It certifies, in good faith, that the estimated net revenues of the remaining facilities of the system for the then next succeeding fiscal year, plus the estimated net revenues of the facility or facilities, if any, to be added to the system, comply with the earnings requirements hereinbefore provided in the provisions and conditions governing the issuance of additional parity bonds; and
- (e) Notwithstanding any other provisions hereof, so long as any of the Bonds are held by the United States Government, the City shall not dispose of its title to the system or to any useful part thereof, without first obtaining the written consent of the Government.

SECTION 26. SYSTEM TO BE OPERATED ON CALENDAR YEAR BASIS.

While any Bonds are outstanding and unpaid and to the extent not now prohibited by law, the system shall be operated and maintained on a calendar year basis commencing on January 1 of each year and ending on December 31 of the same year, which period shall also constitute the budget year for the operation and maintenance of the system. Not later than 60 days prior to the beginning of each calendar year, beginning immediately after the issuance of the Bonds, the City and the City Council agree to cause to be prepared a detailed statement of income and expenditure for the past year, a current financial statement and a "Proposed Annual Budget of Current Expenses" of said system for the then calendar year, itemized on the basis of monthly requirements. A copy of said "Proposed Annual Budget of Current Expenses" shall be mailed to any bondholder who may request in writing a copy of such Budget, and to the Government without request if the Government is the holder of any of said Bonds. If the holders of 50% in amount of the outstanding Bonds, so request, the City Council shall hold an open hearing not later than thirty days before the beginning of the ensuing fiscal year, at which time any bondholder may appear by agent or attorney and may file written objections to such proposed budget. Notice of the time and place of such hearing shall be mailed at least 15 days prior to the hearing to each registered bondholder and to the Government.

The City and its City Council covenant that annually before the first day of March, the annual budget of current expenses for the then current calendar year will be adopted substantially in accordance with the preliminary or proposed annual budget, and no expenditures for operation and maintenance expenses of said system in excess of the budget shall be made during such calendar year unless directed by said City Council by a specific ordinance duly adopted.

SECTION 27. THIS ORDINANCE CONTRACTUAL WITH BONDHOLDERS.

The provisions of this Ordinance constitute a contract between the City and its City Council and the holders of the Bonds as may be outstanding from time to time, and after the issuance of any of said Bonds, no change, alteration or variation of any kind of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be made in any manner which will affect a holder's right to except with the written consent of all bondholders until such times as all of said Bonds and the interest thereon have been paid in full.

SECTION 28. SALE OF BONDS.

The City Clerk of the City is hereby authorized and directed to cause notice of the receipt of bids for the purchase of said Bonds to be published pursuant to all applicable Kentucky Revised Statutes. Said Notice shall state the name and amount of Bonds to be sold, the time of the sale and other details concerning the Bonds and the sale, and shall inform prospective bidders that a copy of the Official Notice of Sale of Bonds, setting out the maturities, security of the Bonds, provisions as to redemption prior to maturity, and related information, may be obtained from the City. Such Official Notice shall contain the following bidding requirements:

- A. Bidders are required to bid a cash price of not less than par value ($820,000) for the Bonds.
- B. Bidders must name a single interest rate for the entire issue, which rate must be in a multiple of 1/8% or 1/10%, not exceeding 5% per annum.
- C. Bids will be considered only for the entire $820,000 of Bonds authorized herein and no bid will be considered for less than the total authorized issue.
- D. Bidders (except the FmHA) are required to deposit a good faith check by cashier's check or certified check in the minimum amount of $16,400 (2% of the face amount of the Bonds), which good faith deposit will be applied as partial payment for the Bonds, or as liquidated damages in the event that such bidder, if successful, fails to comply with the terms of his bid.
- E. If two or more bids are received, the Bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid results in the lowest net interest cost to the City.
- F. The lowest net interest cost will be determined by deducting the total amount of any premium bid from the aggregate amount of interest upon the Bonds bid for, computed from the first day of the month following the date of sale of the Bonds (even though the Bonds will bear interest only from the date of delivery) to the final maturity of the Bonds. The bid of the Farmers Home Administration will not be considered if another duly qualified bid is received.
- G. Bidders shall be advised that the FmHA has entered into a Loan Agreement with the City pursuant to which said FmHA proposes to purchase all of the Bonds at par at a 5% interest rate, in the absence of the receipt of another bid complying with the terms of the sale at an equally (or more) favorable net interest cost.
- H. Said Bonds shall be offered for sale with the successful bidder having the following options:

- (1) The successful bidder shall have the right to take delivery of the Bond Issue in the form of negotiable Coupon Bonds having the principal maturities set out in the schedule of maturities contained herein, in the denomination of from $1,000 to $10,000, or any multiple of same consistent with the schedule of maturities, bearing interest payable semi-annually at the rate set out in the bid of such successful bidder.
- (2) The successful bidder shall have the right to take delivery of the Bond Issue in the form of a single or series of Fully Registered Bonds, payable to the successful bidder or his assignee, maturing as to principal in installments corresponding to the principal maturities of the Coupon Bonds.

I. In the event that any such other bid or bids are received, the bid of the FmHA will be cancelled and withdrawn; otherwise the Bonds will be awarded to the FmHA in accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid Loan Agreement.

J. The City expects to deliver, and the successful bidder must be prepared to accept delivery of and pay for, the Bonds at the office of the City Clerk within 45 days after notice is given of the award. If said Bonds are not ready for delivery and payment within forty-five (45) days from the aforesaid date of sale, the successful bidder shall be relieved of any liability to accept delivery of the Bonds, except that additional time may be required for delivery if the Bonds are purchased by the FmHA.

K. The City reserves the right, in its discretion, to determine the best bid, to waive any informality or irregularity and to reject any or all bids.

L. The Bonds will be tendered within said 45-day period, and the purchaser will receive the approving legal opinion of Robin, Troutman & Hays, Municipal Bond Attorneys, Louisville, Kentucky, as to the legality and tax-exemption of said Bonds, without additional cost to the purchaser.

In the event that there is no bid or that all bids are rejected, the City may re-advertise the sale pursuant to this Ordinance.

SECTION 29. SEVERABILITY CLAUSE.

If any section, paragraph, clause or provision of this Ordinance shall be held invalid, the invalidity of such section, paragraph, clause or provision shall not affect any of the remaining provisions of this Ordinance.

SECTION 30. ALL PROVISIONS IN CONFLICT REPEALED.

All motions, resolutions and orders, or parts thereof, in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance, are to the extent of such conflict hereby repealed. It is hereby specifically ordered and provided that any proceedings heretofore taken for the issuance of other Bonds of the City payable or secured in any manner by all or any part of the income and revenues of said system or any part thereof, and which have not been heretofore issued and delivered, are hereby revoked and rescinded, and none of such other bonds shall be issued and delivered. If part hereof is invalid, the remainder shall continue in effect. The City covenants to repeat any required procedure previously taken invalidly.

SECTION 31. EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY.

This Ordinance shall take effect and be in force immediately upon its enactment, approval and publication.

Enacted this 8th day of October, 1974.

The Fully Registered Bond will be payable to the registered holder at his address as shown on the Registration Book of the City.

Plans and specifications for said sewer system and the Engineering Report in connection therewith were prepared by the engineering firm of Kral, Zapf, Pritikin & Associates, 3021 Vernon Place, Cincinnati, Ohio 45219. Said plans and specifications have been approved by the necessary supervisory authorities, and it has been ascertained to the satisfaction of the City Clerk that all costs of such acquisition and construction, including capitalized interest during construction, can be paid through application of the proceeds of these $820,000 of Bonds plus the additional moneys available.

The City has reserved the right to issue additional Bonds ranking on a parity as to security and source of payment with these $820,000 of Bonds (if necessary) in order to complete the aforesaid acquisition and construction. The City has also reserved the right to issue parity Bonds to finance future extensions, additions and/or improvements to said system, provided the necessary showings as to earnings coverage, as required by the Bond Ordinance, are in existence and properly certified, or provided the consent of the holders of three-fourths in amount of the then outstanding Bonds is obtained.

A copy of the Bond Ordinance, the Rate Ordinance and the Statement of Essential Facts are available at the office of the City Clerk and at the payor bank, Dixie State Bank, Walton, Kentucky.

Hidding requirements are as follows:

A. Bidders are required to bid a cash price of not less than par value ($820,000) for the Bonds.

B. Bidders must name a single interest rate for the entire issue, which rate must be in a multiple of 1/8% or 1/16%, not exceeding 5% per annum.

C. Bids will be considered only for the entire $820,000 of Bonds, and no bid will be considered for less than the total authorized issue.

D. Bidders (except the FmHA) are required to deposit a good faith check by cashier's check or certified check in the minimum amount of 2% of the face amount of the Bonds, which good faith check will be applied as partial payment for the Bonds, or as liquidated damages in the event that the successful bidder fails to comply with the terms of such bid.

E. If two or more bids are received, the Bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid results in the lowest net interest cost to the City.

F. The lowest net interest cost will be determined by deducting the total amount of any premium bid from the aggregate amount of interest upon the Bonds, computed from the first day of the month following the date of sale of the Bonds (even though the Bonds will bear interest only from the date of delivery) to the final maturity of the Bonds. The bid of the Farmers Home Administration will not be considered if another duly qualified bid is received.

G. Bidders are hereby advised that the FmHA has entered into a Loan Agreement with the City pursuant to which said FmHA proposes to purchase these $820,000 of Bonds at par at a 5% interest rate, in the absence of the receipt of another bid complying with the terms hereof at an equally (or more) favorable net interest cost.

H. In the event that any of such other bid or bids are received, the bid of the FmHA as to such Bonds, will be cancelled and withdrawn; otherwise the Bonds will be awarded to the FmHA in accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid Loan Agreement.

I. Said Bonds are offered for sale with the successful bidder having the following options:

(1) The successful bidder shall have the right to take delivery of the Bonds issue in the form of negotiable Coupon Bonds having the principal maturities set out in the schedule of maturities contained herein, in the denomination of $1,000 to $10,000, or any multiple of same consistent with the schedule of maturities, bearing interest payable semi-annually at the rate set out in the bid of such successful bidder.

(2) The successful bidder shall have the right to take delivery of the Bonds issue in the form of a single or series of Fully Registered Bonds (payable to the successful bidder or his assignee, maturing as to principal in installments corresponding to the principal maturities of the Coupon Bonds.

J. No particular bid forms are required, but all bids must be made unconditionally and in conformity with the terms of the sale.

K. The City expects to deliver, and the successful bidder must be prepared to accept delivery of and pay for, the Bonds at the office of the City Clerk within 45 days after notice is given of the award. If said Bonds are not ready for delivery and payment within forty-five (45) days from the aforesaid date of sale, the successful bidder shall be relieved of any liability to accept delivery of any of the Bonds, except that additional time may be required for delivery if the Bonds are purchased by the FmHA.

L. The City reserves the right, in its discretion, to determine the best bid or bids, to waive any informality or irregularity and to reject any or all bids.

M. Said Bonds are offered for sale on the basis of the interest on said Bonds being exempt from Federal and Kentucky income taxation and on the basis of the principal of said Bonds being exempt from all Kentucky and valorem taxation on the date of delivery of said Bonds to the successful purchaser.

N. The City will provide the printed bond blanks and the unqualified, unconditional, approving legal opinion of Rubin, Trautwein & Hays, Municipal Bond Attorneys, Louisville, Kentucky, together with the customary Non-Litigation Certificate, the same to accompany the Bonds when delivered, without expense to the purchaser. If Kentucky Can do it... America Can do it.

There are millions of Americans who believe our government can't stop inflation. Millions more are frustrated by a federal government which costs more to run every year ... a government that puts more people on the payroll every year.

Wendell Ford believes in America ... Its past ... Its present ... Its future. He knows we can fight inflation. As Governor of Kentucky he did it. He took the sales tax off food, medicine and farm machinery.

Wendell Ford knows, too, that Washington can do more than it's doing. He knows government doesn't have to get bigger and more expensive every year. Kentucky's government under Wendell Ford has proven that. There are fewer state employees this year than last ... this year's budget was underspent by $25,000,000.00. Wendell Ford's program of consolidation and efficiency is working.

Think about the kind of government you want in Washington. That's what this year's race for United States Senator is all about. We've got a choice between the Wendell Ford kind of government, or the kind of Washington government we have now. Think about it ... If Kentucky can do it ... America can do it.

For Kentucky...For America Wendell Ford for United States Senator

Paid for by: Committee for Wendell H. Ford for United States Senator, P.O. Box 1974, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, Larry M. Greathouse, Treasurer.

BICENTENNIAL WINNERS—Gov. Wendell Ford presents checks to the winners of the Kentucky 174 Bicentennial Commemorative Medallion Design Contest. The contest, held among Kentucky high school students, was sponsored by the Kentucky Historical Events Celebration Commission and the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights, Ill., the producer of the medallion. The winning design, by Keefe Mills, second from right, a 17 year-old 12th grader at Western High School in Louisville, will appear on the obverse of the medallion. He received a $1,000 scholarship grant from the Hamilton Mint, while second place winner Eric Platt, a 17 year-old 12th grader at Warren East High School in Bowling Green, won a $500 scholarship grant and third place winner Mary Kay House, a 17 year-old 11th grader at Lexington's Henry Clay High School, received a $250 scholarship grant from the mint.

Citizens Advisory Council Meets

The Citizens Advisory Council on the minimum foundation program met Oct. 9 in Frankfort. The group consists of professional educators and laymen who will recommend the educational legislation that the superintendent of public instruction will present to the next General Assembly.

Represented on the Council are the Kentucky Education Association (KEA), Kentucky Association of School Administrators (KASA), Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers (PTA), Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA), the state Department of Education, as well as many citizens who served on the Citizens Advisory Council for the 1974 session of the legislature.

In addition, 65 new members have been added to the council. Each county in Kentucky was asked to send a representative to the council "a civic-minded person not directly connected with education," according to Arnold Guess, deputy bureau head for the Bureau of Administration and Finance.

"Included in the 148 council members in attendance at the Oct. 9 meeting were several mayors, housewives, doctors people from all walks of life," Guess said. "Four members of the legislature also came to observe the meeting."

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, in welcoming the group, outlined a number of areas he felt deserved consideration by the council: teachers' retirement benefits and salaries; special education programs; kindergartens; and "shared accountability."

"Nationally, we hear a lot about accountability," Gingersaid. "People are saying, 'We would like to invest money in education, but tell us what you are doing with the money not in terms of how many teachers and how many children but what is the quality of the product.'"

This is one of the issues in the minds of legislators and I think rightfully so," Gingersaid.

In outlining costs of various programs, Gingersaid, "We are talking about limited resources. Where do we put the resources to buy programs that the citizenry wants for children? Where do we put the emphasis?"

During the day-long meeting, council subcommittees began to assign tentative priorities to legislative issues. Two areas given high priority by several subcommittees were "per-pupil expenditure" and "effort in keeping with ability."

Fred Williams, director of the KASA, told the group that Kentucky spends less per pupil than any of the seven surrounding states. He urged the council to aim toward bringing Kentucky's per-pupil spending for teachers' salaries and other purposes up to the level in the states bordering Kentucky.

Maurice Bement of the KSBA proposed that Kentucky should "match the national average effort in support of elementary and secondary education." Bement emphasized the word effort, explaining that Kentucky should not be expected to match amounts spent on education in other states because Kentucky has an average income lower than the national level.

But according to Bement, Kentucky spends a smaller-than-average per cent of its income on education and he felt this situation should be changed.

NITRO, W. Va., "Kanawha Valley Leader"—"If a businessman loses sight of the fact that he is employed by his customers, he is soon out of business and unemployed. The public office holder is insulated somewhat from immediate customer reaction because the customer is locked in until the next election; it is the only game in town. Oftentimes the dissatisfaction has been tempered by the time the next election rolls around, particularly in the contested decision was proven correct though unpopular at the time. However, in the long run the public servant, like the businessman, must be responsive to the public he serves if he wants to remain employed."

DAVISON, Mich., "Index"—"You just know there are more liberals in Washington than there are conservatives when you take a look at the size of the national debt. Americans need hard-fought elections to remind us we are a democracy, just as a dog should have fleas to remind him he is a dog."

Time Element Crucial

The energy crisis should not have come as a shock to anyone. As early as the 1950's, the oil industry was accurately predicting the consequences of underdevelopment of domestic energy sources and overdependence on foreign imports.

This point was graphically made in the reproduction in Newsweek magazine of a 1954 advertisement by a US oil company. It warned that "... there is only one safe way to keep this nation's rate of petroleum production up to any challenge it may have to meet. That's to encourage our domestic oil industry to constantly find and develop new fields in the Western hemisphere, WHERE WE CAN GET AT THEM IF WE NEED THEM"

The foresight of those words has become increasingly evident in recent years, especially during the Arab oil embargo when imports of crude oil dropped from over 32 million barrels in November, 1973 to only 552,000 barrels in February, 1974. Simultaneously, the price of some foreign oil rose to more than 400 percent above 1972 levels. Had we listened to petroleum industry leaders instead of dismissing their admonitions as self-serving, "Project Independence" would have begun years ago, and the effects of unstable foreign energy supplies on the US economy would have been minimized.

According to an American Petroleum Institute spokesman, the US must speed up the search for offshore oil and natural gas if it is to meet its energy needs until 1985 when alternative sources of energy onshore, but production from existing onshore fields has peaked and is now on a declining curve. The time element is crucial. If the call for a national energy policy that encourages domestic exploration and development is taken lightly, we may not have the chance. For "... every day's delay in making leases available means a day's delay in finding and producing the energy the nation must have."

Growing Timber Resources

Despite our status as an industrial nation, majestic forest lands still carpet the United States. Modern forestry practices preserve and promote the growth of this valuable renewable resource by merging sophisticated technology and equipment with genetically-superior seeds, fertilizer and selective thinning. The result is a veritable growth explosion in the forests of the West, Northeast, Midwest and South.

The forest products industry owns only 16 percent of all commercial timberlands, yet it accounts for some two thirds of our wood-based products. As a major timber company report substantiates, a forest under modern management can yield a much greater volume of fiber from faster growing and better quality trees. In fact, this company's scientifically-developed, six-month-old seedlings ready for planting in areas to be reforested are generally about eight times the size of a year-old wild tree. Under the multiple-use concept, carefully-managed "wilderness areas," inaccessible to all but a few hikers and backpackers.

If the U.S. is to remain a leading wood producer, it is essential that there be intensive management of forest lands based on scientific harvesting, processing and reforestation. The burgeoning demand for wood products leaves the nation no other choice.

Hurricane George! For Mens Lib

It had to happen someday, but was anyone really prepared for "men's lib"? It seems the struggle for sexual equality has now assumed a new meaning for American males.

In response to the women's liberation movement, many men are taking a second look at traditional "female jobs." The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission reports that male charges of sex discrimination are on the rise, and some men are stepping into new careers as nurses, airline stewards, clerical personnel and telephone operators. Some groups feel that divorce laws must be revised because they are unfair to ex-husbands. Indeed, the entire concept of masculinity is being challenged.

Where it will end is anyone's guess, but don't be surprised if your newspaper someday carries an article deploring the destruction evoked by Father Nature as "Hurricane George" roared in off the Gulf of Mexico—it will only be men's lib at work.

Why Not Heat Your Home With Cow Burps?

from Farmers Almanac

"Burping cows must rank as the No. 1 source of air pollution in the U.S.," said the DuPont News last winter. This little tongue-in-cheek conclusion was based on a rather startling true fact: namely, that an Environmental Protection Agency ecologist determined that cows burp 50,000,000 tons of hydro-carbons into the atmosphere annually. Further ten cows burp enough gas annually to provide heat, hot water, and cooking gas requirements for a small home.

What next? Perhaps a bovine burp emission control system. . .

SOMERSET, "Commonwealth-Journal"—"When Australia adopted the metric system a few years ago, the changeover was not without its unexpected pitfalls. For example, one irate letter writer complained to an editor: "Since eggs went metric they have been pale in yolk color and lacking in freshness. This clearly shows that (chickens) cannot adjust to laying different-size eggs. We tamper with nature at our peril."

FEARLESS FORECAST

October 17, 1974

The new Moon in the water sign Scorpio should make good fishing the rest of the day, the last chance until next Tuesday. Four concrete and it will set up good, do your painting today and it will cover to suit you. Get a haircut and it will grow back fast. If you move in to a new home you will stay a long time.

October 18th

The Moon went in to the fire sign Sagittarius early this morning so start thinking about that dental appointment and get those bad teeth out today or tomorrow and the gums should heal quickly. Check your newspaper for food sales you should be able to make some economical food purchases this weekend.

If you have been wanting a pet make the selection today or tomorrow and you will be well pleased with your choice.

October 19th

Mercury trines Jupiter early this morning so anyone involved in an auction should be satisfied, the seller with the price and the bidder with the purchase, also a good time to buy a new car or to shop around for some economical food purchases and store some extras for winter. The Moon sextiles Venus and Mars this evening so you can expect a loving good time tonight.

October 20th

The Moon goes in to the earth sign Capricorn at mid morning and makes harmonious aspects all day, the almanac predicts the weather to be fair and cold in our area this Sunday so it would be nice to just go home after church and spend a congenial day with the family and let the politicians worry about the world situation and coming elections.

October 21st

Start the week out right by doing some home baking while the yeast dough will rise high, the Sun conjunction Uranus at 4 p.m. will call for a surprise and you will have yours ready. This is a poor day for traveling so stay close to home if possible, be extra cautious if you are out about 10 p.m.

October 22nd

Don't plan any group activities today as all the aspects are disharmonious. The Moon squares Venus and Mars at mid day and Uranus at 5 p.m. If your partner is moody and irritable and inclined to rash acts at noon try to be patient, the evening will bring a lot of nervous tension but tomorrow will be a pleasant day and the right time to discuss any difference of opinion.

October 23rd

The Moon went in to the fixed air sign Aquarius last night and makes good aspects today so why not do some more home baking in the morning and make a friendly call on a friend after lunch, maybe take along some of the fresh baked goodies to go with the coffee. This is a safe day to travel and a good time to ask for a favor especially from a politician.

Three chapters have been selected to represent Kentucky in the National FFA Judging Contests. The teams selected are Taylor County in Livestock Judging, Shelby County in Dairy Judging, and Scott County in Meat Judging. These teams were selected after their respective contests during the 1974 Kentucky State Fair.

Derek Phelps, State FFA Reporter from Laurel County, has been selected to serve in the National FFA Reporters Corps. Each year several outstanding FFA members are selected from applications to serve as National Reporters Corps members.

Persons selected to serve on the 1974 National Courtesy Corps from Kentucky are: Jeff McClain, Taylorsville; Gary McLaughrey, Taylorsville; David Neal, Taylorsville; Rodney Jeffries, Taylorsville. Also selected were Kenneth Gentry, Teacher of Agriculture, Bullitt Central, and H. A. Middleton, Teacher at Taylorsville. The Kentucky FFA Courtesy Corps members will join the over 100 Courtesy Corps members from across our country in greeting guest and assisting FFA members attending the National Convention.

Kelley, State Director of Agribusiness Education, Frankfort, reports vocational agriculture instructors over the state indicate that Kentucky's attendance at the convention will total over 375 with over 80 local chapters being represented.

Candidate Kyle Hubbard Campaigns In Northern Ky.

Kyle Hubbard and Bonnie Hagedorn, Democratic Headquarters Chairman, boarding TANK bus to visit Woodpoint Nursing Home.

Kyle Hubbard, Democratic candidate for the 4th District Congressional seat now held by Gene Snyder, spent two days this week visiting and talking with Boone Countyans in their own communities. Accompanied by State Representative Bill McBee, Hubbard met with citizens in Walton, Petersburg, Rabbit Hash, Verona, Hebron, and other areas. Stops were made at local business places, post offices, and banks where Hubbard talked with the voters and listened to their opinions on government and the economy.

During a visit with residents of Woodpoint Nursing Home, Hubbard noted that his opponent, Gene Snyder, had voted against all 10 proposals recommended by the National Council of Senior Citizens in the last session of Congress. His voting record showed that Snyder gave a negative vote to such legislation as a rollback in prices, rents, and interest rates and a Federal Aid to Highways Act that would have provided aid to mass transit system; Hubbard stated his concern for the elderly in these times of economic stress and promised to be a champion of Senior Citizens' rights if elected on November 5th.

Hubbard will be campaigning in Boone County frequently during the last days before the election.

Snake Used As Telephone Coin

The sealed telephone coin boxes were being opened with routine efficiency at Cincinnati Bell, their contents poured onto the plate of a counting machine. Nickels, dimes, quarters, and . . . a snake. That broke the routine for Coin.

Clark Ken Brown of 650 Wayshin Drive, Kenton County.

Alive, uninjured and seemingly content to lie among the coins, the snake stared back at Ken. About 10 to 12 inches long, and a garden variety, the snake accepted its role as an oddity until later in the morning when it was set free in a grassy area along the Ohio River.

Unsolved was the mystery of how it came to be in a coin box. Charley Kilduff, public manager, said the box came from a public telephone outside the Hebron, Ky. fire house.

But for a snake, even one no thicker than a pencil, to follow the path of a coin from the coin slot, down past several sensing devices and triggers, into the small steel box, well . . . as Charley said, it must have been Super Snake!

Boone County Democratic Headquarters

Boone County Democratic Headquarters, 263 Main Street in Florence, is open Monday through Friday from 10:00 a.m. until 3 in the afternoon. The headquarters is the nerve center for the Democratic Party for the November 5th Election; voters are welcome to come in or call for voting information, information on the candidates, and tickets and information on upcoming events in the county.

Bonnie Hagedorn, Headquarters Chairman, states that volunteers are needed for all types of campaign work. Please call her at headquarters if you would like to help. The numbers are 371-3371 and 371-3370. There is a playroom available for mothers who would like to bring their preschool children. The headquarters is available for precinct workers and Democrat groups to use as a meeting place. You need not come to headquarters to help in the campaign; you can work from your home and from your business.

As the November 5th Election nears, more and more volunteers will be needed, and the headquarters will be open longer hours. Men and women who can work in the evening are especially urged to call and volunteer their time.

Time Change on October 27

County residents will move their clocks back one hour when this area returns to Eastern Standard Time at 2 a.m., October 27.

This is the same time zone the county was in prior to January 6, 1974.

Gov. Wendell Ford successfully petitioned the US Department of Transportation to have Kentucky's former time zones reestablished the last Sunday of this month.

The Governor stressed the action was necessary for two reasons:

- (1) An amendment by the Congress to the Emergency Daylight Saving Time Energy Conservation Act of 1973, signed by the President, calls for three time changes in Kentucky in the next six months. Ford said this action by the federal government would cause "undue hardship and confusion on the people."
- (2) Next April, Kentucky's time zones would have automatically been returned to their former status because of federal law.

"What this really amounts to is that I asked the Secretary of Transportation to do now, what would have automatically happened on April 27 under federal law. However, with the time change taking place in October, the people of Kentucky will not be unfairly burdened," Ford said.

The Governor added that Kentucky counties bordering other states will be the same time as the neighboring state.

Walton Receives $380,000 Grant

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston was pleased to announce that the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) has approved a grant of $380,000 under the Rural Development program to the City of Walton in Boone County, Kentucky, to supplement a previous loan of $1,096,000 to complete funding of its waste collection and treatment system project.

House Bill 338 made available funds that were necessary for Walton to go ahead with the building of a sewer system. Until that time, Walton was under a building ban imposed by the Board of Health because of the dangerous health conditions caused by inadequate sewer facilities.

"The plant, which is expected to be in operation by late 1975 or early in 1976, will be built just west of I-75 on the Stephenson Mill Road, Walton."

Construction of Walton's long-awaited municipal sewer system is expected to get under way early next week, weather permitting.

City officials said that machines and materials have arrived on the site and that work is expected to begin as soon as possible.

Walton plans to install a new sewage collection system and provide an extended aeration treatment plant to serve the entire corporate area which is basically a residential community with retail business establishments. Some 525 users will be served by the improved facility.

Financing of sewer system projects supportive of rural community development is provided under the Rural Development Act of 1972 by the Farmers Home Administration, a Department of Agriculture rural credit service. Benefits of the program are made available without regard to race, color, sex, creed, or national origin.

The City Council will meet in special session October 29 to sell $820,000 worth of bonds to complete financial arrangements for the $2.9 million project, a city spokesman said.

Contracts for the program were signed last August between the city and the contractors who will do the work.

Walton Verona Open House

Monday Oct. 28 is a date the parent of every Walton-Verona school student should mark on his calendar.

This is the date of the Walton-Verona Schools Open House to be held at the Verona Elementary School. But don't let the location fool you. The event is not just for the parents of elementary school children. Both elementary and high school teachers will be present with some pretty exciting presentations, demonstrations and exhibits.

The purpose of the event is involvement and interaction, and W-V educators are centering the happening around a spirit of celebration of the cause of education.

At 8:00 p.m., after the regularly scheduled PTA at 7:30, the Open House will begin with visitors touring the high school section, where all departments will be represented, or the elementary section where parents may visit grades 1-6.

Guides will be provided so that parents will be able to see everything or find whatever section they wish.

Refreshments will be served following the program and teachers will be available to answer any questions or to chat with any visitors who desire to do so.

In short, the event is designed to give interested parents an inside look at what goes on inside your schools, the materials used and the methods used to teach your children.

Fegenbush and Herbet Elected to PCA Board

Leslie Herbet, Butler, Kentucky was reelected to First Kentucky PCA Board of Directors at a series of sectional annual stockholder meetings held at Louisville, Owenton, Butler and Verona.

Mr. Herbet has served as a director for 15 years and presently is Vice Chairman of the Board. He is a dairy and tobacco farmer in Pendleton County.

James W. Fegenbush, Jr., Shelbyville, Kentucky was also elected as a member of the PCA Board. Mr. Fegenbush replaces retiring board member Sam K. Crawford, who was Chairman of the Board. Mr. Fegenbush and his brother, Ed, have a hog and beef program on their 310 acre Shelby County Farm, along with a "Pick your own Fruit and Vegetable" operation.

Stockholders Meeting

Mr. Edwin Orem, President of First Kentucky P.C.A. is presenting Rita Ryan with her one year service award. Rita has served as a secretary at the Walton office since June 15, 1973.

Entertainment was provided at both Annual Meetings by a group from the First Baptist Church of Walton called the "One Way Singers."

"In reviewing our history I find that this association has loaned more money in the last 5 years than we did in our first 35 years." This was one of the many informative comments made by Mr. Edwin Orem, President and Secretary-Treasurer of First Kentucky Production Credit Association at the 40th Annual Stockholders' Meeting. Mr. Orem also stated that he had a goal of providing a variety of member services in the future to completely support the credit service they provide. By doing so, members will be able to borrow money for the same cost as it's to the association. First Kentucky PCA currently operates at less than 4 of meeting place. You need not come to headquarters to help in the campaign; you can work from your home and from your business.

As the November 5th Election nears, more and more volunteers will be needed, and the headquarters will be open longer hours. Men and women who can work in the evening are especially urged to call and volunteer their time.

Two meetings were held for members of the Walton office. The first meeting was held Oct. 11th at Northern Elementary School at Butler with Mr. Robert Huck presiding. There were 114 people present at this meeting. Members voted on candidates to fill two director positions within this association. Mr. Herbet, Vice-Chairman of the board of directors, in his directors' report challenged members to express their opinions on new member services such as the proposed equipment leasing business.

The second meeting was held at the Walton-Verona Elementary School on Oct. 12th with Mr. Carl Parker presiding. The results of the nominating committee election and directors' election were announced. Walton's representative on the nominating committee will be Charles Richardson and his alternate is Buell Shields. The directors' election results were Mr. Leslie Herbet representing the Walton Office and Mr. James Fegenbush Jr. of Shelbyville, Ky. representing the Shelbyville office.

Both meetings featured turkey dinners, door prizes and entertainment by the "One Way Singers". Mr. Orem suggested that members "learn more about their coop and tell their friends of the many services provided".

Tickets for the event are for sale per person and include music, dinner, beverages, and the opportunity to meet personally with all the Democratic candidates running for office in the 4th District.

Bid Packages Awarded For State Horse Park

The first two construction bid packages have been awarded for the new $25 million Kentucky State Horse Park in Lexington, according to an announcement by Gov. Wendell H. Ford.

Norwood Construction Co., Lexington, was the successful bidder for clearing the site. Their demolition procedures will include the removal of residence foundations, garages, barns and outbuildings located on the grounds. The cost of this project is $3,890.

Central Contracting, Inc., Nicholasville, received a $176,910 contract for modifications and additions to the farm's stables and chutes. This work includes site grading, landscaping and construction of a judges stand.

The park is located on the former Walnut Hall Farm on Iron Works Pike, north of Lexington. The site, containing 963 acres, will have 28 new buildings, plus 11 buildings presently located there that will be renovated. The park will have a utility complex with its own sewage treatment plant, a new road system and fire station.

A master plan for the horse park was adopted by the architects and community leaders. Development will be based upon that plan.

A total of 41 bid packages are planned and the park is scheduled for completion by July 1976.

The architectural firm of Chrisman, Miller and Wallace, Lexington, is supervising the project.

Insurance Co. Passed Five Billion Mark

According to R. B. Condon, General Agent for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha in Kentucky, the five billion dollar milestone is a record unequalled by any other company in the individual and family health insurance field.

Mr. Condon said that benefit payments to policyowners in Kentucky were at an all-time high and reached $1,243,880 for the first eight months of 1974, contributing to the company's record. Benefits to residents in Kentucky to help pay health care bills now total a record $58,942,840.

TIME FOR SOUL SEARCHING BY POLITICIANS

Politicians are going full speed ahead here in the area. What with Marlow Cook and Gene Snyder calling out the big guns in the way of President Ford, as Governor Ford and Kyle Hubbard breath down their neck in the race for the Big Prize — a seat in Kentucky's government.
 President Ford, has a thankless job ahead and did make some pretty good telling points as to economy, veto proof Congress and the two party system in his speech in Louisville, October 19. Cook pointed out the danger of losing a G.O.P. Senate seat to the Democrats. Gene Snyder, however, was a disappointment.
 He provided the old emotional clichés that have been around since Governor Wallace of Alabama first campaign. Some of the elected Republicans sitting in their first class seats were even shouting "Amen, Brother, Amen."
 It is time Kentucky grew above the prejudice that a good politician can inspire and realize that we are a people in trouble. Now is the time to pull together, as a people and as a nation, not tear asunder in order to promote ANY political party.
 The time for emotionalism is fast running out. Depression, unemployment, fuel shortage and even starvation are facing the people of the United States. We are beginning to take for granted the fact that there is not enough meat, fuel, grain, jobs, and housing to go around. This from a nation that has had the highest living standard of any nation in the world.
 It should be too much to ask any of our elected officials to lay down the club of political ambitions and realize that they are working for ALL the people, regardless of race, color or religious beliefs. They are being well paid to make the decisions that will better our nation and help to overcome the troubled times we are facing. Perhaps a little serious thought to the hazards that our nation is facing and a little soul searching by all the people is the only REVOLUTION we need to make this once more the Greatest Nation in recorded history.

SENATOR MARLOW COOK NOVEMBER 5

Top Kentucky FFA Members Are Sought

The 1974 Future Farmers of America Contest, sponsored by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, is underway throughout Kentucky, and $1,500 in U.S. Savings Bonds await the top winners.

The annual contest, designed to recognize outstanding achievement by Kentucky FFA members, is a public service of the two Louisville daily newspapers and is conducted in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Education's Division of Vocational Agriculture.

The FFA member named state champion in the contest will receive a $500 U.S. Savings Bond. Ten regional runners-up will each receive a $100 savings bond.

The 11 winners, their parents and FFA advisors will be guests of honor at the newspapers' annual Farm Awards Luncheon in Louisville next March. The winners will receive their awards at the luncheon.

Each FFA chapter in Kentucky is to choose its top member in the contest. Each chapter winner will receive a wooden plaque symbolic of his achievement. Chapters with 100 per cent member participation will receive special recognition certificates.

The deadline for entering the competition is Nov. 1, 1974. FFA members may obtain contest brochures and entry forms from their vocational agriculture teachers, all of whom in Kentucky have been sent the materials.

Farming Production

In a recent national survey, 4 people in 10 said they thought there would be a food shortage in the US 10 years from now.

They have a legitimate concern unless farming is profitable enough to keep farmers in business. In the past, about 100,000 farmers a year have gone out of business. There are fewer farmers today than ever before in our history and more people to feed. Never have so many been dependent on so few.

Greater abundance is the key to lower consumer prices, and farmers, by nature like to produce all they can. The way to bring down the price of food in the supermarket is to let the farmer make a profit producing it.

The opportunity to earn profit is what the farming business is all about. It's the only road to abundant production, which is the best antidote for inflation.

You're both right and wrong. Yes, there are fewer farms in Kentucky but each one is more important than ever before. Never have so many people been so dependent on so few.

It's rather strange that those who cite a drop in the number of farms as a signifying a declining agriculture, don't say the airline industry is declining because a 747 Jumbo Jet carries 10 times as many passengers as the old DC3.

In America we have about 2,800,000 farms half as many as in 1950. But today's farms are larger and more efficient. They're producing record crops for American consumers and our food has become a bargaining agent for world peace.

BREAKING GROUNDS

News reports from across the country indicate strongly that consumers and farmers alike were sickened by the recent televised slaughter of baby calves in Wisconsin.

There's little doubt that Kentucky livestock producers are also sick of the price situation at cattle sales but the vast majority agree that such publicity stunts by a few radical individuals can only cause harm to the farm community.

All Americans, not just cattle growers or factory workers or retired people but all Americans are being affected by inflation and increasing prices across the board. But we can be thankful that other groups whether farmers laborers or businessmen, have reacted in ways much more constructive than those few knife-wielding butchers who made the evening news.

It is clear that there is no magic formula whereby farm prices for cattle are doubled, supermarket beef prices are cut in half and every American eats 25 per cent more beef than he did last year. The farmer faces an extremely difficult task in maintaining his credibility when he tells a housewife he can't raise cattle at today's livemarket prices. Her answer, many times, is that today's retail prices are such that she can't afford to buy as much beef as she did two years ago, and that she won't increase buying until prices come down.

Such is the ironic situation today. Consumers say they can't afford to buy beef because they feel it is a high-priced item. Farmers, on the other hand, know they can't continue to raise cattle and lose money.

With such a confusing and contradictory scenario, a recent memo from the American Farm Bureau concerning the current livestock situation may help to put the various problems in perspective.

The farm organization's livestock analysts said:

- This very difficult period for livestock producers started with last year's government price ceiling actions.

- Current feeder and slaughter livestock prices are not covering production costs, and growers continue to face a serious loss position in their operations. More and more are discontinuing operation and meat shortages are a very real possibility in the period ahead.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, it has come to my attention that each year at Halloween time the begging by children, young people, and in some cases, adults is on increase.

Many homes have been visited at least a week in advance of Halloween. We do not object to children enjoying this season of the year, but feel that it is being overdone.

Therefore, I do proclaim October 31 as begging night in Walton, Kentucky, hours 6:00 p.m. till 9:00 p.m.

I ask all home owners or residents of our town not to issue treats of any kind until the above date.

Sam Gamble, Mayor
City of Walton, Ky.

New Hog Buying Market Opens

The E. Kahn's Sons Company, Cincinnati, has expanded its hog buying operations so that farmers can sell their hogs direct to Kahn's at the Cincinnati Stockyards, located conveniently to all hog farmers in the Tri-State area.

Farmers can now sell their hogs directly to Kahn's, the end user, getting the maximum price possible. All prices quoted will be net to the farmer, with no yardage fees.

Livestock will be received at the stockyards, located adjacent to the Kahn's plant at 3241 Spring Grove Avenue, Cincinnati, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Hogs will be weighed five days a week from 8:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. The Stockyards are easily accessible from all directions via the interstate highways, I-71, I-75, and I-74.

"Here at Kahn's there is never any lack of demand for high quality hogs," said David Spaeth, Kahn's head buyer.

"We will pay special attention to high quality hogs with premiums paid over the basic market price for better hogs. No advance arrangements are necessary," he said.

Liquid Cattle Feed

Check-R-Lix
Liquid Supplement
from Purina

"Purina..."

...dedicated to providing beef producers with 'the best there is' nutritional products and programs.

BENEFITS TO CONSIDER

LABOR-SAVING is a big item. The Purina Check-R-Lix program features self-feeding. Plus Purina Dealers can supply the necessary lick tanks, and keep them properly serviced and supplied with feed.

COST-SAVING. This is another feature of liquid feeds. Liquid urea is the ingredient that not only makes the product possible, but also holds down the cost. Most liquid supplements cost less than dry supplements of the same protein level.

SAFE TO USE. Even though Purina Liquid Supplements are much higher in urea than dry feeds, they are safe to use if fed according to directions and in mechanically approved feeders. In addition, certain ingredients tend to limit consumption. When grass is plentiful and of good quality, consumption decreases.

VERSATILITY. Check-R-Lix can be fed to cattle on pasture or range; being wintered on hay or corn silage; and when they are gleaming harvested corn fields. A word of caution—liquid supplements should not be fed with silage already containing urea or other non-protein additives.

PURINA KNOW-HOW. When you choose Purina Check-R-Lix, you have the backing of Purina's Research and development. Purina recommends feeding Livestock Mineral along with Check-R-Lix in order to assure an adequate supply of certain insolubles (calcium, for instance) which do not mix well in liquid.

HERE IS MORE INFORMATION ON CHECK-R-LIX

Some stockmen feed cubes or blocks because they want to check the herd regularly. They feed and observe at the same time. This is an ideal way of managing the herd and part of good management.

If you already have a successful dry supplemental range or pasture feeding program, why change it? Some cattlemen, however, cannot or do not want to spend a lot of time in the field but their cattle still need a well balanced diet. Self-feeding Purina Check-R-Lix is the answer.

BENEFITS AND FEATURES OF CHECK-R-LIX

1. Ingredients are tested and selected for stability and availability to cattle.
2. Takes full advantage of economics available in liquid supplement. Major ingredients are in their natural liquid form.
3. Specially formulated to avoid gelling or settling out.
4. Nutritional balance in Check-R-Lix helps activate rumen organisms.
5. Adds palatability to the entire ration.
6. Reduces dustiness, stimulates intake, cuts wind-blown, as it holds the mix together. Cattle can not sort out and waste ingredients.
7. Engineered for low labor handling.
 - a. Homogenous liquid solution.
 - b. Can be pumped and handled easily under all climatic conditions with proper equipment.
 - c. Mixes smoothly with grain, grain and roughage or it can be top dressed and fed free choice.
8. Excellent for supplementing high grain rations.
9. Excellent for range, pasture, stalks and stubble. Can be fed in low cost lick tanks for minimum labor and economical supplementation.

Purina's Check-R-Lix, developed by Ralston Purina Research will provide top quality nutrition for range or pasture feeding when fed according to directions. Check-R-Lix is not intended to replace dry supplements now being fed, but rather to provide an alternative—another way of getting the job done for the man who feels that the specific advantages of feeding a liquid supplement are for him.

Check-R-Lix Lick Tanks Are Available at FEDDERS FEED CO.

First Black Woman Hired As Ky. Police Instructor

FRANKFORT—The first black woman to be hired as a police instructor in the history of American law enforcement education recently joined the staff of the Kentucky Justice Department's Bureau of Training at Richmond.

The woman Mrs. Donna H. Morton of Lexington was named only a few weeks ago by Training Commissioner Robert Clark Stone as an instructor—coordinator in the bureau's law enforcement training division.

As an instructor—coordinator Morton is responsible not only for teaching but also for drawing up lesson plans and programs in all phases of law enforcement including courses in traffic, crowd and crime control.

"It's a big breakthrough for Kentucky and the nation, and it definitely bolsters the gains women are making in areas that used to exclude them," Stone said. "But what's even more important than the precedent-setting nature of her appointment are the qualifications she brings to us."

Morton served from 1969-74 in the Lexington Metro Police Department working in juvenile detective records communications and traffic divisions. During that five-year period she also took a number of police education courses in such things as accident investigation and breathalyzer testing.

"The job represents a great opportunity for me to help other (police) officers update and upgrade their skills and knowledge. Policing is rapidly changing, so there's a definite need for all of us to keep on top of new techniques and procedures," she said.

"Just in the last few weeks I have learned about new ways of doing things through my researching and planning for classes," she added.

Morton is a lifelong resident of Lexington. A graduate of Henry Clay High School, she received a degree in biology from Kentucky State University in 1971 and currently is working part-time toward a masters degree in criminal justice at Eastern Kentucky University.

She is a member of the Fraternal Order of Police Kentucky Police Officers' Association, Kentucky Patrolman's Association and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

She is married to Herbert L. Morton of the Lexington Police Department. They have one child, a daughter, named Jerrel Karen.

Family Grant Program

The Kentucky Department for Human Resources, Bureau of Social Insurance, will begin taking applications October 16 for the new Individual and Family Grant Program which is designed to provide financial assistance to victims of the April tornadoes.

Tornado victims in Boone County who think they may be eligible for a grant under this program should contact the local Bureau for Social Insurance office at No. 1 Elsdene Building in Florence, Ky.; phone 371-6900. Applications will be accepted from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Deadline for making the application is December 15, 1974.

Individuals and families must make application in their county of residence when the tornado struck.

After the application is filed it will be sent to Frankfort where it will be reviewed by a Review Board which makes the final decision.

Any questions that you may have about your application should be directed to one of the following people: Mr. Elmer Beckett, 502-564-7163, Mrs. Jeanne Beckett, 502-564-4798, The Ombudsman 1-800-372-2875, and Mr. Dan Prater 502-564-4574.

Kenton Co. Vocational School To Open '75

Kenton County school officials have set the beginning of the 1975-76 school year as the date to accept students in the new Kenton County Vocational School.

The structure will serve vocational students from Simon Kenton High School as well as other students from both public and parochial schools in Kenton County.

Supt. Don Davis has informed board members that workers are sealing the roof with hot tar over composition paper to protect the corrugated steel.

The $1.2 million structure, he said, will be completed by February if all goes according to schedule. Then, he reported, equipment will be installed.

The building, on the Turkeyfoot Junior High School campus, will have capacity for 720 students in morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

KAAAA To Meet

The Woman Problem Drinker will be the subject of one of several workshops featured during the annual meeting of the Kentucky Association on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, Inc. (KAAAA) scheduled for Nov. 1-3 at the Galt House in Louisville.

The association is composed of professionals and nonprofessionals interested in the prevention and treatment of alcoholism. Seminars are held by KAAAA to educate the public on the citizen's role in helping the "chronic alcoholic" and the potential alcoholic.

Other topics to be discussed at the KAAAA meeting include rational behavior therapy, sober-up-station (SUD) services, Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon concepts, alcohol and industry and aftercare and follow-up.

Vernon Johnson, director of the Johnson Institute in Minneapolis and author of the best seller, I'LL QUIT TOMORROW, will be the keynote speaker. The Johnson Institute is a 24-hour residential treatment center for alcoholics.

Ray Daugherty, formerly with SID in Lexington, is the newly appointed executive director of KAAAA. He will conduct the workshop on SID.

Founded in 1973, KAAAA is a non-profit organization that supports prevention through education and rehabilitation within organized treatment programs. Meetings are open to all interested citizens.

Veterans News

The Veterans Administration continues to lead all federal agencies in employment of Vietnam era veterans.

Administrator Richard L. Roudsbush reports 24,486 Vietnam era veterans were on the VA rolls August 1. This represents 11 per cent of the total VA work force, almost double the average for all federal agencies. The VA hiring average is 1,400 each month.

Vietnam era veterans included 5,954 who were hired under the Veterans Readjustment Authority inaugurated by the President in 1970. The program offers employment, coupled with job training or education, in helping the veteran make the transition to civilian life. The VA has made 20,850 VRA appointments through August 1.

Roudsbush said 30 percent of the Vietnam era veteran employees were members of minority groups and minority VRA appointees totaled 41 per cent.

There are more than 88,000 veterans of all wars employed by the VA. Among 105,000 male employees, 74 per cent are veterans. Women employees have increased almost 16,000 in the past three years to a total of 103,000.

Vietnam era veterans continue to hold positions of increasing responsibility within the VA. Earlier this year Robert L. Winters was named director of the Des Moines regional office, the first Vietnam veteran to direct one of the VA's 58 field offices.

Almost 18,000 Vietnam era veterans hold positions within the Department of Medicine and Surgery, the majority at the VA's 171 hospitals. More than 50 per cent of the physicians assistants are Vietnam era veterans, as are almost 10 per cent of the physicians.

Vietnam era veterans make up 98 per cent of the 1,300 Vet Reps serving on college campuses this fall as counselors to veteran students. Almost all have bachelor degrees and a significant number have graduate degrees.

Commission on Women to Hold Public Hearings

The Kentucky Commission on Women will hold the first of a series of public hearings at the Warren County Courthouse in Bowling Green, Thursday, Nov. 7, from 7 to 9 p.m.

According to Marie Abrams, Chairperson of the commission, the hearings will focus on problems women face in securing equal employment, salary, credit, insurance, housing and child care.

Women from government and business will be speaking during the first hour. Women attending the hearings will have an opportunity to let the commission know of their problems. Any information a woman wishes to be held in confidence will be honored and forms will be available for such input. Adequate child care will be available for women who bring their children.

Carol Smith, executive director of the commission, said, "We hope to see as many women as possible from Warren and surrounding counties attend this first and most important hearing." Hearings in other parts of the state will be held in coming months to give all Kentuckians an opportunity to discuss problems facing women, she said.

For further information, contact the Commission on Women, 212 Washington St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

God's Concern For Justice
(Amos 5:10-15; 8:4-6)

It is said that in the Philadelphia mint there is a pair of scales so extremely sensitive that if a sheet of paper is placed in the pan and the scales balanced, and the paper is then removed and a name written thereon with pencil, that the added weight will send that pan down. The scripture teaches that God will bring every work into judgment. A day of reckoning is coming; we must all be weighed in the balances of God. The great Judge is just, and there can be no change in his judgment. God is concerned for justice in his world. Amos lived during the mid-eighteenth century B.C. This was a time of unprecedented prosperity and consequent corruption. Amos was a sensitive soul. Someone said of him that he could hear the voice of God in the roar of a lion; that he could see the action of God in the fall of a bird; that he could perceive the judgment of God in the destruction of a city wall. The Distorted Conduct, Amos 5:10-13. The gate of the ancient city was the place where decisions of justice were made. But then, as now, distortion and unfairness prevailed. This perversion of justice had been rebuked, but the one who did the rebuking came to be hated. The one who spoke the truth was despised.

THE BANK OF CRITTENDEN
CRITTENDEN, KENTUCKY
"THE FRIENDLY BANK"

Those in position of leadership and wealth made it a practice of trampling the poor. It was the old story of getting to the top by walking over the people who could not help themselves. Those in position to do so were exacting from the poor to pad their own purses. They built for themselves the finest homes with the wealth they had taken unjustly from the poor people. They had planted vineyards so they would have wine to drink. God's word through Amos to them is that they will not live in their houses made of hewn stone. Neither will they drink the wine of their vineyards. Amos knew that such distorted conduct eventually brings down God's judgment on a people.

Their many transgressions are taking place behind the counters and with measurements and weights the people cannot detect. Ah, but there is One who knows "your manifold transgressions, and your mighty sins." These sins known to God included the following: "they take a bribe; they afflict the just; they turn away the poor in the gate from their right." Does this have a modern-day ring to it? Is it as easy for the poor in our day to get justice as for the wealthy and positioned?

Verse 13 is difficult to determine its intention. It is probably spoken in sarcasm referring to the practice of keeping silent in a time when justice demanded that somebody speak up.

The prophet is not content merely to condemn. He has a word from the Lord about the cure.

The Divine Cure, Amos 5:14-15. All men need to hear and heed this divine counsel: "Seek good, and not evil." Life at its highest and best is found in commitment and surrender to the will of God. In verse 4 of this chapter God says, "Seek ye me, and ye shall live." Life is found in God. Jesus said, "I have come to give life and to give it more abundantly." "It is God's will and concern for people that they live life with a capital 'L'." Those who feel that God's way is dull and dead don't know God as they ought to know Him!

Evil is the enemy of man. It should call forth a holy hatred from the heart of man. Evil would destroy your life. It would destroy your home, your family. Evil would snatch your child from your arms and destroy it. The best way to combat evil is to do good. Seek God. Love the good, and establish justice in the gate.

My neighbor Marty is a certified public accountant. He is also an assistant scoutmaster. And treasurer of the Civic Association. Hard worker for local charities. And—oh yes—Marty is a Saturday morning bricklayer. He can build a mighty fine wall to set off that patio he put in last summer.

You'd think that a man so capable and versatile wouldn't feel dependent on anybody or anything. Not so.

It is usually the folks like Marty—the ready, willing and able ones—who are first to recognize their spiritual needs. Nor are they ashamed to admit their dependence on God—and His Church. You'll hear Marty and his wife give credit to their religious beliefs for the strength of their marriage and for the ideals that inspire their family life.

In fact, it's Sunday morning, rather than Saturday, when they do their most important building. How about joining them at church time?

Productivity Step-Up Vital;
Let's All Roll Up Our Sleeves

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

In his message on the economy to the Congress and the American people on Oct. 8th, President Ford expressed concern over Federal rules and regulations that impose "too many hidden and too many inflationary costs on our economy. He outlined a four-point program "aimed at a substantial purging process." Such an effort is long overdue. In a recent column I mentioned the red tape burden businesses must carry, in turn passing on the dollar cost of this overhead to you, the consumer. Elimination of only an inchhigh stack of business paperwork now required by the government would save you money at the cash register.

President Ford mentioned the National Commission on Productivity and Word Quality, recently revitalized by Congressional action. Because every citizen is directly affected by the actual work output of every other American, I want to quote from the Commission's July report to the President and Congress.

"Productivity improvement must be high on the Nation's economic agenda because it is vital to three critical problems of the economy.

"First, productivity improvement is vital to lessening inflationary pressures on prices of goods and services to consumers for the long term.

A high rate of growth in output per manhour allows wages and salaries to be increased without raising unit labor costs and prices of goods and services. More efficient use of energy, materials, and capital makes it possible to offset the rising price of these inputs.

By lessening long-term inflationary pressures through productivity improvements, we can help reverse the erosion of real incomes and living standards.

"Second, productivity improvement is vital to maintaining the long-run competitive position of the United States in the international economy. The lag in the growth rate of US manufacturing productivity over the past decade is one of the factors that has weakened the ability of American industry to compete with foreign producers both at home and abroad. While devaluation and sharply rising labor costs abroad have improved the trade balance, the basic problem of a slower growth rate in output per manhour remains. An increase in the rate of productivity improvements could safeguard jobs and attract capital investments from abroad to create more jobs for American workers.

"Third, productivity improvement is vital to improving the morale and quality of work and to facilitating a more satisfying work experience for both employees and managers. Jobs with modernized, highly productive technology, in organizations designed to involve the worker's intelligence and participation can lead to greater pride in good workmanship, improved job performance, and higher productivity.

Improved relations between labor and management can make an important contribution to morale and work quality.

"The broad objective of productivity improvement and enhancement of the morale and quality of work can be pursued through a wide range of activities in many sectors of the economy. Many factors affect productivity growth, including the advance of technology, growth of capital investment, improvements in the skill and education of the work force, and improvements in the effectiveness of managements."

Congress Completes Action On Campaign-Financing Bill

Congress has cleared a campaign reform bill dropping a provision Senator Marlow had opposed because it would needlessly cost taxpayers more than $100 million to carry out.

Senator Cook, who brought the $105 million price tag of that provision to the attention of his colleagues in early May, said he was pleased that the final version eliminated a requirement for audits of the income tax returns of all federal employees earning $20,000 or more annually.

The Oct. 8 Senate tally of 60 for and 16 against the bill was followed by a House of Representatives vote sending it to the President to be signed.

Cook said the measure, intended to remove the influence of large contributors to political campaigns, sets a $1,000 limit on contributions by individuals to any one candidate in each federal electionprimary, runoff and general.

This in effect would place a $3,000 ceiling on individual contributions to individual candidates. Contributors also would be limited to donating no more than $25,000 to federal office seekers in an election year.

Organizations would be limited to $5,000 contributions for any one candidate in each election, or a total of $15,000 during an election year to a single contender.

Cook said senatorial candidates could spend eight cents per voting age person in their state or $100,000, whichever was greater, for a primary bid and 12 cents per voting age person or $150,000 in the general race, again whichever is greater. A candidate is authorized, however, to increase those limits by 20 percent to pay fund-raising expenses.

National and state committees could spend an amount equal to two cents per voting age person to assist their party's candidates.

Based on the 1974 projected voting age population, those limits mean that after 1976, when the law becomes effective, Kentucky senatorial candidates could spend only $183,680 in seeking their party's nomination. In the general election candidates would be held to a $422,464 actual spending limit, including the maximum allowed for fundraising and the amount a party could spend in its candidate's behalf.

For congressional elections, the spending limits would be eight cents per voting age person in the district or $70,000, whichever is greater, for primary and general elections. The 20 per cent add-on for fund-raising expenses is allowed for House candidates also.

A provision about which Cook had expressed reservations, federal funding of senatorial and congressional races, was deleted from the bill as finally adopted. Public financing of presidential elections was retained.

Under the bill's provisions, presidential aspirants could spend only $10 million for combined primaries and $20 million for the general election.

Candidates could collect up to $5 million of the primary limit in matching funds from the dollar-checkoff fund, provided they first raised $100,000 in "threshold" money in private, single contributions of less than $250. Once nominated, however, party standard bearers could collect $20 million automatically from the federal fund for the general election without having to raise money privately.

Individuals seeking the presidency or vice presidency would be allowed to spend no more than $50,000 of their own or their family's money to do so. Candidates for the Senate would be held to a $35,000 individual and family contribution level while a $25,000 limit would be imposed on candidates for the House and their families.

Other provisions of the bill include one preventing the franking of mass mailings within 28 days of a primary or general election. All receipts and expenditures in excess of $100 would have to be done by check according to another provision.

To carry out the terms of the new reforms, a commission would be established consisting of two members appointed by the Senate, two by the House and two by the President. A full-time director would be hired, and the Clerk of the House and the Secretary of the Senate would be non-voting members.

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR

There is a vast difference between those that talk the most and those who say the most.

Eugene Snyder, presently elected to the office as U.S. Representative of Kentucky's 4th District, talks the most, and says the least of any politician around. His political mail is either negative or defensive.

Mr. Snyder reminds me of a character in a very simple nursery rhyme. "Little Jack Horner."

"Little Jack Horner, sat in the corner eating his Christmas pie. He put in his thumb and pulled out a plum and said what a great boy am I."

No doubt Snyder, like Jack Horner, is always in the corner. Perhaps he is deserving of the proper head attire of those who do get themselves in the corner.

You can be assured the Christmas pie has been to his liking. He has not pulled out one, but several plums, which have been extremely profitable to him and contrary — rather than for — the general welfare of the people in this district.

"What a great boy am I." Snyder continues, trying to impress us with what a great guardian he is of OUR tax dollars. Could it be a possibility, that in some instances, he votes to use our tax dollars to promote his own personal gain?

It is my personal opinion that he have the opportunity to elect a person of high character, with the desire to work for the best interest of this district on a FULL

TIME basis. Kyle Hubbard intends to devote his full attention and time as our congressman and at the same time, live within the means that the salary provides him as our representative. I firmly believe that Kyle Hubbard is one who could raise the intellectual image of the 4th District Representative. I urge you, Let's All Vote.

To The Editor:

During the past two weekends, we have tried to speed up the process of getting fresh Wildcat football releases to you in time for your editions, but the Postal Service has made the task most difficult. Our procedure is to write releases especially for Kentucky weeklies and stuff them into pre-addressed envelopes on Sunday after a football game, and drop the envelopes in the U.K. Post Office for metering and mailing early Monday morning. In addition, we are now thinking about pre-stamping the envelopes on Sunday and putting them into the letter drop at the main post office in Lexington. Please let us know if you received our releases on time the past two weeks.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

68 Years A Gardener

In the opinion of 86-year-old Edna Farmer of the Farmer Ridge Section of Lee county, gardening is a bit like going to church: to get results in either place, it is sometimes necessary to get down on the knees. From this position of humility sometimes comes great gifts—food for the body and for the soul.

On this matter, Mrs. Farmer can qualify as an authority. A lifetime church-goer, she has also planted and raised a garden of her own every year for the past 68 years. More than that, "the good-Lord willing," she will continue to do so as long as she is able to "raise a hoe."

"I'd rather work in the garden any time than to eat," she said, "and, with the exception of my children, few things on earth give me more pleasure and satisfaction."

In her garden, Mrs. Farmer raises everything from ground cherries to huge crooked-necked squashes with nearly all other species of vegetables in between. As this was written in mid-September, she had two roasting-ear patches just coming into silk, stick-bean vines laden down with beans, and a wealth of other late vegetables.

"Beginning with wild greens and onions," she said, "I have always fed from the outdoors from early spring until late fall and then, in the winter months, mostly on what I put up by canning, drying, smoking, and storing away in the cellar."

In recounting her long garden experience, Mrs. Farmer stated that there had been little change in her methods of cultivation. Along with barnyard manure, she has always used commercial fertilizers, the double-shovel plow, and the goose-necked hoe, but vegetable varieties are something else.

She said she has always kept in touch with the county Extension Service and tried out new varieties recommended. "That's how I have roasting ears, collards, and other good garden stuff now coming on when most all other gardens are a thing of the past."

One problem Mrs. Farmer has now that she didn't have 68 years ago involves insects. "It used to be," as she recalled, "we didn't have near as many bugs. Sometimes beetles got on our potatoes and sometimes worms on our cabbage, but we had no bean bugs or squash bugs and very few corn borers."

"We got rid of the potato bugs by knocking them off in a pan with a stick and then destroying them. To get rid of the cabbage worms, we pulled off a bottom leaf in late afternoon and laid it on top of the cabbage head. Next morning we went out, raised up this leaf, and stomped the worms that had collected underneath." If this method failed to get all the worms, the cabbages were dusted with either wood ashes, lime, or sulfur. Now, Mrs. Farmer says, she controls garden insects and blights with approved insecticides and fungicides.

The mother of five children and recently a widow, Mrs. Farmer not only raises a garden but also cans, dries, freezes, and otherwise stores away a lot of her surplus fruits and vegetables. She has a pantry well-stocked with beautifully canned stuff and, when interviewed for this article, was drying apples. "I believe," she said, "in saving everything possible but, to tell you the truth, I'd rather grow it than take care of it after it is raised. Taking care of it is much harder work."

A flower lover as well as a gardener, Mrs. Farmer's neat little farm home is surrounded by ornamental shrubs and is now colorful with late-blooming asters, petunias, and other flowers that only she and a trained horticulturist can name. For her "green thumb" she has acquired quite a reputation in her neighborhood and has been "taped" several times for radio programs.

Besides being an expert gardener and orchardist, Mrs. Farmer is a generous, gentle, and wonderful woman who can see no reason on earth why anyone with a small piece of tillable land and the strength to work it should ever go hungry.

"Besides," she said, "it's good for a body."

Advisory Health Council Appointed

"Nowhere is the concept of 'people helping people' more vital than in the Department of Human Resources' (DHR) Bureau for Health Services," was Gov. Wendell H. Ford's message to the newly appointed Advisory Health Council that met for the first time today. Gene Peter, administrative assistant to the governor, delivered the chief executive's message.

Sec. Laurel W. True of the Human Resources Department reminded the council that each member played a very significant part in building a more effective and unified system for getting services to the people.

The 19-member council will assist in reviewing policies, programs and regulations of the Bureau for Health Services, will help develop long-range goals, will make program recommendations with the help of special committees and task forces and will supply input to the bureau from their various geographical and occupational backgrounds.

Dr. John P. Bell of Louisville was appointed by Ford as chairman of the council. At Thursday's meeting, the membership elected C.V. Cooper Jr. of Hazard as vice chairman.

The council set the second Wednesday of each month at 8:30 a.m. for a regular monthly meeting.

In other business, the council approved a series of regulations on health preventive programs, which are the first regulations being refilled under the new law regarding administrative regulations passed by the 1974 General Assembly. Dr. C. Hernandez, director of the Health Bureau's Division for Preventive Services, presented the regulations and discussed them with the council. The council must review all proposed health regulations. After submission to Sec. True, the regulations now go to the Legislative Research Commission (LRC). The regulations will be printed in a monthly publication. If requested by private citizen, a public hearing must be held.

Selective Service Registration

There has been a continuing upward trend by young men age 18 in registering timely with Selective Service Statewide registration from August 6 to September 5 increased 1.5 percent over the corresponding dates in July and August. This is the word of the Kentucky State Director, Colonel Taylor L. Davidson.

"During this period we registered over 3,000 young men," the official said. He explained that the Selective Service Regulation defines timely registration to be within the 60 day period beginning 30 days before or 30 days after the young man has attained 18.

"The increase in registration was achieved by the intensified efforts of our field personnel. They have revisited high schools and colleges within their area; and contacted more public spirited citizens as possible volunteer registrars. As a result of these personal contacts, in the last two months we have appointed 110 additional registrars," Col. Davidson said.

"In the System's current standby structure we are most grateful for the more than 500 civic-minded individuals who now provide a registration service in the 108 counties which do not have a full-time local board office," he said.

The State Director stated that news releases, public service announcements and "car cards" on buses were also important factors in the improved registration input.

Selective Service in an effort to reach a 1974 goal of total registration, now has three ways to register: at an area office, with a volunteer registrar, and "registration mailers."

UK Wildcats

The University of Kentucky football Wildcats will seek to end a 13-year dry spell when they entertain the rebounding Louisiana State Tigers of former Wildcat Charles McClendon Saturday night at Commonwealth Stadium.

The last time a Wildcat team defeated the Bayou Bengals was by a 3-0 margin in 1960 on Stoll Field. Since that game, LSU has reeled off 13 straight victories and leads the 25-year-old series by 18-5. The only tie game (6-6) was played in 1963 at Baton Rouge.

Coach Fran Curci's Wildcats hope to get back on the winning track after consecutive losses to Miami (Ohio) in Lexington and Auburn at Auburn. Their season record is 2-3.

Louisiana State defeated Tennessee, 20-10, Saturday night in Baton Rouge, the first victory for the Tigers (2-2-1) since their season opener against Colorado.

Leading the Tigers over Tennessee was Billy Housard, a much-maligned senior quarterback who rose to first string status when the Tiger's supposed superstar Mike Miley chose pro baseball over college football.

Housard directed LSU on two impressive drives, the first covering 75 yards in the second quarter and culminating with Brad Davis going over from three yards out. A fourth-quarter chinch touchdown by Housard came after an 84-yard drive, including a 47-yard pass from Housard to wide receiver Richard Romain, which set up the score.

LSU's other score came on a seven yard run by sophomore Terry Kobiskie after the Tigers recovered a fumble and marched 46 yards for a touchdown.

The Wildcats, plagued by three lost fumbles and two Auburn interceptions, had some consolation in gaining 236 yards rushing and 58 yards passing against a team that was tops nationally against the rush and in total defense.

W-V Cross Country in State Meet

Two members of the Walton-Verona Cross-Country team have qualified for the State Meet by finishing among the top individuals in the Regional Meet last Saturday held at Highland Country Club.

Mike Bell, a 17 year old senior, toured the course in 9:56, finishing second. Doug Rowsey, also a senior, and a three-time state qualifier, finished ninth with a time of 10:14.

The State Meet will be held Saturday, Oct. 26, at Seneca Park in Louisville.

The Bearcat team finished fifth in the Regional ranking behind Brownsville, Beechwood, St. Henry, and Dayton. The team defeated Covington Latin and St. Thomas.

Other Bearcat finishers were Daryl Martin, 17th (10:29); Chuck Gibson, 26th (10:42); Rusty Speagle, 40th (11:28); Reggie Johnson, 43rd (11:37); and Lenny Spicer, 45th (11:56).

WKU To Host Annual UNCA Cheerleading Clinic

Western Kentucky University will host its annual state YMCA cheerleading clinic on Saturday, Nov. 9, in the E.A. Middle Arena.

Some 2,000 cheerleaders from high schools across the western and central portions of the state will compete for top honors in the competition.

Each year Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond conducts a similar clinic and this year at Western, winners of the Eastern clinic will be competing against winners at Western, according to John D. Journey, executive director of the state YMCA and coordinator of the clinic.

Western has invited all cheerleaders and clinic participants to be guests of the University at the Middle Tennessee football game which is scheduled for later in the afternoon.

Church League Results

The Church League opened its basketball season Saturday night. In the first game Piner defeated New Bethel 83-74. Joe Cook led the way for the winners with 30 points. Gordie Dunn added 17. Bob Mesmer led the losers with 26 points.

In the second game Church of Christ defeated Walton Baptist 64-58. Steve Stahl led the winners with 27 points. Donnie Stahl added 15 points. Collins tallied 19 points in the losing effort.

In a real barn burner, Walton Christian nipped Walton Methodist 71-68 in overtime. Rick Stephens showed the way for the Christians scoring 25 points. Mike Ferguson followed with 15 points. Terry Strong led the losers with 25 points.

In the last game of the evening Union walked away from Eggleston Methodist 81-47. Grover Hutton led the winners 33 points. Gruelle added 26 points. Farmer led the losers with 12 points.

Nest week the games start again at 5:30 p.m. and we urge everyone to come out and support your team. The admission is only 50¢.

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

Perhaps it's a sign of the times or a sign of time passing all too quickly but it seems there are too many unnecessary problems in our lives today.

A case in point is the farmer who wants to welcome visitors to his farm, hunters, fishermen, campers but finds such visitors are adding to his daily burden of unavoidable farming problems and thus creating unnecessary aggravation in his life.

And for the most part, such a farmer is typical. Most have no objections to visitors hunting, fishing, camping, hiking or nature watching on their land. That is, they have no objections to those who conduct themselves in a proper and courteous manner while they use the country's open spaces.

However, when the visitors add problems to the farmer's already large list of day-to-day troubles with rain that falls too much or not at all; weeds that grow too fast in the wrong places; crops that must all be harvested at the same time; livestock that must be cared for, etc., the unnecessary problem is almost more than he can cope with.

When this happens the farmer often feels the only solution is to POST THE LAND TO ALL TRESPASSERS. This is a solution that most farmers resist, but it is being resorted to on an alarming rate and the trend can only be reversed in one way: if outdoor minded individuals are to continue to enjoy the privilege of entering the land of another to enjoy their favorite sports, then each and every one must realize that they have certain responsibilities to the landowner and they must fulfill them.

The visitor must respect not only the farmer's property but the farmer's work as well. It simply isn't fair that a man must spend his precious time chasing down a hunter or fisherman who has parked his car or truck in the middle of a farm road or blocked a gate so that the farmer cannot go about his business.

And a gate that has been left open can mean more than lost time to a farmer. Livestock can wander onto an open highway, or into a field where crops can be damaged or can scatter over the entire farm or onto the farm of another person.

These are but a few of the problems many farmers face when they open their land to visitors. Most outdoorsmen are not the slobs we've talked about here, but the farmer must protect himself and his property against the few who are and the gentleman-outdoorsman suffers in the process.

We can help the farmer and ourselves by understanding what he's up against.

We can pick up litter others have left behind, take care that our own behavior is beyond reproach and we can get on our soap boxes and "preach" good manners and good sportsmanship.

If we want to get those "posted" signs down, we really don't have any choice, do we?

Last year we brought you over $700 million worth of appliances. You've got a lot riding on us.

A lot of appliances rode our rails in 1973. We estimate that the manufacturers' value for appliances we shipped amounted to $715 million.

And when you put Southern's shipments together with all other railroads, you've got over 70% of all the appliances Americans buy.

Why does the appliance industry and so many other industries ship by rail? They know it's usually the most economical way to go.

Consider these figures for the thousands of things shipped by rail. The average cost per-ton-mile by truck is five times as much as by rail. Air shipping is over fourteen times the price.

And the fuel crunch has made railroad efficiency more than just a matter of dollars and cents. It's a matter of delivering the goods with the smallest possible use of fuel.

Then there's the reliability of rail shipping. Add this on to everything else and you have a good idea why there's so much riding on us. And why you need Southern.

Busing Decisions By Judges

Kentuckians last week had vivid direct evidence of an appalling ignorance of the Constitution and a contempt for Congress by Federal judges who sit on the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati. This is the Court which overturned U.S. District Judge James F. Gordon's finding that both Louisville and Jefferson County school systems were commendably desegregated, and forced him to impose a cross-district busing plan on the two systems. That Circuit Court ruling in turn was wiped out by the July 25th Detroit busing decision by the U.S. Supreme Court which on the same day remanded our local cases to the Circuit Court for further consideration in the light of Detroit.

On October 14th the Federal Court in Cincinnati heard arguments for and against the reimposition of a desegregation plan—which necessarily would involve busing of our school children. David McCoy covered the court proceedings in depth for the Louisville TIMES, and on October 15th reported the following detail: "Introducing the only new argument in the proceedings Fulton (John A. Fulton, attorney for Jefferson County School Board) also argued that an anti-busing amendment recently added by Congress to an ill-to-education bill prevented the court from imposing a desegregation plan until all appeals in the case were exhausted, and from imposing a plan while a school year was in progress.

"McCree and Miller (Judge Wade H. McCree, Jr. and Judge William E. Miller) greeted that argument drily, saying Congress could not take away power from federal judges. McCree said the effect of the law was to 'make it a lot easier for a lot of congressmen to hit the hustings in the next 30 days.'"

Paragraph two of Section 2 gives Congress the power even to limit the appellate power of the Supreme Court in these words: "In all Cases affecting Ambassadors, other public Ministers and Consuls, and those in which a State shall be Party, the supreme Court shall have original Jurisdiction. In all the other Cases before mentioned, the supreme Court shall have appellate Jurisdiction, both as to Law and Fact, with such Exceptions, and under such Regulations as the Congress shall make."

The ignorance and contempt exhibited by the two circuit judges is ample proof of the need for legislation I have introduced in Congress—and will continue to press for—to limit the terms of our Federal judges to six years unless reappointed by the President and reconfirmed by the Senate.

National Park Status Sought For Red River

Senator Marlow Cook has initiated Congressional action to establish a Red River Gorge National Park and transfer funds now set aside for damming that river instead to a project for coming up with alternative flood control and water storage methods.

Cook, in a statement introducing his bill Oct. 9, said he was seeking the park "to put the Congress, the Corps of Engineers and others on notice so that they are aware of the tremendous support for this proposal in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and so that all further deliberations on the lake proposal will take this fact into consideration."

"The people of the Commonwealth have concluded that should a lake be constructed our legacy in the Red River Gorge will be needlessly lost forever. My proposal will preclude the destruction of this area and, at the same time, provide for the study and development of alternative means for flood protection for Kentucky, and so that all further deliberations on the lake proposal will take this fact into consideration."

Cook's bill was referred to the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs which handles national park system legislation.

Tourism Measure

One out of every six Kentuckians is employed in the travel and tourism industry and the Senate in Washington has now accepted a resolution sponsored by Senator Marlow Cook to study ways the federal government can set a positive national policy toward that industry.

Cook said the resolution means the Senate Commerce Committee on which he serves now will come up with recommendations to Congress for such a policy and the administrative means to carry it out. The Senate voted to approve the measure Oct. 10.

LAWRENCE RICHARDSON BEREAN BAPTIST MISSION

74 SOUTH MAIN
Walton, Ky.

As you know the Berean Baptist Mission is young. God has been blessing us even though many would like to see us go down to defeat. "If God be for us how can anyone be against us."

The amazing thing I've noticed in my visitation is that many church members do not know if they are saved or not. I ask, what is church membership without Christ? There has to be a reason for this problem and the problem must lie with the churches and the pastors. Its time churches stopped playing church and started winning souls. Its time for preachers to preach the Word of God (not good news for modern man).

Churches wake up. Souls are dying, men are crying, win the lost at any cost.

Salvation is not filling out a card or baptism or church membership. Salvation is accepting the Virgin Born Son of God as Lord and Saviour. Do you know your saved? Are you sure? If not I would be glad to talk to you and explain from the Bible, how you can be saved, safe, and satisfied.

May God help us to continue in the old paths unto righteousness.

FEARLESS FORECAST

by R. W. Lancaster

October 24

The Moon in the fixed air sign Aquarius would be a good time to check your local paper to see who is offering all the good buys this week. With all good planetary aspects coming up the next couple of days, you could be well pleased with some of your purchases. Also a good time for some sporting activity with not too much danger of injuries.

October 25

The Moon enters the water sign Pisces at mid morning so the true fisherman can make some good catches the next couple of days and also expect a good surprise at mid-afternoon, when the Moon conjuncts Uranus. The evening hours would be a good time for a first date or to form a new long lasting friendship.

October 26

Mercury conjuncts Venus at noon today so why not buy your wife or girlfriend a present while in a good mood. Anything you buy will be appreciated and you will have a feeling of harmony and well being the rest of the day. The Moon trines Saturn late in the evening so if you do an older person a kindness before bedtime, you will sleep well and have pleasant dreams. (Don't forget to turn your clock back)

October 27

This Sunday let us turn our thoughts to a quote from Albert Barnes, a nineteenth century clergyman, "It does not require great learning to be a Christian and be convinced of the truth of the Bible. It requires only an honest heart and a willingness to obey God."

October 28

The Moon entered the fire sign Aries late last night so today would be a good time to light a fire at home and get some baking done. The yeast dough will rise without any problems and the cake is in no danger of falling, while the kids are in school. Not too good a day for sewing or mending, but an excellent time for house cleaning and after the weekend it probably needs a good going over.

October 29

After all the work you got done yesterday, this would be a good day to take a break and go visiting. This is a safe day to travel and you will be well received any place you drop in. If you have been filled with any of your friends or relatives, this is a good time to make amends and re-establish cordial relations.

October 30

Start making some great plans for today and tonight. Make a new friend and have a lasting friendship. Plan on a good movie, dance or musical this evening and have the best time of your life or if you just want to stay home, be sure and answer some letters while you have a surge of inspiration. The Moon goes full at mid-evening so be sure to look up tight before going to bed as the kooks may get some strange ideas.

White's Tower 4-H Club

The first meeting of the year for the White's Tower 4-H Club was Thursday, October 17, in the school's gymnasium. Selected as officers for this year were left to right, Pam Meech-Secretary, Barbara Allphin-Reporter, Steve Robbins-Vice President and Beverly Hubbs-President. Announcements were made by Diana Schneider, County Extension Agent for 4-H and plans were made to make Christmas ornaments for the November 14th meeting. Mrs. Betty Hughes 4-H chairman and Mrs. Wilma Polley co-chairman have organized thirteen helpers to work with the over one hundred youth signed up. The youth will be taking the 4-H projects of clothing, electric, bicycle, foods and arts & crafts. All are looking forward to getting started in "Making the Best Better" according to the 4-H motto.

Walton Holds Dedication Ceremonies On Nov. 4

Walton will hold Dedication Ceremonies on Monday, November 4 at 12 noon, of their new 3 million dollar sewer system.

Mr. Walter Dunlevy, Executive Vice President of the Northern Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, will be directing the ceremonies. Many local and State dignitaries are expected to be on hand for the occasion. The local Walton-Vernon Band will also be in attendance.

The event has long been awaited by the citizens of this community as they tried unsuccessfully for years, to gain the needed funds for the project.

In the past 2 years, with intensified effort, funds finally started to come through. But not before time.

Walton, whose septic tank system had become sorely inadequate, was finally forced by the Health Department of Boone County, to issue Building Permits due to the extremely dangerous health hazards of the open cesspools.

While surrounding communities have grown at a fantastic rate, the City of Walton, not only has failed to grow, but is actually in a decline population wise. No new families are moving in to take the place of those who leave. The Walton-Vernon school reported a drop in Elementary enrollment by some 40 pupils over last year.

Building — at a standstill, has boded no good for town merchants. Unable to compete with the larger surrounding businesses, (who depend on large volume for reduced prices) local operators have had to hold on more through optimism than profit. But hold on they have, and now they are hoping for progress and an influx of new families to help them on their way toward more competitive

Thanksgiving Tips on Emphysema

Thanksgiving dinner is a festive time for most people. For people with emphysema, it can be especially exhausting.

Exhaustion and emphysema always go together. Even raising a fork can be tiring for someone who has far-advanced emphysema.

Shortness of breath and labored breathing are symptoms of this long-lasting lung disease. As the disease develops gradually over the years, the air sacs of the lungs become damaged. Not enough oxygen is sent to the body's cells. Stale air gets trapped in the sacs. Exhaling is a chore.

Eating and especially preparing meals means exertion. Shortness of breath and swallowing are uneasy dinner partners. As a result, many emphysema patients eat less and lose weight, which causes their general health to decline even more.

Digestive difficulties are not uncommon for emphysema patients either. Some foods seem to cause swelling in the stomach and abdomen. This can interfere with the movement of surrounding breathing muscles. Some of the culprits can be lima beans, cucumbers, and cabbage.

There are special exercises and ways of breathing that can help emphysema patients survive exertion better. And eating slowly in a relaxed manner helps to make dinners more of a pleasure.

More than one-and-a-half million Americans have emphysema. And Christmas Seals support the struggle against this severe lung disease. Right there in your community Christmas Seals fight emphysema, TB, and air pollution. They also fight the most important cause of emphysema: cigarette smoking.

Answer your Christmas Seal letter today. To you and your Lung Association, it's a matter of life and death.

Lions District Meeting

The 2nd Cabinet Meeting of Kentucky Lions District 43-7, will be held at the Cynthiana Country Club in Cynthiana, Ky. Free donuts and coffee will be served including your dinner. The meeting will take place on Sunday, November 3 at 9:30 a.m.

Lions Christmas Program Underway

The annual Christmas Program will be held on Sunday, December 15, 1974. Plans are being made now to make this program a big success this year.

The Lions Christmas Party will be held at Boone County Country Club this year on December 8, 1974. Dinner will be served at 6:00 p.m. The menu will be announced later for this upcoming event.

prices, now that the Health Department has dropped its ban on building.

Local residence are mixed in their feelings about the sewer system. What with the high cost of living, the added proposed sewer monthly charge and the initial assessment on property frontage, had to be considered. But the hoped for rise in property values due to the sewer system and the increased hoped for in population makes most feel, it is worthwhile.

The Sewer plant is expected to be in operation by late 1975 or early 1976.

CG&E Cut Back

The Cincinnati Gas & Electric Company announced a $145 million reduction in its construction spending in the five-year period 1974 through 1978 as a result of deferring completion dates of seven electric generating units.

This revised five-year construction budget now calls for investing $798 million to continue to provide reliable service in the 3000-square mile area served by CG&E. Previously, this budget called for spending $943 million on construction projects.

Annual reductions will $14 million for 1974, $60 million for 1975, $27 million for 1976, $24 million for 1977, and $20 million in 1978.

Although the construction deferrals will result in lower expenditures for the next few years, CG&E noted that the final cost of completing each of the seven generating units will be higher than original estimates because of added years of inflation. Completion dates for the units were extended from one to three years.

The decision to delay construction of the units was based on a slow down in the demand for electricity. The peak demand by CG&E customers this year was 1 per cent below last year's, and total electric usage so far this year is 5 per cent less than 1973. Historically, the growth rate had been about 7.5 per cent a year.

The units affected are Miami Fort Unit 8; both units at the Wm. H. Zimmer Nuclear Power Station; two units planned for a site at East Bend, Ky. and two units scheduled to be built near Wrightsville, Ohio. The projects will be owned jointly with other neighboring Ohio Utilities.

Hospital Sites Discussed

Boone County officials Monday agreed to hold up on purchase of the controversial 50-acre site for the new county hospital until a feasibility study is complete.

Boone County Judge Bruce Ferguson and Commissioner Ken Lucas met with owner Harry Gieske of Lakeside Park and verbally agreed to purchase the land, adjacent to Woodpoint Nursing Home off Ky. 18, for $250,000 or $5000 an acre. "We entered into a gentlemen's agreement that there won't be any actual transfers until the end of the year," said Lucas.

Booth Hospital

The proposed site for the relocation of Booth Hospital, a Salvation Army-owned facility now in Covington, was questioned by officials at the Greater Cincinnati Airport.

Berry Craid, director of aviation, told county and hospital officials that the airport's consultant's report showed that height restrictions, safety, aircraft

Walton Man Killed In Truck—Train Collision

Thirty-three-year-old James Martin, 86-B Old Lexington Pike, Walton, was fatally injured Monday when his pickup truck was struck by a train at a crossing near his home.

The Kentucky State Police said the accident happened about 9 a.m. at the Southern Railway crossing and Old Lexington Pike just after Martin had pulled from his driveway and started across the tracks, apparently with seeing the train approaching.

Troopers said Martin was taken to the St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he died about four hours later of head and chest injuries.

"He was coming out to see me," said Martin's father, Harry, a retired employee of Southern Railway, Macon.

Martin said his son lived "real close" to the Old Lexington Pk. crossing at which he was killed.

"He had to cross the tracks to get to the Dixie Hwy.," he said.

According to state police, Martin apparently failed to stop at the crossing

Governor Announces Anti-Crime Grant

Gov. Wendell H. Ford today announced $4.1 million in anti-crime grants to state and local government.

The grants were financed with $3,344,319.48 in federal money made available to Kentucky through the state's Department of Justice by the US Law Enforcement Assistance Administration under the federal Crime Control Act of 1973, plus an additional $787,026 in state and local matching funds.

In making the grants, Ford said he was acting on recommendations of the Kentucky Crime Commission (KCC) reached during their Oct. 18 meeting here. Of 59 grant applications considered at that meeting, 43 were forwarded to the governor for his approval.

The combined federal-state-local total announced for police grants statewide was $1.4 million. Adult corrections received $1.3 million, juvenile delinquency, $500,000; training and education of criminal justice personnel, $400,000; and court-related projects, $300,000.

More than half of the money for police went to communications projects in Jefferson, Kenton, Campbell and Russell Counties.

$100,000 to Kenton County to complete a regional communications system linking the Kenton County Patrol with Campbell County Police and city police at Covington and Ft. Thomas.

For the Lincoln Trail Regional Crime Council area's mobile evidence collection unit ($10,946); to assist Boone County police in providing for a system to collect, store and disseminate information ($7,692); and to establish psychological testing for applicants to police departments in Campbell-Kenton County ($6,000).

New Visiting Hours

St. Elizabeth Hospital has adopted new visiting hours effective Monday, October 14, 1974.

The new visiting hours are: General Hours: 12:2 p.m. - 6:8 p.m.; Maternity: 2:30-3:00 p.m. - 7:8 p.m.; and Mental Health: 6:8 p.m. daily and 12:2 p.m. on weekends and holidays.

As in the past visitors will be limited to two persons at one time. Children under age of 14 years are not permitted as visitors.

The change in visiting hours comes after a period of evaluation of the current hours.

operations and noise factors make the proposed site undesirable.

"A hospital 5000 to 7000 feet off a future runway is not good management," said Craig.

County officials, however, decided Oct. 9 to exercise its option to buy the land saying time was needed to survey the land, check the title and arrange for funding.

The 90-day option would have run out this week.

Meantime, hospital administrator Major Glen Seile has maintained throughout that the hospital would not give its final approval on the site until a feasibility study was conducted by the hospital's architects.

Last Friday the hospital named Henkel, Hovel & Schaefer, Covington, as architects on the project who will conduct the site survey.

Lucas said the county is looking for 50 acres of land close to the I-75 interchange with all utilities.

"The whole quadrant between Ky. 18 and US 42 would qualify but sells for $25,000 to $35,000 an acre," said Lucas.

Kyle Hubbard Visitor

Discussing Politics—at Walton I.G.A. Supermarket, are Kyle Hubbard, Victor Miller, Boone City Democratic chairman for Hubbard, and Stan Jones, I.G.A. Manager. Stan "The Man" seems to be doing most of the talking.

Mr. Fred Fuhrman—Woodpoint patient, talks to Kyle Hubbard about problems of senior citizens in Northern Kentucky.

Kyle Hubbard, Democratic Candidate for Congress in the 4th Congressional District, visited citizens in Boone County on Wednesday, October 23.

On Monday, October 21st, Hubbard, accompanied by Headquarters chairman Bonnie Hagedorn, left Boone County Democrat Headquarters aboard TANK's Florence Circulator bus and visited with passengers along the route, discussing issues and listening to citizens' concern with the economy and the government.

The candidate was a visitor to the Walton-Vernon area and the Advertiser office. Mr. Hubbard, a favorite of many in the Representative Race, graciously allowed our reporter to trail him through town, to get a few impromptu pictures as he talked with local citizens. He was accompanied by Representative Bill McBee.

At Woodpoint Nursing Home, Hubbard made a special visit with residents at the home as he was introduced by Woodpoint Administrator, Jim Burcham, and members of the Woodpoint staff.

Holding a copy of a Special Supplement of the SENIOR CITIZEN NEWS, Hubbard pointed to the voting record of his opponent, Gene Snyder, in the First session of the 193rd Congress. The National Council of Senior Citizens set out a specific list of issues on which they urged Congress to act. On the ten issues, favorable to senior citizens, Hubbard's opinion voted against each of the ten proposals recommended by the National Council of Senior Citizens.

The possibility of a Small Claims Court in Boone County is being investigated by Pat Raverty, Administrative Assistant to the Boone County Fiscal Court.

According to Mr. Raverty a Small Claims Court would allow people to represent themselves in matters concerning money debts and some related civil matters. A limit of $500 claims would probably be put in the court.

"It is a novel idea as far as the state goes," said Mr. Raverty. He further explained that Jefferson County has the only claims court in the state, and the idea seems to be working well in that area.

The need for a claims court has been expressed by the people in the county, noted Mr. Raverty. He further explained that in this type of court "people could express themselves, thus opening the court of everyone."

Helping Raverty in his investigation is Larry Crigler, Assistant County Attorney. The men are gathering the information and will report to Boone County Judge Bruce Ferguson.

HALLOWEEN

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, it has come to my attention that each year at Halloween time the begging by children, young people, and in some cases, adults is on increase.

Many homes have been visited at least a week in advance of Halloween. We do not object to children enjoying this season of the year, but feel that it is being overdone.

Therefore, I do proclaim October 31 as begging night in Walton, Kentucky, hours 6:00 p.m. till 9:00 p.m.

I ask all home owners or residents of our town not to issue treats of any kind until the above date.

Sam Gamble, Mayor
City of Walton, Ky.

A Gold Investment Will It Tarnish?

Gold bullion is coming back for the first time since 1933 when Congress banned private ownership of gold other than coins or jewelry. With President Ford's signature on a bill lifting that ban beginning Jan. 1, 1975, and the option open, would a gold investment pay off, or is it likely to tarnish beyond repair?

As an investment, says the American Bankers Association (ABA), it's wise to remember that gold is a commodity, and consequently is subject to rapid and extreme ups and downs. True, it's a scarce commodity; and theoretically, there is no limit to how much it could one day be worth. In fact, it has been estimated that all the gold ever found could be condensed into a cube the size of a baseball diamond.

It's only been in the past three years, however, that the increase in the price of gold has justified its historic reputation as the best hedge against inflation in this country where there's no real fear that the dollar will become totally worthless and the government will fall.

From 1935 to 1971, the official price for an ounce of gold was $35. It was not until 1968 that speculators' pressure on the dollar led to a "two-tier" gold market with the price of privately traded gold allowed to fluctuate with the market. The official price between governments has since been raised once to $38 an ounce, and again to $42.22.

Beginning in 1971, with the rate of inflation increasing, private demand for gold grew, and its market price went as high as $180. Today it's down around $140 an ounce. Potential investors would be wise, therefore, to watch the market and buy low, rather than be caught up in a first day stampede. After all, a gold bar pays no dividends and no interest. Its only return is in the form of capital appreciation.

Is there any indication that gold will appreciate in the foreseeable future? The ABA, many of whose 14,000 members banks have indicated they will offer gold bullion for sale as a service to their customers, says it's a very "iffy" question.

If Americans rush to buy when the ban is lifted, the price of gold could surge, providing rapid short-term gains. But, on the other hand, the recently expected increase in demand for gold coins never materialized. And the US Treasury has already announced that if the price of gold were to rise substantially, it would level off prices and might even drive them down.

The best advice from the ABA is to catch the track record, buy low and only from a reputable dealer. And if you do, get certification of exactly what you have bought.

79 Year Old Woman Very Lucky

"I was in bed and all of a sudden here comes this TV flying over my head," said a very lucky Mrs. Isabel Robbins, mother of Mrs. Thelma Sturgeon of Walton.

"I wondered what was happening and then I heard my neighbor yelling my house was on fire."

Mrs. Robbins, a 79 year old widow, walked out of her two-story brick home that was destroyed by a gas explosion at 1:15 a.m. on October 25.

Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. officials said they received a call about 12:30 a.m. from a young person complaining of a gas odor on St. Jude Circle, Florence.

"Our service men went out and traced the smell to 18 St. Jude."

"We then called the fire department and police."

Florence Fire Chief Don Roberts estimated the damage total loss at $50,000 which included the house and personal belongings.

Roberts said he believed there was a break in the gas main in front of the Robbins home but exact cause is still under investigation.

Homes in the near vicinity of the Robbins home were vacated but most of the residents have returned.

Mrs. Robbins is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Ward Rice of Florence.

This perky little scarecrow may not "scare" anyone, but youngsters love him, and he makes a delightful table centerpiece. Just follow the simple step-by-step directions, and he's yours.
This design is from a new book "A World of Designs With Styrofoam" available at most craft and hobby stores.

Mrs. William Clinkensbeard, Walton, is a member of the committee which has taken the first step in planning the Holiday Fair sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary, Booth Memorial Hospital.
She has put into the mail official announcements of the organization's major fund raising project scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, November 19 and 20.

Additional workers, Mrs. Norris reported, have been added to the Tambourine Factory, the crew which makes handicraft items for the fair. That project is headed by Mrs. Glenn Seiler, Ft. Mitchell, wife of the Booth administrator.
Mrs. James Rich, Edgewood, past president, is the overall chairman. A Washington firm with an international reputation, Medicus Hospital Planning, has been named as consultants for the Boone County Facility of Booth Memorial Hospital.

PTA Festival A Huge Success

The annual PTA Halloween Festival was held in the new Walton Gym on Oct. 25th.

There were three grand marches starting with 6 yrs. old and younger. Three prizes were awarded in that category. Benny and Danny Dixon dressed as clowns, Kay Tyler as a witch and Mary Welsh dressed as a pilgrim.

In the category of six years to twelve years the third prize went to Kim Woods dressed as a 7 Up bottle, Greg Poore took 2nd place as a scare crow, and first place prize to Edward Martin dressed as a rooster.

The last prize was a tough decision for the judges as they awarded two prizes instead of one. Phyllis Arnett and Diana Vest won as Sanford and Samantha and Charlotte Kemper and Debby Lamb won dressed like a horse.

The judges were Mr. and Mrs. Park Gilmore of Park Hills, Ky., Mrs. Richard Bachmeyer of Walton, and Mrs. Robert Burnett of Basking Ridge, New Jersey.

We hope a good time was enjoyed by all.

Thank You

The Walton-Verona PTA would like to thank all the workers, the workers that volunteered at the last moment, the parents for their donations, the business's in Walton and Verona for their donations, the Elementary and High School teachers for their full cooperation and above all Mr. Grubbs and Mr. Munzie for their time spent Friday which was a long day.

All these people made the Halloween Festival a success.

We felt that everyone respected the new gym and hope that it will continue.

CONSUMER COMMENTS

By ED HANCOCK,

Don't let a sewing machine salesman needle you into buying an overpriced machine! Consumers should be cautious when responding to ads offering repossessed sewing machines and other appliances for sale.

Don't get hooked by the bait and switch technique, a scheme where consumers are baited with an inexpensive item but switched to a higher priced one.

Often an ad will appear which offers a repossessed sewing machine at a very low price. That's the bait.

When the consumer appears at the store to examine the machine, the salesperson downgrades the machine and makes disparaging remarks about it or about anyone who would buy such a thing. The machine itself may look terribly run-down, damaged or dusty.

The salesperson then attempts to persuade the consumer that a more expensive machine is drastically better and more suited to the consumer's needs. This is the switch.

Frequently the second machine (or vacuum cleaner or whatever merchandise is being sold) is sold at a much higher price than the same or comparable model at legitimate retail stores. At other times, the bait will be a well-known brand, but the salesperson tries to talk consumers into the off-brand item, usually costlier and harder to provide with service if it needs repair.

If the second machine is overpriced enough, a merchant may offer a special deduction. Usually, the cost of the machine after the deduction is still higher than the comparable models at other locations.

A ridiculously low price is a tip-off that bait and switch tactics may be around the corner. And beware the merchant who criticizes his own sale merchandise. Don't take the bait or the switch!

If you have experienced bait and switch selling or if you have any consumer complaints, write to the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, Room 34, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Kentucky residents may use the toll-free consumer hotline: 1-800-372-2960.

Liquid Cattle Feed

Check-R-Lix
Liquid Supplement
from Purina

"Purina..."

dedicated to providing best products with the "best there is" nutritional products and programs.

BENEFITS TO CONSIDER

LABOR-SAVING is a big item. The Purina Check-R-Lix program features self-feeding. Plus Purina Dealers can supply the necessary Lix tanks, and keep them properly serviced and supplied with feed.

COST-SAVING. This is another feature of liquid feed. Liquid feed is the ingredient that not only makes the product portable, but also holds down the cost. Most liquid supplements cost less than dry supplements of the same protein level.

SAFE TO USE. Even though Purina Liquid Supplements are much higher in urea than dry feeds, they are safe to use if fed according to directions and in mechanically approved feeders. In addition, certain ingredients tend to limit consumption. When grass is plentiful and of good quality, consumption decreases.

VERSATILITY. Check-R-Lix can be fed to cattle on pasture or range, being wintered on hay or corn silage, and when they are growing harvested corn fields. A word of caution—liquid supplements should not be fed with silage already containing urea or other non-protein additives.

PURINA KNOW-HOW. When you choose Purina Check-R-Lix, you have the backing of Purina's Research and development. Purina recommends feeding Livestock Mineral along with Check-R-Lix in order to ensure an adequate supply of certain essential nutrients. (Lactation, for instance) which do not mix well in liquid.

HERE IS MORE INFORMATION ON CHECK-R-LIX

Some livestock feed cubes or blocks because they want to check the feed regularly. They feed and observe at the same time. This is an ideal way of managing the feed and part of good management.

If you already have a successful dry supplement range or pasture feeding program, why change it? Some cattlemen, however, cannot or do not want to spend a lot of time in the field but their cattle still need a well balanced diet. Self-feeding Purina Check-R-Lix is the answer.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Unlike digging potatoes with a fork designed for the purpose, pulling turnips is not an altogether unpleasant task. If anyone believes otherwise, the labor may be made a bit lighter if the turnip puller will remember that, in a sense, he is gathering history. For indeed, according to UK Extension specialist, C.R. Roberts, the turnip is a historic vegetable, a vegetable relatively easy to grow, and one that has been appreciated by man since the dawn of agriculture.

Having a point of origin somewhere in Asia but now grown around the world, the turnip (Brassica rapa) was known to the Romans at the beginning of the Christian Era. In the first century A.D. Pliny the Elder, who wrote 37 books on Natural History, described it as coming in three varieties: "long turnips, round turnips, and flat turnips."

Later historical writings on these pungent products of home gardens reveal that Pliny called them "rapa" and "napus." When the Anglo-Saxons started growing them they anglicized "napus" to "nepe" and, utilizing the word "turn" which, in that time, meant "made round," gave us the name, "turnip."

Turnips such as are now being harvested from Kentucky gardens are of the European variety that were grown in France as food for both man and livestock since the first century after Christ. It was one vegetable that rarely failed to produce a good crop and often served to keep the wolf of hunger away from the door of many a peasant during long, hard winters.

Get the Message?

How about a new message on cigarette packs? "Warning: Stopping Smoking Can Be Beneficial To Your Health."

Using precise tests to measure lung capacity, Dr. Frederick Bode at McGill University in Montreal studied smokers before and after they stopped smoking. The results were astonishing. As soon as six weeks after stopping, there were measurable improvements in lung function.

The subject's age ranged from 29 to 69 years. They were long-time smokers; the shortest time any had was 13 years. The longest 46 years, almost half-century. Before they stopped smoking, seven of the ten subjects had coughed on arising in the morning. Furthermore, the cough lasted for months every year. Six coughed up sputum. Four of the subjects admitted to wheezing, although none had asthma.

After they stopped smoking, the picture changed almost overnight. Only one person had any trace of a persistent morning cough. None coughed up sputum. And wheezing disappeared for everyone.

The sensitive tests used by Dr. Bode also confirmed that there had been a reversal of the lung damage/loss of the small breathing passages due by smoking.

The benefits of quitting can come quickly, and they are usually permanent. Other experiments, in fact, indicate that staying off cigarettes for ten years forces the premature death rates for smokers down to the level for nonsmokers.

Smokers should start planning their Christmas gifts early. The best present they can give themselves and their families is to stop smoking. And smokers and nonsmokers can help spread the good word by answering their Christmas Seal letter. Christmas Seals support the struggle against cigarette smoking and the lung diseases it causes in your community. The Kentucky Lung Association says, it's a matter of life and breath.

Actually, since colonial times, the turnip has been one of the most common garden vegetables in America. It is primarily a cool weather crop, suitable for culture as an early spring or late fall crop in most states. European varieties are biennial, but one Oriental variety called "Shogun" can be grown for summer use if planted in early spring. This variety will go to seed the first season. One of the better root varieties for Kentucky use is the Purple Top White Globe, Roberts notes.

A variety of leaf turnips, known as "Seven Top," is grown but only for early meals of greens. These turnips do not have a root large enough for eating. Turnip tops, nutritionists say, are rich in vitamins and minerals essential for the health. In fact, they may have more food value than the roots. In any case, the lowly turnip is a good vegetable. Now is the time to pull it.

School Food Service Conference To Be Held

Representatives from most of Kentucky's school districts will attend the annual School Food Service Conference, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Oct. 22-24.

Bob Shy, associate director of education and programming for Kentucky Educational Television, is scheduled to present the keynote address. His topic is "The Greening of the Future Shock Crisis in the Classrooms of America."

Marshall Swain, assistant superintendent of the state Department of Education, Bureau of Pupil Personnel Services, plans to speak on the subject "Duties of a School Food Service Director" and review new regulations affecting school food service.

Other topics that will be discussed include: the use of TVP (textured vegetable protein or soy products); the high participation project that has increased the number of students who buy school lunches; the school breakfast program; revision of the recipe book used by local school food service directors; and new budget methods.

Approximately 75 to 100 staff members of the state Department of Education, district school food service directors, superintendents and principals are expected to attend the conference.

"We are looking forward to having these people with us to share ideas and concepts. Hopefully, our combined efforts will result in better food service for more boys and girls in schools across this Commonwealth."

Walking Horse Measure Up For Final Passage

Strictures against soring horses to produce the characteristic gait of Tennessee walking horses would be provided under a bill the Senate Commerce Committee has approved for a vote in Washington.

Senator Marlow Cook, a member of that committee and supporter of that bill amending the Horse Protection Act of 1970 to better carry out its purpose, said the measure was sent to the full Senate Oct. 17. A vote is expected after the Senate convenes Nov. 18, and Cook said he anticipated the bill would pass.

If enacted into law, the bill provides that horses which have been sored would be barred from competing in any horse show.

Growers Promote Tobacco

Burley growers promote the sales and uses of their tobacco at home and abroad, work to maintain and strengthen the tobacco program, and stress its importance in the local and national economies through participation in the Burley Promotion Fund annually.

Money collected jointly for the fund through the warehouses during the marketing season for burley is used by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association and the Council for Burley Tobacco in year-long projects and efforts designed to promote and protect the best interests of burley tobacco, its growers and the industry generally.

Under the promotion fund plan, each holder of a burley marketing card pays $2 to the fund and signs an agreement card to its use for the work supported by the fund. The agreement is set out on a postal card which the grower signs at the warehouse and return either by placing it in a special box at the sales warehouse or mailing it, postage-free. The fund is divided equally between the Burley Co-op and the Council.

Money not supported by an agreement card is held in escrow for five years before it can be used.

This is how the money collected through the fund is used by both organizations in their promotion efforts:

The Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, the "pool" supports the technical assistance program in cigarette blending and manufacturing operated by R.C. Travis, vice president for export promotion of the Co-op. Travis, a blending expert, works with foreign manufacturers to increase the use of U.S. burley in cigarettes made abroad.

The Burley Co-op, with grower promotion funds, also is the principal supporter of the Burley and Dark Leaf Tobacco Export Association and its work in export promotion and other activities for the benefit of the industry.

These programs have been credited as major factors in substantial gains in burley exports, which, in the marketing year ended Oct. 1, were expected to reach 85 million pounds on a farm sales weight basis.

Are Farm Surpluses A Thing Of The Past

"Throughout the world America has been thought of as one huge storage warehouse for farm products. But no more. For all practical purposes our surpluses are gone."

Stocks of all grains are below a year ago. Supplies of all four feed grains corn, oats, barley and sorghum totalled 161 million tons on January 1, 1974, seven per cent less than holdings on the same date the year before.

Wheat supplies in storage on January 1 were 33 percent less than the year before. The 1973-74 wheat picture highlighted by a record crop, near record disappearance, record prices, and prospects for the smallest stocks in more than 25 decades.

Feed grain supplies have shrunk because both domestic and foreign meat producers are increasing their herds. Grains for human consumption has flowed around the world from America's storehouses.

Because of poor growing conditions in several areas of the world during the past two years, many nations have come to America, the old reliable, for their food. But, can America stay the old reliable, the food producing giant for the world?

We're on the right road, now, with the lifting of government planting restrictions, and a production incentive that works money.

The farmer, like every other businessman wants a fair return for his product. With the current high demand for food and fiber, both here and abroad, we can rely on the American farmer to produce record crops, but it will become increasingly important that agriculture remain free and able to respond to a production-oriented market.

Funds received by the Council for Burley Tobacco through its share of the combined promotion fund are used to support national broadcast and print-media advertising, and a variety of other public relations activities, on behalf of the growers of burley tobacco and the industry generally.

The Council also maintains liaison among the various organizations and public agencies concerned with the burley tobacco industry.

1974 Farm Census Is Mandatory

The law requires a census of agriculture every five years and the law also requires people to reply to census questionnaires completely and accurately, reports Jim Sheldon, Kenton County ASCS.

Most farmers are quite cooperative, he said, since they recognize the importance of having accurate, up to date statistical data on American agriculture. The 1974 Census of Agriculture will be conducted by mail beginning in January 1975.

"The Bureau of the Census has assured us that all questionnaires are strictly confidential. The information is tabulated statistically without reference to individual operations, and no one outside of the Census Bureau is allowed access to information which could lead to identification of any person or farm. Mr. Sheldon said."

Agencies of the U.S. Department of Agriculture are cooperating with the Census Bureau in informing farmers and ranchers of the up coming 1974 Census of Agriculture, and the Kenton County ASCS office will be able to answer farmers' questions when the census forms start arriving.

Local producers may expect the questionnaires in the mail in late December or early January, and they are asked to return them by mail as soon as possible.

A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

Lower cost meals may differ only slightly from the meals you are now serving. UK Extension foods specialists point out. Limiting the size and number of servings especially for meats and desserts to the actual nutritional needs of your family is one sure way to cut costs. The specialists emphasize that the Basic Four food guide with its recommended number of servings should be the basis for planning meals that are nutritious and economical. If you need more information on the Basic Four food guide, stop by your county Extension office.

Federal Spending That Drains Your Purse

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

I've fought appropriations by Congress of money for programs that I think constitute an outrageous abuse of the American People. I am listing here some examples of such programs. This is not to say that none of these programs have any merit whatsoever, but only to state that taxpayers should not be forced to underwrite them by taxes or suffer the inflation caused by government borrowing to pay for them. As you read through these few samples, I'm sure you'll say "It's no wonder the national debt is half a trillion dollars!"

A Department of Health, Education and Welfare research program included a grant of $13,555 for "Sociolinguistic Analysis of Oral Media-Arabic in the Arab Republic of Egypt." HEW has shelled out $11,790 for research in the subject of "The Growth of Karachi as a Trading Center and Development of the Sindh Mercantile Community Under British Rule (1843-1947)," and another $5,800 to dig into "Changes in the Polish Family." $5,755 was laid out by HEW for work in Yugoslavia on "Late Byzantine

Drug Enforcement Financing Assured By Senator's Bill

A bill Senator Marlow Cook had introduced to make sure the US Drug Enforcement Administration is appropriated money on a continuing basis to carry on its work has been cleared for the White House.

Besides the Oct. 16 Senate Vote for providing appropriations through the Justice Department to the chief federal agency for drug abuse prevention and crime control, another bill Cook had cosponsored has been sent to the President to be signed.

That bill would provide a program for developing ways to harness the power of the sun to increase the energy sources available to the country. The solar energy bill cleared Congress Oct. 11.

Influence on South Slavic and Russian Literature and Worldview."

The National Endowment for the Arts made one grant of $4,500 to a New York composer to create an electronic opera for radio utilizing "synthetic speech," and another for $11,220 "for documentation and evaluation of 19th century American sepulchral sculpture in the Mississippi and Ohio River areas."

The National Science Foundation has run wild with huge grants like these: To study the sex life of crabs $2,600,000. (This study paid for by your tax dollars or red ink government borrowing, examines "the suspected hybridization between populations of two closely related species of American Junipers growing in the same habitat.") To explore the question, "How do we acquire the concepts with which we categorize objects and events?" $2,000,000. I'm sure you'll feel your money was well spent since one conclusion states, "A person must attend to the stimulus objects, remember information about the objects, and utilize some strategy in order to solve the problem of what concept has been used to classify the objects." Another NSF grant of $1,700,000 went to study interactions between various members of the wildlife community. This bit of your hard-earned income went to find out, for instance, about "the acquisition of nutrient, and the converse, the avoidance of being fed upon."

If you hadn't been poked for these studies, it might be easier for you to obtain nutrient, and avoid being put upon that much more by inflation.

Why You Need To Vote

Election day, Nov. 5, appears to be headed for a light vote across the nation. We need not consider the reasons why voters stay home on election day, but we should consider the probable results.

Staying at home on election day will not solve the problems that keep voters away from the polls. In fact, it will only make matters worse. For one thing, this practice makes it far easier for the forces one dislikes and fears to get control of the government.

Let's not fool ourselves. Control of the government is what politics is all about. The winners make the rules for all of us to live by—usually rules favorable to their faction. In our democratic form of government no one can hold public office except that he be elected by a vote of the people in a free and open election.

Apathy (literally meaning not suffering, not caring, indifference) on the part of voters often allows the wrong man to gain public office and unqualified men to stay in office.

Why is it so important that every citizen of our nation eligible to vote should regularly exercise this fundamental constitutional right and duty? It is simply this. The founding fathers of our nation decided it would be governed by its people. It was immediately obvious that all the people in the nation could not gather at any one point and carry out the responsibilities of government. Therefore, they developed the idea of representative government—having one of their number to act for them. The people then retained their power of self-government through the device of electing their representatives in state and federal offices and other public officials down to the city and county levels.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Maynard,

The giant oil company, Ashland, has its senator, Marlow Cook.

The giant utility companies have their congressman, Gene Snyder.

Now, its high time we had a Senator and a Congressman who represented us, the people, rather than representing fat rich corporations. Its high time we elected Wendell Ford for Senator and Kyle Hubbard for Representative.

Let's all get out and vote on election day and let's get this job done.

Sincerely,

Asa M. Rouse

Dear Mr. Meadows:

I believe my current subscription to the Advertiser will expire soon, and I would like to renew for another year. So I enclose herein a check for $4.00, trusting this will bring the paper to me until November 75.

The Advertiser has certainly undergone a drastic change in recent weeks, which I regard with mixed feelings. Can't say truthfully whether like it or not, but let's hope the change is for the best. Probably the majority of subscribers who live there in the community are pleased with the "new" paper.

At any rate, I will look forward to receiving a little bit of Walton each week for another year, and will enjoy keeping up with events in the old home town.

With best wishes, I remain,

Sincerely,
George G. Bedinger
PO Box 1506

Our freedom, therefore, lies in the power of the people to elect or their refusal to elect those whom they choose to be their governors. If it ever came to the absurd point that absolutely no one went to the polls and voted, every office in the land would be vacated as the term ended.

Voting is more than pulling down the lever on a voting machine. It is rather an act of choosing people to govern us or to serve us for a stated period of time. The election process is imperfect, but it can be improved. It remains our strongest guarantee of freedom. So long as we are free to elect those who govern us our freedom is secure.

Danger to our nation grows in proportion to the growth in numbers of voters staying away from the polls. Apathy on the part of the electorate allows selfish interests to get control of government and to entrench themselves to the detriment of the public in general. Failing in our duty here is the cause of many of our ills today.

Go out and vote. Help keep our nation out of the hands of selfish and sometimes evil people; keep it in the hands of the many and out of the hands of the few.

Toll-free Service for Veterans

Toll-free telephone service for every veteran in the state of Kentucky is available to the regional office in Louisville. The state's 400,000 veterans and their dependents may use this service when seeking information about their benefits.

Robert Welch, VA regional office director in Louisville, said the service was set up for veterans who did not live near VA offices, and was begun in Lexington in September 1971.

Toll-free numbers are listed in telephone directories. In Lexington the number to call is 253-0568. All other veterans outside the Louisville calling area may dial the Louisville regional office toll-free on 1-800-292-4562. In Louisville the number is 584-2231.

Welch said statewide toll-free service is available in 30 states. Direct lines connect 274 communities via 360 lines with regional office in 15 other states. VA benefits counselors handle more than 1.3 million calls each month.

Washington hasn't been fun and games for Gene Snyder.

While fighting hard for balanced federal budgets, against wasteful government bureaucracy, for practical measures to keep our economy strong, he had to undergo the jeers of many of his liberal colleagues and of the liberal daily press.

The jeers are quieter now.

He knew his ideas were right, and he knows the voters of his district have backed him up. He's kept contact with the voters and he knows how they stand. You've counted on him working for you in the past, you can count on him now more than ever.

Services, who, he said, "worked day and night with many others to serve thousands who were victims of tragedy."

"But your labors were hampered by one factor: lack of a central command post where all agencies involved could coordinate their efforts," the governor added.

The Boone National Guard Center consists of the Emergency Operations Building, the new Frankfort National Guard Armory and the Army Aviation Support Building, as well as other service facilities.

The Emergency Operations Building is the communications hub of the Boone National Guard Center, housing elements of the Kentucky National Guard and the Division of Disaster and Emergency Services. Designed by architect Ted Kennedy of Lexington, and built at a cost of $1.5 million, the building was financed with funds from the state and from the federal Defense Civil Preparedness Agency.

The Emergency Operations Building will serve a dual function. In peace-time, the building will be a command post to coordinate the resources of the state in times of natural disaster. Its communications room, when complete, will be capable of reaching any part of the state.

In event of war the facility would become a huge nuclear bomb shelter.

emergency headquarters for the governor and his staff, capable of housing 180 people for up to two weeks. Fuel and water supplies are stored beneath the building. Its sloping white walls are radiation resistant. The building is capable of generating its own electricity, and possesses facilities for purifying the air inside of radioactive contamination.

National Council Recognizes Cook's Effort

The National Council on Crime and Delinquency has selected senior Kentucky Senator Marlow Cook to receive its juvenile justice award in recognition of his legislative efforts in this field.

Cook sponsored the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974, for which the NCCD said, "you deserve the praise and plaudits of everyone concerned with the welfare of the youngsters in this country."

The Senator is ranking minority member of the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee and has worked actively in this area since coming to the Senate in 1969. Presentation of the Cook award was to be Oct. 21.

Senator
Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

I am co-sponsoring with 25 other senators, a resolution which opposes any increase in propane gas prices. We introduced this resolution after the Federal Energy Administration announced plans to allow increases in propane prices in the name of constraining demand by discouraging new industrial and commercial users.

The traditional users of propane are rural families who use it for heating and the farmers who use it to dry their crops. I suffered greatly last winter when propane prices rose by more than 300 percent. And when relief finally came, it was too little too late.

FEA says it wants to discourage new industrial users, but it seems to me the persons who will suffer most from the higher prices are low and middle income rural American not an industry which can pass its increased costs on to the consumer. As has happened all too often in efforts to combat both inflation and the energy shortage, the people who can least afford it and the people with the fewest alternatives are being asked to bear the brunt of the shortage.

Our resolution asks FEA to withdraw its proposed price regulation change and maintain propane prices at or below the level established by existing regulation. Rural Americans have already suffered enough from the energy crisis, and this is an additional burden they should not be asked to bear.

What controls the growth of cold germs? Do the sex of the TB germ affect its activities? How do lungs try to clear out particles from cigarette smoke?

Such research topics are under investigation by scientists whose work is supported by contributions to Christmas Seals. This year over $1 million in medical research was allocated by local, state and national units of the American Lung Association.

One of the projects will try to learn more about how newborn lungs function differently from adult lungs. Such information may help prevent the thousands of deaths every year of infants who have underdeveloped lungs. Already, many infants have been saved as a result of such research.

Another project will be the investigation of how blood clots not only block arteries in the lungs, but also cause their passages to narrow. Finding ways to open these passages can facilitate breathing and keep patients alive.

The effects of cigarette smoke, industrial metals like beryllium, fungus infections, and other assaulters of the lungs will be studied in other projects. Ways to stimulate the lungs' defenses against such assaults will be examined closely.

In addition to Christmas Seal research grants, another $2 million in contributions supports fellowships, faculty positions, and other programs designed to find out more about lung disease and ways to prevent it and treat it.

To help support such research, answer your Christmas Seal letter. Christmas Seals support the fight against emphysema, TB, air pollution, and cigarette smoking. The Kentucky Lung Association says, it's a matter of life and breath.

Carroll Addresses Institute For Aging

Lt. Gov. Julian M. Carroll told members of the Institute for Aging that the problem they face is "huge". Carroll was referring to the responsibility of the citizens group to find the special needs of the 350,000 senior citizens for which they act as advocate.

"My own preoccupation is with the elderly poor," Carroll said. "This is not to suggest that the economically-secure elderly are free of problems. But it certainly is true that poverty is more incapacitating for the aged than for any other category of our society."

Carroll went on to cite statistics which bore out his concerns:
44,000 household heads over 65 or 34 percent of the state's total were judged in the 1970 census to be below the poverty level;

The chief source of income for these persons were Social Security and public assistance;

In the same census 55,000 unrelated individuals 65 or older, representing 63 percent of the state's total, also were judged to be below the poverty level.

According to Carroll "We have the important responsibility of motivating our aging with a sense of personal worth." He suggested that this might be accomplished if the institute addressed itself to the possibility of leadership training for a section of the elderly population. Such training, he said, "would enable the elderly to gather the reins of their own destiny even more than they have already done."

The proposal suggested to the institute was that the leadership training should involve an informational process to arouse and waken the public to the capabilities of the aged, would involve training in strategy and tactics which would apply to training in life, and would produce widespread leadership through which the elderly themselves would guarantee that many federal, state and community efforts on their behalf would be desirable and effective.

Carroll assured the institute that "whatever my future position might be, you can be assured of my great concern and sincere interest in making our 'small gains' into 'larger gains' and changing our notion of pessimism to one of optimism as together we find adequate solutions for the many problems which face us."

Railroad Retirement Bill Enacted

The Railroad Retirement Act of 1974 has become law after Congress voted to override the President's objections to it.

The House of Representatives by a 223 to 115 margin overturned the veto of the bill on Oct. 15, and the next day all but one of the 73 Senators present agreed to do the same.

Senator Marlow Cook, who stood with the majority voting to put the law into effect, explained he did so because the financial problems threatening to bankrupt the retirement system were created largely by past Congresses. Based on testimony by experts, the bill was the best solution to a very serious problem, he added, and without the bill the almost 25,000 railroad retirees and their survivors in Kentucky would have been left without protection.

Card of Thanks

I would like to thank everyone who helped during my husband's illness and for rides to the VA Hospital for 9 months. I would also like to thank those who sent flowers, cards, food kindness and with donations to the life squad. Also a big thanks to Bro. Yates, Bro. Harwood and to Hamilton's Funeral Home.

Thanks,

Tips For Working Women

When she gets home from work each night, the working woman doesn't have time to slave over a hot stove, scrub floors and clean house. Yet like the full-time homemaker, she has to face those same chores every day.

To speed up ironing time, put heavy foil under the ironing board cover. As you iron a garment, the heat from the iron will reflect from the foil and you'll find ironing goes twice as fast. This tip should also save on energy and electricity.

Break a glass on your clean linoleum floor? For quick and effective cleanup, use a damp paper towel to sweep up the elusive glass slivers.

God's Concern For Moral Values
(Hosea 4:1-3, 6; 6:1-3; 7:4-7; 11:8-9)
Daniel Webster said, "Morality does not make a Christian, yet no man can be a Christian without it."
Horace Mann said, "As far as I have observed in this life, ten men have failed from defect in morals where one has failed from defect in intellect."
Butler had this deep insight concerning the value of morals: "Nothing really immoral is ever permanently popular. There does not exist in the literature of the world a single popular book that is immoral, two centuries after it is produced, for in the heart of nations the false does not live so long, and the true is ethical to the end of time."
This lesson offers us the opportunity to observe God's concern for moral values.

Christians encouraged them to "speak the truth in love" (Ephesians 4:15).
The inhabitants of the land did not really know God. Of course they knew about Him, but they did not know Him. There is knowledge about God today. What is needed is that the people of our land know God!
Hosea continues to give a list of the things which offer evidence of Israel's rebellion. Swearing, lying, killing, stealing, and committing adultery. Five of the ten commandments in one breath! They break all bounds and murder follows murder.
The results of this rebellion is that the whole land is effected. The land will mourn and the people will languish. Even the beasts of the field, fowls of the air, and fish of the sea shall be taken away. The effects of sin and rebellion reaches even to the whole of God's creation.
Verse 6 relates how God's people were destroyed for lack of knowledge. The people were to blame. They rejected the knowledge of God and now God would reject them. To fail in our stewardship of responsibility is to forfeit our privilege to be used of God as a priestly people.
Hosea 6:1-3 speaks of repentance and God's response.
Repentance and Response, Hosea 6:1-3
The people have come to see the cost of their rebellion. The call goes out for a return to the Lord who has torn, but will heal; to a God who has smitten, but will bind up the wounds.
Verse 2 speaks of their certainty that God will heal and restore. They are as sure of God's healing and restoration as they are of the coming of the dawn or the coming of the rain in its season.
Hosea 7:4 further comments on the people as their reflection leads to their ruin.
Reflection and Ruin, Hosea 7:4-7
The prophet used the analogy of an oven to illustrate the plotting of the people to sin. They were like a heated oven where a fire would be built and then allowed to simmer down to redhot coals. Then the bread would be placed in the oven and baked. The purpose of these verses is to show how the adulterers waited for the proper time to strike. As the coals of fire smoldered throughout the night, even so did their anger smolder.
One has only to review the history of Israel to see the ruin which came to this rebellious nation. There were nine dynasties in two hundred years. The nation of Israel came to an end and Judah was left to carry on God's program of world redemption.
Our final passage in Hosea 11:8-9. God is reasoning and resolving His solution to the problem.
Reasoning and Resolution, Hosea 11:8-9
Ephraim means the northern kingdom of Israel. Admah and Zeboim were cities which were destroyed along with Sodom and Gomorrah. Will Israel meet the same doom? Hosea seems to picture God in a struggle to reason out what He will do. The solution is not so easy. It comes at tremendous cost to a loving and just God. The answer is in the redemptive action of God. He cannot give up on His people. Though the people have been unfaithful, God remains faithful. He will act in mercy because He is God and not man. He will send His Son who "was wounded for our transgressions... bruised for our iniquities... with His stripes we are healed" (Isaiah 53:5).

Church Basketball Results

In the second game, New Bethel defeated Walton Baptist 72-66. Dixon led the winners with 20 pts. and Messmer added 17. Arlinghaus tallied 25 pts. for the losers.
In another close game, Richwood defeated Church of Christ 66-64. Hinsdale scored 22 pts. in the winning effort while Steve Stahl scored 29 pts. for the losers.
In the final game of the evening, Walton Methodist rumped Eggleston Methodist 104-35. J. Best and T. Strong led the way for the winners with 20 pts. and R. Lawrence added 12 pts. J. McCauley scored 9 pts. for the losers.
The next games will be Saturday night beginning at 5:30. The games have been very exciting and close this year and we have seen a very good exhibition of basketball being played, so we urge everyone to come out, rather your team is playing or not, and see these men perform.

Nothing To Fear

Hallowe'en today means children flocking from door to door to enjoy the bounty of neighborliness. But in the Dark Ages this night was regarded with dread and apprehension.
Warmth, friendship, kindness, generosity inspired by our religious faith have replaced superstition. Believing in the Love of God—man has nothing to fear.
Your children will remember for years the fun of Hallowe'en. Are you making sure they are learning the fundamental spiritual truths that have turned yesterday's fear into today's faith?
Once a year we celebrate the death of superstition. Every Sunday we celebrate the birth of Believing.

Colonel Outlook

This could be the year that Bourbon County basketball fans have waited for since 1964. Coach Day returns everyone from last year's team which won 16, lost 13, were 37th District Champions, and went to the semifinals of the 10th Region.

Coach Day uses a control offense and a stingy defense. The last two years Bourbon County gave up only 51.2 points per game. Personnel-wise, Coach Day will be greeted the first day of practice by ten letterman. The ten lettermen plus some help off last year's B team will be the key to the Colonel attack. Returning starters will be: Charlie Yazell, forward and guard, Edmond Royce, senior guard, Craig Jefferson, senior center and forward, Proc Blair, senior forward and center, Randy Gabler, senior forward, Mitch Hedges, junior guard and forward, Norman Clark, senior guard, Steve Frederick, senior guard, Randy Waggoner, senior forward, and Mickey Barfield, senior center and forward.

Along with these ten lettermen, some help is expected from Coach Tucker's B team. They are: Tony Sosby, junior guard, Lyle Cross, junior center, Wayne Estes, junior center, Jeff Gibson, junior forward, and Keith Waugh, junior forward. Several other members of last year's freshman and B team could also help the varsity.

Much of the success this coming season will be predicted on how well the Colonels adjust to the new role as one of the favorites in the 37th District and the 10th Region. The 37th District will be strong with Paris and Harrison County prime contenders. In the 10th Region will be such teams as Mason County, Bath County, Pendleton County, Harrison County, Montgomery County, Clark County, plus others will make a very balanced 10th Region.

Bourbon County's schedule will include such powers as Lexington's Tates Creek, Louisville Male, Ashland, Louisville Manual, Georgetown, Scott County and 37th District and 10th Region foes.

The Blue Grass Festival, Dec. 26 thru the 28th, held at Lexington Catholic, will feature a well balanced holiday treat. Such powers as Lexington, Lafayette, Boyle County, plus others will compete for the championship.

The 1974-75 season appears to be the year of challenges for the Colonels from Bourbon County.

VA Questionnaires

More than a million persons who will receive income questionnaires with Veteran Administration pension checks for November must return them by January 1 instead of the customary January 15 deadline.

VA officials explained the new deadline was set to relieve the annual logjam in preparation of January checks when pensioners returned the questionnaires near or after the former January 15 deadline. Pensioners are urged to complete and return the questionnaires promptly.

Under the law, VA mails questionnaires to veteran on non-service connected pension rolls, widows of veterans receiving pensions based on the non-service connected death of a husband, and certain parents who receive monthly checks because of the service-connected death of a veteran or serviceman.

The VA noted most pensioners must file questionnaires each year. Exceptions include pensioners 72 years old or over who have been on pension rolls for two consecutive years, though they must report income changes when they occur. Some beneficiaries who normally are exempt will receive questionnaires this year because of cost of living increases in their annuities.

The agency pointed out prompt return of questionnaires by the new January 1 deadline will avoid delay in next year's checks. Checks cannot be sent until the questionnaire is received and processed.

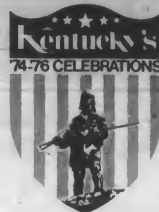

Housewife's Hints

Q. What is the difference between salad dressing and real mayonnaise?

A. Although salad dressing looks like real mayonnaise, it doesn't taste like real mayonnaise and is, in fact, very different. Salad dressing is an emulsified dressing thickened with cooked starch. It contains a minimum of 30 per cent oil and has more water to compensate for its lower oil content. Extra vinegar is used in salad dressing with sugar added to cut the tartness. This gives salad dressing a spicy-sweet flavor. Real mayonnaise, on the other hand, is made with at least 65 per cent vegetable oil. In real mayonnaise, tiny droplets of the oil are coated with egg yolk. Real mayonnaise also contains modest amounts of vinegar, lemon juice, salt, sugar and spices—but no starch. It is thicker and more delicately flavored than salad dressing.

Since the basic ingredients in both real mayonnaise and salad dressing are determined by the US Food and Drug Administration, manufacturers have the option of omitting the ingredients from the label.

Red Cross Cautions For Hunters and Guns

The millions of sportsmen who will take to the countryside in quest of wild game this fall were urged by the American Red Cross today to heed carefully the dangers involved, lest end up as the target of their own or another hunter's gun.

"Hunting can be a dangerous sport," declared James D. Horney, First Aid Program Chairman of the Cincinnati Area Red Cross chapter. "Every precaution should be taken by hunters to insure against fatal or serious accidents caused by improper handling of firearms or other carelessness in the field."

"Of the 2,400 or more accidental deaths from firearms each year, many occur in the hunting field," Horney added. "Weapons used for hunting are designed for expeditious killing. They could be respected for their danger potential and used only in compliance with accepted safety procedures."

"These procedures in the use of hunting equipment are an absolute 'must' on reducing accidents, preventing injuries, and saving lives, Horney emphasized. He offered these safety suggestions to hunters:

Guns storage and care: Guns should be kept unloaded, under lock and key in a sturdy cabinet, where children and others not qualified to handle them cannot get at them. Ammunition should be kept locked up also, preferably separate from guns. Guns should be well cared for and inspected before use. A malfunction could result in a lost or misplaced shot and possibly serious injury to the hunter.

Before the hunt: A hunter should be prepared for the elements in the area he will cover. In cold weather he should wear sturdy boots and clothing that will provide him with adequate warmth. He should also wear highly visible clothing, carry a compass, small flashlight, reliable lighter or matches in a waterproof case, strong knife, first aid kit and map of the area where he will hunting. A loud whistle can also be carried to summon aid if needed.

On the hunt: Be sure the ammunition is the right calibre for the gun to be used. Also, both law and common courtesy require a hunter to ask permission of landowner to hunt on private property. The landowner can advise the location of other hunters in the area. When leaving the property, notify the landowner.

In open field or brush, hunters should walk abreast. One person out in front could be in danger from other hunters. A left-handed marksman should always be placed on the right end of the group because of his tendency to swing right. Be alert for other hunters in the same area. Inspect the gun muzzle frequently to make certain it hasn't been plugged inadvertently with mud, earth or weeds. A plugged barrel could explode or split when the gun is fired, causing serious injury or death.

One of the most publicized, yet undeeded, messages of gun safety is the correct way to cross a fence. Especially in bird hunting, fence crossing is a frequent problem. Here are the recommended methods:

1. When crossing a fence, open the action of the gun or unload it. Push the gun laterally under the fence. Then climb through or over the fence at the butt end of the weapon.
2. When more than one hunter is involved, one person should hold the weapons while his companion gets over or through the fence. The weapons should then be passed across the fence, muzzle up. The other person can then cross the fence.

November 3rd

This Sunday lets think of the words of Henry Ward Beecher 19th Century Clergyman. (God after stands from Sunday to Sunday, and the seventh day is no more for religion than any other day for rest. The whole seven are for religion, and one of them for rest, for instruction, for social worship, for gaining strength for the other six.)

November 4th

For the true fisherman, the fish will be biting from now to late Tuesday. If you want a favor from a politician ask during the morning hours while the moon is trine Jupiter, get his promise in writing and be ready to give him a vote tomorrow. Any time today would be a good time to shop for appliances or economical food purchases.

November 5th

Get up early this Tuesday and get ready to cast your ballot and I hope you choose the one that can help our state and nation the most during these troubled times. The Moon squares Uranus this evening so you can expect some surprises when the ballots are counted. If you aren't happy with the results just be thankful that we do still have the right to choose.

November 6th

The Moon is in the fixed sign Leo this morning so if you didn't start that diet last Thursday this would be a good time to make another try, if you did start last week you are probably 5 pounds lighter. This would be a good time to get a haircut if you want it to be slow growing back. Pour concrete today and it will set up fast, paint if you want it to dry fast and stay looking nice. Write a letter of condolence to some political friend this evening.

Benefit Turkey Shoot

A benefit turkey shoot will be held for Ellis Spencer on November 24, 1974 at noon. The shoot will take place at Barrel Lake and it is being sponsored by the Walton Lions Club and Mr. Les Trinkle.

Safety Hints For Halloween

As the ghosts and goblins of the Halloween season appear again, they bring excitement and anticipation for the youngsters but anxiety for the parents. The Kentucky Optometric Association has a few hints which should make this Halloween less worrisome for parents and safer for the children as they move through the dusk of this October night.

Highly reflective materials are recommended for costume decoration since they are clearly visible even from an auto speeding at 80 miles per hour. Also, parents should encourage their children to wear nonallergenic face makeup instead of masks, allowing them an unrestricted view of oncoming cars or other objects in their path.

There is some advice for home owners too. Turn on all porch and yard lights. Be sure that your steps are well lighted and that all toys and garden tools are put away.

Members of the vision-care profession hope that these safety hints will help reduce accidents and make Halloween a safer night this year.

Thanksgivings Without TB

In the toddling stages of the 20th century, tuberculosis was a mass killer, without respect for age, sex, or rank. The White Plague, as TB was called, took much of the joy out of giving thanks.

When the century was only four years old, nationwide Christmas Seal organizations formed to fight the White Plague. People who bought Christmas Seals supported the first voluntary health agency dedicated to combatting a specific disease. The rest is history.

By mid-century, the discovery of specific drugs to treat and cure the disease turned the situation upside down. For the first time, it seemed possible to eliminate TB from the face of the globe.

Yet in the 70's, TB is still a killer, albeit a crippled one. The number of people dying from the disease spirals ever downward. But last year, almost 4,000 people died from the disease. Only the victims are different. Today TB is a disease of the elderly and the poor — of the residents of crowded inner cities, Indian reservation, and underdeveloped rural regions.

Today's TB victims are the people who receive the poorest health care, people who are beset by crushing economic and social burdens.

Yet TB patients who faithfully take their medication can be cured of the disease. If they are infected with TB germs, they can take drugs to prevent the disease from developing at all.

Before the end of the century, even the poor and the elderly may be able to celebrate Thanksgiving without TB. Contributions to Christmas Seals help toward that goal. Answer your Christmas Seal letter today. Christmas Seals help fight TB, emphysema, and air pollution through your Kentucky Lung Association. It's a matter of life and breath.

Department of Ed. Distributes $301 Million

The State Department of Education is set to distribute almost $301 million to local school districts during the 1974-75 school year. Allotments are calculated using the average daily attendance at district schools during 1973-74.

Boone County districts will receive the following state funds: $1,128,681.15, Walton-Verona: $363,697.95.

According to superintendent of public instruction Dr. Lyman V. Gieger, "The foundation program is based on the principle that the state and the local school districts will share the cost of education." The method used to support education in Kentucky is called the minimum foundation program.

Locally, the following amounts must be raised in taxes to support the foundation program: $1,098,258.75, Walton-Verona: $74,893.94.

The Bureau of Administration and Finance determines the amount each district must provide by comparing the value of taxable property in the district with the value of taxable property in the state as a whole.

Additional money and additional teachers may be added by the local district, but the total cost of the foundation program here will be: $4,256,523.00, and Walton-Verona: $438,211.93.

National Bicentennial Publication Available

Interested in what is happening around the country in observance of the nation's Bicentennial?

Do you want to keep up with Bicentennial activities occurring over the next few years?

If so, John Warner, Administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA), invites you to get on the mailing list to receive free, the BICENTENNIAL TIMES, a monthly newspaper being published by ARBA and available to any interested citizen.

The tabloid-size newspaper carries news and feature items on national, international, regional and local Bicentennial plans, programs and events. It will be published at least through December 1976, the Bicentennial year.

The ARBA is charged by law with, among other things, providing informational materials which will contribute to public information, awareness, and interest in the Bicentennial.

Mr. Warner, in discussing publication of BICENTENNIAL TIMES, said: "We know that the primary burden for informing the American public and encouraging direct participation in the Bicentennial rests with the nation's news media. This is particularly true regarding local community events."

"There is a need, however, for a single, regularly issued publication informing on and reflecting the truly national character of the Bicentennial observance, based on thousands of locally developed programs, projects and events."

He commented further: "The BICENTENNIAL TIMES should be useful to individuals, teachers and students, projects planners, discussion groups, and anyone else with an interest in the observance of the nation's 200th anniversary."

Sue Patterson

The Center Stage Players is a non-profit organization promoting community theater in the Boone County area. Members are predominantly local people combining their talents in putting on three plays a year. Finding a place to stage plays on this side of the Ohio River has been a problem for the Center Stage players. Most members live in the Boone County area. Only recently they were able to move productions ("Tom Jones" at Tichenor School, Erlanger) into home territory. Before that, they worked mostly on the Majestic Showboat on the Ohio River.

The drama group would welcome any person interested in establishing little theater in the area. There are no restrictions on membership and the only requirements are that persons be over 16 and pay annual dues of $3. Meetings are held on the 1st Tuesday of each month and President Mrs. Paul Mallot invites all persons interested to call her or Madeline Nortaker (Membership Ch.) 331-3869 for further information.

Center Stage Players will present their 1st play on the 74-75 season this month, "The Best Man" by Gore Vidal.

Performances will be held in the Boone County High School auditorium, Florence, November 7, 8, and 9th at 8:00 p.m.

Photo shown is of Sue Patterson playing the role of Alice Russell in the play.

Sue is one of the founder members of Center Stage and most active in community affairs. She is an English teacher at Boone County High School and was casting director for the Boone County Anniversary Celebration Pageant. She resides in Florence and has two children one of whom is currently rehearsing for a role in the Coleanis Music Guild's production of "Oliver" in Cincinnati. She is also Play Selection Committee Ch. for the drama group. The selected plays for 75 season will be "The Women" (March) and "Everything in the Garden" (May).

Local MD Receives Fellowship In AAFP

Dr. William Waller

William M. Waller, MD, of the Walton area has been named a Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians.

The degree of Fellowship may be attained in either of two ways: successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study, or achievement of diplomate status in the specialty of family medicine as a result of passing a certifying examination administered by the American Board of Family Practice.

Fellowship entitles the conferee to use the title "Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians," or "FAAFP". The degree was conferred October 15 upon some 3,000 members of the Academy in conjunction with the AAFP's annual convention and scientific assembly in Los Angeles. Ceremonies were held in the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles before more than 7,000 persons. Fellowship candidates were academic records and mortarboard caps. They were recognized according to state chapter groups and the oath of fellowship was recited on mass.

The Academy, representing more than 36,000 family doctors, pioneered among national medical groups requiring members to take continuing study, a minimum of 150 accredited hours every three years. The AAFP, headquartered in Kansas City, is the largest of medicine's specialty groups.

"Sweet Talking" Your Plants

In recent years the American public has rapidly increased its purchases of live plants for home use. Live plants are beginning to be given the attention and care for home decor that they deserve.

"Can you really sweet-talk your plants to make them grow better?" This provocative title is featured on a recent cover of "New Yorker" magazine. Inspired by the success of "The Secret Life of Plants," a fascinating account of the physical, emotional, and spiritual relations between plants and man, this rather sophisticated magazine interviewed a number of New Yorkers who had read the book and were growing and talking to house plants. Photographs taken before and after a one month trial period appeared to show significant plant growth which they attributed to communication between the plants and themselves.

However, as most every homeowner and plant lover can testify, it is not so easy to "sweet talk" plants as some of these books have claimed. There may be more than "loneliness" to blame when people ask the question, "What's bugging my foliage plants?" Often plants are sick looking, are not growing, the foliage is turning yellow or brown or the plants are gradually losing their leaves. The problem may be complicated by the owner's unfamiliarity to live plants and lack of knowledge of how to care for them. Let's analyze some of the causes of problems in the home, with the hope they can be remedied. Below are listed some of the most common mistakes made by homeowners and some suggestions on how to diagnose the problems. These are by no means all the causes that may lead to disaster, but they are the most frequent ones.

The most common mistakes are watering too frequently, which causes roots to rot and a gradual dieback of the plants, and fertilizing too often, causing an excessive buildup of salts which, in turn, kills roots and stunts the plants.

Avoid the practice of religiously watering and fertilizing plants every so many days. Apply only when needed by the plants. To avoid getting into trouble, the following maintenance requirements should be followed:

- (1) Plants should be watered lightly and infrequently.
- (2) Plants should not be placed in direct sunlight.
- (3) Keep plants in a room where temperatures can be maintained at 60 degrees or above.
- (4) Fertilize lightly only once every 6 months.

It is common practice also to put plants outside during late spring or early summer. What happens frequently is that the foliage begins to turn yellow and have a bleached appearance. This yellowish color will exist for a long period. Worse than that, some of the young and tender leaves may be partially burned and turn brown and nothing can remedy that problem. Plants that have been adjusted to home conditions are pre-conditioned or acclimated to low light intensities and indirect light. Placing them outdoors under the high light intensity will degrade some of the chlorophylls and will give the bleached appearance. To avoid this problem, the plants have to be placed in areas under heavy shade and then gradually moved to locations of higher light intensities. In early fall the same procedure should be followed. Place the plants under heavy shade for 1-6 weeks and then bring them indoors again; otherwise the foliage will drop.

ABUSE

It's tempting to note that the difference between USE and ABUSE is as simple as A-B, see? But with today's energy problems, there isn't a whole lot of room for funning.

Electric generating and delivery costs are skyrocketing right through the roof. Rising coal prices are part of the problem. Another complication is the short supply of gas and oil.

If there has ever been a best time to save electric energy, now is it. Call us. We can help you.

God's Concern For A Nation

(Jeremiah 1:9-10; 38:2-6; 17-18)

What is patriotism? Many seem to think it to be nothing more than lifting the hat as the flag goes by or rising to one's feet when the band plays "The Star Spangled Banner." Others insist that it means the casting of a straight ballot for all the nominees of the party to which grandfather belonged.

Jeremiah was not of such turn of mind. He could never have concurred with the slogan "Judah Right or Wrong." Jeremiah, taught of God, was able to see that when a nation loses its respect for God, law, decency, and order, it must hear the judgement of its Maker.

When a nation is headed for disaster God always has His spokesman. It was so in the 6th century B.C. A young man perhaps between 20 and 25 years old is called and commissioned by God.

Called and Commissioned, Jeremiah 1:9-10

According to the first three verses of Jeremiah chapter one, the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah during the reign of three different kings. These verses also reveal that Jeremiah's words were really the words of the Lord. God informed Jeremiah that He had known him even before he was formed in the womb. God had set him apart for His service, appointing him a prophet to the nations. This emphasizes the fact that God's calling is not some afterthought or spur-of-the-moment decision.

Jeremiah's response to God's call was much like that of Moses. There was a reveal of mind and soul at such tremendous responsibility. But God put forth His hand and touched the young man's mouth. Jeremiah would never forget that inspiring moment. He was destined to be God's spokesman to nations.

The nature of his ministry was to be that of destruction and construction. There was some pointing out which had to be accomplished. There was some pulling down which had to be accomplished. The modern-day pastor and missionary are often faced with this unpleasant aspect of ministry. But the leader who may on this aspect of ministry to the exclusion of the other will be only destructive.

Jeremiah was not only to not out, pull down, destroy, and throw down, he was also to build up. He was to plant. The rooting out and destroying must be done only in order to build back a better work. It would be well if national leaders and spokesman for God and our nation could see the wisdom of this way. These programs and practices which are feeding the destructive forces of our nation. Let them be pulled down and thrown out and replaced with others which contribute to the betterment of this nation under God.

Eventually the crisis came for Judah. What were the circumstances?

Crisis and Circumstances, Jeremiah 38:2-6

The army of Babylon had been close to destroying the city of Jerusalem. It became necessary for that army to withdraw because of a threat from the advancing army of the Egyptians. Zedekiah, king of Judah sent for Jeremiah and inquired if there was any word from the Lord. Jeremiah said there was. Jerusalem was to be delivered into the hands of the army of Babylon.

Jeremiah's recommendation to Zedekiah based on his information from God was that of peaceful surrender to Babylon. Judah had sinned. Judah must be purged of her sins in order for God to rebuild a strong, dependable nation.

This advice drew wrath and criticism from Zedekiah's princes. They recommended the Prophet to be put to death. His words had weakened the hands (the morale) of the army. They accused Jeremiah of being a traitor to his nation. Is the man who tells his people the truth a traitor? Who is the man who really has his nation at heart? Is he the one who cries, "peace" when there is no peace?

King Zedekiah was so weak he would not take a stand even when he was sure. Jeremiah had spoken God's word. He gave the prophet into the hands of the princes. They put him in a cistern to die, but through the goodness of Ebedmelech the Ethiopian he was rescued.

In Jeremiah 38:17-18 the confident prophet challenges the king to obedience to God.

Challenge and Confidence. Jeremiah, God's spokesman, offers the king a difficult solution. To spare the life of himself and the lives of his people, he must surrender. If the king refused disaster of much greater proportion would take place. How does one bring himself to make such a difficult decision? The answer is seen in the prophet's faith.

Jeremiah had the confidence that even in such a crisis God would bring about good. The man who looks beyond circumstances and sees God is the man any nation can afford to follow.

Federal Spending Drains Your Purse

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Last week I gave examples of how your tax money and money borrowed by Uncle Sam at high interest rates that costs you in more inflation is spent by the Federal government. Here are some more ways in which you have been taken to the cleaners in programs I have fought and will continue to fight with our National Debt at half a trillion dollars!

The Inter-American Foundation is spending $10,460 to produce 65 scripts for Peruvian television because current programs are "culturally debasing and escapist." The Foundation gave $51,340 to sponsor radio schools, women's clubs, cooperatives and youth groups among the campesinos of Panama. $10,017 went to support community theater, fiestas, movie forums, and a newspaper in Mexico "to form a sense of community" among slum dwellers.

Your pocketbook was squeezed by taxes and inflation due to Federal borrowing to underwrite National Science Foundation grants for research in the social sciences. For the current year, Yale University alone received $834,750, and Harvard, $737,300. There among other subjects the following are being explored: Early Phases of Humint and Pongid Evolution. (Yale $55,500); Prehistoric Urban Relationships (Harvard, $28,600). The NSF expended $50,000 to study "Trends in Tolerance of Nonconformity," and $246,700 for an experimental demonstration of "interactive television."

The National Science Foundation pays very well with your money. The investigator in charge of a project called "Interpersonal Relations Within the Family" draws $7,212 for two months' work. That's an annual rate of $43,272, higher than a Congressman's pay! Another investigator did even better. He got $7,575 for a two months study of "Conflict, Justice, and Cooperation" a yearly rate of $45,450! This year the NSF will spend $77,100 for research into linguistic and cultural variations among the Athapaskan Indians. $10,540,000 is going into a project in psychology and neurobiology to get answers to such questions as: "How does a homing pigeon find its way home? How does a rat learn to avoid poison bait? How different are the cognitive abilities of apes from man?"

In Congress, big spenders of your hard-earned wages pride themselves on promoting "culture," but you won't benefit much. For instance, the National Endowment for the Arts gave $82,699 to Associated Councils of the Arts in New York for a national survey on "The attitudes of the general public to the arts." This survey alone took all the tax money of 53 US families at the average tax return of $15.36.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Many farmers resent the latest series of political attacks against Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz in light of Butz' many achievements on behalf of food producers during the past four years.

A number of federal officeholders have recently made headlines by calling for Butz' dismissal, including Indiana Sen. Vance Hinkle and Texas Rep. Wright Patman. The men blamed Butz for both high consumer-level food prices and lowered farm prices.

In Kentucky, Rep. John Breckinridge and Gov. Ford have lambasted Butz for a purported USDA plan to abolish tobacco quotas, and scuttle the price support program.

Butz' tenure as the nation's chief farm spokesman has not been without controversy. From the time he was nominated to the post, his ties with some big agribusiness firms, like Ralston Purina and Stokely Van Camp, have led critics to label him as anti-small farmer, pro-big farmer and big business.

In addition, his landmark efforts to expand foreign sales of American Farm products have placed him on the blacklists of consumer organizations. The effects of the Russian grain deal are still being felt throughout the US food industry, even though earlier predictions of $1-a-lb food proved groundless.

But the timing of these latest attacks on the Secretary, most of them in the weeks just before Congressional elections, indicated a politically motivated effort to make Butz a scapegoat for economic problems plaguing farmers and consumers alike. Such an effort constitutes an undesired smear on a man who has served farmers capably and knowledgeably.

Butz' accomplishments for farmers in Kentucky and across the nation fall mainly in two major areas: public relations and marketing. As a public spokesman for farmers during the past few years, he has been unflinching in defending the food producer against attacks from militant "consumer" spokesmen and unfriendly public officials.

He opposed price controls on farmers to the end, even after his boss, former President Nixon, made the unfortunate decision to try them. He has defended farmers' rights to make a profit and he has praised them from coast to coast as the nation's most efficient industry.

At the same time, Butz has worked tirelessly to open up new markets for US-produced farm products. While grain has held the headlines and grain growers have reaped many benefits from this overseas expansion, lesser noticed efforts farmer's best hope to argue against US involvement in a government-managed international food reserve. Such a reserve will be debated hotly during the World Food Conference later this month in Rome.

Butz has steadfastly opposed the re-establishing of government-controlled reserves, whether in this country or worldwide, because of their tendency to hold down farm prices. He has argued, correctly, that farmers and the food industry government should be allowed to control all reserves.

As Kentucky Farm Bureau President Bob Wade said recently, "Earl Butz has been the most effective Secretary of Agriculture we've ever had."

"He's made mistakes," Wade added, "but who doesn't? At least he understands the basics of how the market place operates."

"We as farmers may think our price problems have put us in the frying pan now, but I'm not ready to get rid of Butz and jump in the fire."

FEARLESS FORECAST

by R. W. Lancaster

November 7, 1974

The Moon in the fixed sign Leo making a trine to Uranus early this morning will probably give you some unique ideas of how to spend the day. This should be a good day for shopping, buy shoes today for a good fit or get a haircut and it will be slow growing back. Also a good time for friendly visits or attending to business matters.

November 8th.

The Moon went in to the earth sign Virgo late last night and makes trines to mercury and Jupiter early this morning. You should awaken in a jovial mood and be ready for anything, even visiting your dentist, if you have any bad teeth. A safe day for traveling except about 5 p.m. when the Moon squares Mars and could make vibrations causing carelessness. Complete your legal matters any time today and have a worry free weekend.

November 9th.

A good day for house cleaning and especially good for sewing and mending. A good time for a medical check-up and if you need glasses try to get your eye test any time today. A poor day for sports and the fish won't bite but it is a safe day for traveling and a scenic drive would be long remembered especially if you took your camera.

November 10th.

The Moon in Libra making pleasant aspects this Sunday lets think of what Hawthorne said about happiness over a century ago. (Happiness is a butterfly, which when pursued, is always just beyond your grasp, but which if you will sit down quietly, may alight upon you. Happiness in this world, when it comes, comes incidentally. Make it the object of pursuit, and it leads us a wild goose chase, and is never attained.)

November 11th.

The Moon in the air sign Libra would be a good time for home baking and fresh apple pie would brown nice and taste good. Buy clothing today and you will be attracted to the neatest and latest styles, also a good day for beauty treatments or a manicure. If you want to beautify your home select your needs today.

November 12th.

The Moon went in to the water sign Scorpio early this morning and with the new Moon coming Friday the true sportsman can have the best fishing of the year the next couple of days and by eating fresh fish you can save enough on the food budget to buy some new hunting equipment.

November 13th.

This would be a good day to look for employment if things have been a little slow lately, try to start the new job next Monday if you want it to last a long time. The last chance this month to get a haircut and have it slow growing back. If you want the colors to stay in, dye clothing today or tomorrow.

Ky. Growing Faster Than Rest of Country

Kentucky's population is growing faster than the nationwide rate, a new report by the US Census Bureau shows. The state's population was estimated as of July 1st 1973, 4,000,000, a 1.3 per cent over 1970. Nationwide the growth rate was four per cent, with the south and west continuing to greatly outpace the nation as a whole with seven per cent growth rates each. Kentucky's population appears to have grown less in the past year than in the

"Gallant Men And Women"

President Ford on October 28 paid tribute to the Nation's veterans as "gallant men and women (who) have answered the call... whenever our freedom has been threatened."

While thanking all of America's veterans, Mr. Ford gave special attention to veterans of the Vietnam War. He said of them:

"They served in spite of the most difficult psychological pressures. They served at a time when many of their peers and their elders were denouncing service to one's country as immoral. They served while some avoided service. They served without the full moral support that this nation has usually given its fighting forces."

The President emphasized that America owes a huge debt to our Vietnam veterans and must "serve them in... as they served us in war."

This means, the President said, that Vietnam veterans must share in the fruits of the American system. We must serve to it, he said, that our Vietnam veterans are not forgotten.

Pointing to the plight of the unemployed young veteran, Mr. Ford said he has ordered that the Federal Government hire at least 70,000 Vietnam Era veterans by next July 1. Progress already is being made in providing jobs for vets, the President said. He noted that unemployment among veterans has diminished since its high point in 1971, and gave much of the credit to the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB). Mr. Ford said the NAB hopes to provide 200,000 jobs for veterans during the next year.

The President also promised improved VA hospital care for the Nation's veterans. He said VA medicine is top-flight for the most part now but that some problems exist. He said he has given VA Administrator Richard Roudsback the assignment of solving these problems.

President Ford then turned to the challenge of keeping the peace. Quoting George Washington, he said: "To be three previous years. Population increase between 1973 and 1974 was 29,000. It averaged 36,000 the year between 1970 and 1973.

While Kentucky was gaining population neighboring Ohio was losing. Between 1973 and 1974, Ohio lost 88,000, putting its estimated total now at 10,747,000.

Among the states, the largest numerical population gains were made by Florida (1.3 million), California (954,000) and Texas (853,000).

VA Hospital Holds Blood Drive

The Cincinnati Veterans Administration Hospital is holding its annual blood donor drive on the following dates: November 20, 21, and 26. Currently approximately 225 units of blood are used monthly. Many veterans do not have sufficient friends and relatives to replace their blood needs. Also, due to modern medical practice it is not unusual for a patient to need 15 or 20 units of blood. This makes it difficult for the veteran to replace his blood needs.

This hospital is a member of the University of Cincinnati Blood Transfusion Service.

This year's drive at the VA Hospital is being co-sponsored by the hospital employees and the Elmwood VFW Post. The general public is urged to participate in this drive.

Should anyone wish to give, please contact Mr. Robert F. Timmel, Administration Assistant to Chief of Staff, VA Hospital, 221-2325, Ext. 633.

prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace."

Citing the dire results of isolationism, Mr. Ford said of Washington's declaration, "More than once in our history, we have forgotten that warning and, each time, we have paid a heavy toll in human suffering."

The President applauded the efforts of America's veterans to keep this country strong and said that is the way to build a permanent peace.

He declared: "Let this Veterans Day strengthen our resolve to always walk the extra mile for peace, but always to walk it strong and unafraid for without a mighty America no peace can long survive.

Walton To Propose Local Site For Consideration For Hospital

Florence doesn't have the proposed Boone County Hospital site locked-up tight according to Walton officials.

"We are drafting a letter stating the reasons why Walton should be considered in this matter," says city attorney, Will Zeverly.

"We have a good possible site and the owner of the land is willing to sell. It is just off I-75 and could be a very good location to consider," says city council member, Hess Vest.

"We have already contacted Mr. Henkel on this matter and the Florence site is far from being a final fact. We are advising Henkel, Hovel & Schaefer, architects on the project, as to the completion date of the sewer system which is now underway as well as the condition of other utilities, which would be needed for a project of this kind."

With access to I-75 and property values, which are still realistic in the Walton area, this community could be a very real possibility for the future Boone County Hospital.

The proposed 50-acre site, which Boone County fiscal court has agreed to purchase for $250,000, has been challenged by Greater Cincinnati Airport officials who claim it will be 5000 to 7000 feet off a future runway.

Architects will also be talking with Bureau of Highways officials who will be able to provide information on the traffic count for the area and any future expansion of the highway.

Davis For State Secretary

Drexell "Drex" Davis of Frankfort, announced today that he will seek the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State in the May 27, 1975, primary election. Presently serving as Kentucky State Treasurer, Davis states that he is proud of changes he has made in the state investment policy that have enabled the state to earn substantially more interest income than ever before. He initiated the overnight and weekend investment of surplus funds which will result in the Commonwealth receiving an additional $2,000,000 this year. Davis has been active in state government for some 21 years. In addition to his term as State Treasurer, Davis was Clerk of the Court of Appeals from 1964 to 1967. He was Administrative Assistant to the Secretary of State for 4 years, and served 12 years as Deputy Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

Davis is past president of the Frankfort Lions Club and served as District Governor of the Kentucky Lions, representing 65 clubs in central and northern Kentucky. He is a member of the American Legion, the Masons, a life member of the VFW and is a former member of the Frankfort Jaycees. He and his family are members of the Highlands Christian Church in Frankfort.

A veteran of World War II, Davis attended Georgetown College where he was a member of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He and his wife, Sarah, have 2 children, Drex Jr., a senior at Morehead State, and Ann a junior at Franklin County High School.

Sharing A Smile—with Coach John Oldham, Athletic Director of Western Kentucky University, is Kentucky State Poster Child, Lee Kinsey, of Sedalia. Coach Oldham is the newly appointed State Chairman of the March of Dimes.

Postal customers are reminded that effective Sunday, November 17, the U.S. Postal Service intends to discontinue delivering mail on which there is no postage.

After November 17, letters mailed without postage will be returned to sender if there is a return address, or to the dead letter office, instead of being delivered to the address as postage due mail as has been the custom. Postal officials will attempt to find the sender of unpaid mail and return it for a slight fee, if there is no return address.

VA Benefits

The Veterans Administration, with nearly 24,000 Vietnam-era veterans on its rolls, continues to lead all federal agencies in the employment of this group of veterans.

Basically there are five energy related products that can be produced from solid waste: steam, solid fuel, liquid fuel, gaseous fuel and electricity. Steam and electricity are end products of incineration of solid waste.

Recycling to which Mr. Voegeler will address himself is a way of conserving natural resources. When the material is discarded the reused both raw materials and energy are conserved. The costs of requisition, processing and transportation of raw fuels are eliminated.

The technical feasibility of recovering materials from the municipal waste stream has been demonstrated throughout the country. If currently known technology had been applied nationwide in 1972, almost 14 million tons of steel, aluminum and glass could have been recovered and substituted for their virgin material counterparts.

Solid waste collection and disposal for rural areas has been a problem for generations. Traditionally solid waste has been

A THING IN COMMON

A nursing student at Booth Memorial Hospital, Covington, and her mother have a lot of things in common. Mrs. Robert Chapman, Pfanzestiel Road, Demosville, and her daughter, Melinda, are members of the Flakburg-Finer Life Squad. Both are honor graduates of Simon Kenton High School. But more than that, daughter Melinda plans on joining the Navy after graduation and help her mother become a nurse.

Northern Ky. Area Development Holds Workshop November 19

What are we going to do with it? Is there some profitable way to use it? The problem is solid waste and the subject of a workshop scheduled by the Northern Kentucky Area Development District, 8:00 a.m. on November 19 at the Kentucky Federal Savings and Loan Building in Florence.

It has become apparent in recent years that garbage, trash and the rest of America's throw away should be seriously considered as an alternative fuel source instead of the more expensive fossil fuels. But if trash cannot be recovered or recycled it must be disposed of in some practical inexpensive manner.

To address these problems at the workshop, NKADD has invited three professionals who are knowledgeable in the area of energy recovery and recycling.

Elbert Ray of the engineering firm of Proctor-Davis-Ray, will discuss the energy resource recovery potential of solid waste. Mark Voegeler of Cincinnati Experience will review current trends in recycling metals and paper.

Rural collections systems and sanitary landfills is the topic responsibility of Charles Hall, manager of a solid waste district serving the Ashland area.

Recovery systems require large quantities of waste delivered for processing at one site in order to achieve economies of scale. For this reason, energy recovery appears feasible only in more densely populated areas, such as the Northern Kentucky area. Using solid waste as an energy source offers several distinct benefits:

1. Replaces the use of fossil fuels.
2. Produces low sulfur oxide emissions because trash and garbage has a low sulfur content.
3. Reduces the amount of land needed for disposal sites.
4. Is it readily available in increasing amounts.

System of Allocation

A system of allocation has replaced the traditional burley tobacco auction in recent years, according to the findings of a four-man study committee, and burley growers have lost money as a result.

Several other factors, including pricing procedures for reserve, or "pool" stocks of tobacco, unacceptably low government support prices, and restrictive tobacco leasing laws have choked off the profitability of the crop, and are now threatening the nation's supply of burley, the committee found.

But collusion, or prior agreement, among tobacco manufacturers to hold through the allocation system has caused many farmers to suspect that some sort of conspiracy does exist.

The committee, made up of four Central Kentucky burley producers, was appointed by Kentucky Farm Bureau President J. Robert Wade last December to investigate the cause of extreme price fluctuation on the 1973-74 burley markets.

In addition, the group sought to determine if allocation and or collusion is practiced at the auctions, if current marketing procedures are adequate and what changes or improvements should be made in the marketing system. Committee members were William Belden, Charles Combs, Robert Hornback, and S.J. Stokes.

Although the group endorsed the auction system as "the best method of selling burley tobacco," they were highly critical of several of its aspects. And they insisted that tobacco companies will have to pay more for burley or more and more farmers will quit growing it.

In their report on allocation, the committee said, "In the auction system as it now operates, one buyer bids and all others bid the same price. If one goes up, all go up and all buyers are allocated tobacco in amounts determined by their previous purchases."

"Under this arrangement, a true competitive auction does not exist, and we do not feel that farmers receive a fair and reasonable return," the report said.

"Allocation, for want of a better word, does exist and will continue to exist so long as the burley supply is short, or until a different method of bidding is developed. This unfortunate marketing arrangement has created the impression among farmers that collusion is commonly practiced at tobacco auctions. However, collusion, or prior agreement as to burley prices, among major tobacco buyers is not necessary, and we found no evidence that it exists."

Other parts of the report cited evidence that burley manufacturers are paying about the same price for their raw tobacco, on a per-cigarrette basis that they were 20 years ago. In 1954, the farm value of leaf required for 1,000 cigarettes was $1.46. This figure in 1974 was $1.51, just fractionally higher.

Bureaus taxes, which total more than five times what farmers are paid for the tobacco itself, staggering increases in production costs and shortage in farm labor have led many farmers to abandon tobacco production, in favor of easier, more mechanized crops, the report stated.

All members are urged to be present and all visitors are welcome to attend.

To The Editor

My family and I want to thank the people in Boone County for the kindness and consideration shown us during the Fourth Congressional District campaign.

It was a tremendous honor and privilege to run for public office in this great country of ours. We feel we gave the residents of this district a choice and we accept your decision.

We must now work together to resolve the crises facing our nation. Best wishes to you during the coming months.

Sincerely,

Col. Day for Lt. Governor

Col. James O. Day announced today that he would run for the office of Lt. Governor of Kentucky in the Democratic primary in the spring.

Col. Day, a native of Menifee County, now a resident in Morehead, retired July 31, 1974 after 22 years in the United States Army.

Col. Day's military career began when he was appointed to the US Military Academy at West Point, by the late Congressman Joe Bates of Greenup, Ky. After graduating in 1952 he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in Field Artillery and went on to serve in both Korean and Vietnam conflicts. For the last six years he has been assigned in the Washington DC area with assignments in the Pentagon, and other high level Army headquarters.

At the Pentagon he worked closely with high officials of the Executive Branch and the staffs of Congressional Committees.

During his military career he was awarded the Legion of Merit on two occasions for outstanding service, and received the Bronze Star for duty in Vietnam. He was also awarded a Masters Degree in Political Theory and Public Policy.

Col. Day feels that his training and experiences in management of Personnel and Resources that he has obtained over the years can be put to good use as a leader in state government. Although he is not aligned with any particular group in the Democratic Party, he feels that the Lt. Governor must cooperate and support the Governor to the fullest in order to attend the people's needs.

Col. Day's life has been one of dedication to serve our country and the Democratic process for which it stands for throughout the world. Now he desires to serve the people of the state of Kentucky to the fullest capacity, and conduct a campaign of which the people of Kentucky will be proud.

Chinese Chicken Cuts Costs

If your meat budget doesn't go as far as it used to, cook Chinese style, serving small amounts of meat in combination with attractive vegetables. In this recipe for Chinese Chicken and Pea Pods, created by home economists at La Choy Food Products, one and a half pounds of chicken are used to make a main dish that serves four. Serve it with rice and frozen egg rolls, heated, with bottled Oriental sauces.

CHINESE CHICKEN WITH PEA PODS

Yield: 4 Servings

- | | |
|---|---------------------------------|
| 1½ pounds chicken | 3 tablespoons La Choy Soy Sauce |
| 1 8-ounce package La Choy frozen pea pods | 1 tablespoon sherry |
| 1 8-ounce can La Choy Bamboo Shoots | ½ teaspoon sugar |
| 1 8-ounce can La Choy Water Chestnuts | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 1 small onion, finely chopped | 1 tablespoon cornstarch |
| 1 clove garlic, finely chopped | 2 tablespoons water |
| 1 slice fresh ginger | 4 tablespoons salad oil |
| | Pinch salt |

Bone chicken and cut the meat into thin strips. Drain bamboo shoots. Drain water chestnuts and slice thin. Throw pea pods and dry on paper towels. Mince onion, garlic, and ginger.

Combine sauce mixture: Blend together soy sauce, sherry, sugar and 1 teaspoon salt.

Prepare thickening: Blend cornstarch with 2 tablespoons water. Place a large skillet over high heat until a drop of water disappears almost immediately when flicked onto pan. Add 3 tablespoons oil and pinch of salt; swirl pan so oil coats surface.

Add minced onion, garlic, and ginger to pan and cook, stirring constantly and vigorously, until golden. Add chicken and cook, continuing to stir, for four minutes, or until light golden brown. Remove from pan to a plate and keep warm.

Add remaining tablespoon of oil to skillet. Add bamboo shoots and water chestnuts, stirring rapidly for one minute. Add pea pods, stirring constantly, and cook for one more minute.

Return cooked chicken to pan and add sauce mixture. Stir and cook for one minute. Whisk cornstarch mixture with a fork and add it to pan, cooking and stirring for one minute more, or until the liquid is thickened and clear. Serve immediately.

Autobiography Of R. V. Lents Added To Pendleton Library

Older folks in the county and especially those living in the Goforth vicinity will remember Ralph V. Lents who taught school there in the early "twenties" and boarded at the home of Mr. Louis Conrad.

Very recently Mr. Lents at the insistence of his many friends and former students wrote interestingly of his experiences in teaching and of his other activities. The book was published by the Walton Advertiser.

Mr. Lents presented a copy to the Boone County Public Library last Sunday, October 20, 1974 at the official dedication of the library's temporary quarters on Girard Street, Florence, Mrs. Britton, who represented Pendleton County Public Library Board at the ceremony, bought a copy and presented it to the local library. The book is now processed and ready for lending.

Mr. Lents and twelve other teachers came to Pendleton during the time Mr. Wells was superintendent. Coming from Calloway County and educated at what was then known as Murray State Normal School, the group created quite a stir at the railroad station as they disembarked with their baggage enroute to Falmouth Hotel where Mr. Wells had arranged for temporary quarters.

Most of Ralph and Mollie Lents teaching was done in Boone County and at the school at Constance. He mentions educators who have since passed away such as Mrs. Thelma Caldwell, Miss Sara Reeves, Covington Supervisor, Miss Inez Luten who taught at Butler High School in the 40's. It will be noted that Mr. Lents was a great squirrel hunter and often went squirrel hunting with Allen and Chester Conrad when he boarded at their home.

farm to bottler or manufacturer. There are fewer fruit and vegetable processors now than there were a few years ago, but they produce more frozen and canned fruits and vegetables than before. All of agriculture is growing, both in terms of capital investment and in terms of the amount of food produced.

Marketing

Not only do the farmers depend on others for much of their raw material, an even larger industry is needed to transform farm products into food products. Practically all farm products receive further servicing before they reach consumers. Milk, for example, goes through at least one processing plant before it reaches grocery stores and doorsteps. Processors buy a large percentage of the production of major fruit and vegetable crops. Eggs are cleaned, candled, graded, and packaged before they are sold, and some are processed further. Virtually all poultry is sold cleaned, eviscerated, and ready to cook, and some (mainly hens) goes into soups and other products.

Approximately 45 cents of the consumer's dollar goes to farmers and 55 cents to pay for marketing costs. The farmer's share of the consumer's dollar varies from product to product.

The marketing sector is changing as strikingly as farms themselves and along some of the same lines. Country milk assembly plants, for example, are rapidly consolidating and are completely bypassed when tank trucks take milk directly from

Calf Give-Away By NFO

Louisville residents lined up yesterday for the beginning of a National Farmers Organization "calf giveaway program" at the state fairgrounds.

NFO farmers plan to give away about 200 young cattle to persons who lived within the city limits and agree to feed and maintain the animals for at least six months. Some 1300 persons signed up to get one of the calves.

The biggest chuckle of the day came as one couple tried to get their gift calf into their Volkswagen.

4-H Clover Leaf Club

The November meeting of the 4-H Clover Leaf Club was held November 6, 1974 at Kathy Campbell's house.

We voted on a Recreational leader and Linda Maddox received the Chairmanship. She appointed as her committee, Connie Bently, Gina Perkins, Kathy Campbell and Gina Finnell. A Reporter was also voted on and Gina Finnell was elected for this job.

Our 4-H Club received the Community Project Plaque for cleaning up and planting flowers at the Garden of Hope. Standard Oil was the presenter of this plaque. We also participated in Independence on Court Day. We donated $60 from what we made on Court Day to an orphanage in North Vernon, Indiana. Also we helped paint the display tables used at the fair. We collected and donated needed items for the tornado victims. We sponsored the home furnishings and bought a silver tray for the winner.

Kathy Campbell, Linda Maddox, Brenda Amerson and Gina Finnell are performing in the 4-H Talent Show to be held Saturday, November 9, 1974 at 7:30 p.m. at the Twenhofel Jr. High School.

Piner Clever Clovers 4-H Club

The October meeting of the Piner Clever Clovers 4-H Club was held at the home of Dawn Morehead.

The meeting was called to order by the new president, Mark Parker. Pledges to the flags were led by Scott Parker.

The roll call was answered by ten members, two leaders, and one new member, Tammy Block. The members welcomed her to their club. The members performed their club act at the Recognition Banquet which was held on Oct. 26, 1974. The club had a booth at Independence Court Day, September 28th and sold lemonade and cards for a money project.

This year's Kenton County Talent Show will be held on November 9, 1974 at Twenhofel School. The members will perform a club act entitled "Sing Out America."

Those present were: Cheri Smith, Cindy Parker, Mark Parker, Geri Chapman, Doug Smith, Chris Parker, Jenny King, Scott Parker, Dexter LaFollette and Dawn Morehead. Leaders were Mrs. LaFollette and Mr. Bray.

An NFO spokesman explained that the "giveaway" was conceived as a "humane alternative" to mass slaughter of calves to protect the price squeeze gripping cattle farmers.

In Pillager, Minn., farmers yesterday slaughtered more than 300 head of cattle, hogs and sheep and wasted their carcasses protesting Ford Administration policies on livestock and demanding Secretary of Agriculture Earl M. Butz be fired.

Equestrians Hold Meeting

The Boone County Equestrians held their October meeting at Charlett Frazer's home. They discussed having a Roller Skating Party in February and also an Ice Skating Party this month.

The newly elected officers for 1975 are: President, Curt England, Vice President, Charlett Frazer, Secretary, Amy McClure, Treasurer, Tina Smith, Reporter, Debbie Beemon, and Recreation Leaders, Bruce Smith and Charlett Frazer. This is the last report till January 1975 and the Boone County Equestrians wish all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Election Might Mean More Inflation

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Once more the American people let their fingers do the talking on Election Day. By the ballots they cast or the levers they pulled, they showed their feelings and concerns over issues affecting their lives.

Again it is clear that when issues have a great personal impact, people vote against, rather than for candidates. They vote to oust officeholders they know or think had a hand in, or are associated with the party that had a hand in, the events that annoy them. Last Tuesday's key issue was the economy.

I am most grateful that in reelecting me, a majority of Fourth District voters respected my constant efforts in fighting inflation in Congress, despite the evidence that the national electorate blamed the Republican Party for the skyrocketing prices that have cost every poor to middle class family so dearly. The fact is that almost every Republican Congressman who was defeated had voted regularly against deficit spending in Washington.

In this column and everywhere else, I have emphasized that inflation is caused by continued government borrowing to underwrite expenditures not paid for by taxes taken in. Over and over I've pointed out that those excessive outlays are OKayed by a free spending majority in Congress.

While I blamed the Chief Executive in the White House for asking for greater budgets when I knew the Nation could not handle them without worsening inflation, I also made clear that the President can't get a red cent that the Congress does not first appropriate.

It is very encouraging that so many Fourth District citizens understand these key facts. Several have even written letters to the editors of our newspapers calling readers' attention to them. It is most encouraging that a Gallup poll last July showed 48 per cent of the people blame the Federal government for inflation, whereas the July 1972 poll had only 39 per cent reaching that conclusion.

Watergate and the pardon of President Nixon certainly played a part in the defeat of many inflation fighters who had nothing to do with either event. However, had more than 50 per cent of the Nation's voters instead of only 48 per cent realized that government spending underlies the high prices they pay for everything, there probably would have been a different election outcome.

Our great hope to stem inflation lies in the pressure of the people on their free spending Congressman and Senators to stop throwing away money. Even the wildest spendthrifts will restrain themselves if they fear being beaten at the polls.

To The Editor

Dear Mr. Meadows:

Thanks for your help in promoting the United Appeal in the Walton Advertiser. Through your media you lent vital support to the efforts of the many volunteers who worked countless hours to make this year's fund drive a total success.

The goal-breaking $12,103,403 figure was more than a quarter of a million dollars over the $11,850,000 goal set at the beginning of the fund drive. This figure sets a record high for the Greater Cincinnati-Northern Kentucky area and represented the first successful campaign since 1970.

In behalf of the Cincinnati Area Red Cross and some 100 agencies of the Community Chest, we express our appreciation and look forward to your continued support.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jane DeHaven
Communications Assistant
United Appeal

THANK YOU

I want to thank you for the kindness and consideration shown my family and me throughout the 4th District Congressional Campaign. Now, let's all work together for the good of our country.

Sincerely,

Emphasis On Coal Needed

At long last, I believe this country is in the process of making a full-fledged commitment to coal utilization with proper environmental safeguards. When you look at the facts, such a commitment seems not only logical but almost inescapable.

We are sending $25 million abroad to pay for oil while we sit on enough coal here at home to fulfill our energy needs for centuries to come. Coal has the potential to displace four barrels of foreign imports for each ton that is mined or towed barrels a ton for coal that is converted into synthetics.

Good sense dictates that we have to do whatever it takes to get that coal out of the ground and use it in environmentally acceptable ways. And hindsight makes me wonder where we would be if this country had spent only a small fraction of the money paid to the OPEC countries on domestic coal gasification and liquefaction and sulphur removal research. If we had done the needed research over the last 10 years, we might not have done have had an energy crisis or at least not to the extent that we are now experiencing.

The logistical difficulties of coal utilization are only short to mid-term. With the proper boost from government and industry cooperation, I am convinced that coal can reassume its rightful place as a major energy source in the near future. Already, US bituminous coal consumption has jumped from 576 million tons in 1972 to 626 million tons last year and is rising.

When synthetic plants are brought on stream, the market could possibly triple. Of course, for coal to attract the capital it needs to expand to meet this new demand, the industry needs reasonable assurance that coal is not merely enjoying a passing popularity born of emergency. You need a long term national commitment and I think we as a nation are ready to make that commitment.

You need only look at the federal budget to see a shift to coal. As late as Fiscal Year 1970, the ratio was 10-1 in favor of nuclear development. Now we're cutting that ratio to 2-1 and program managers in the coal development field are getting as much as 10 times the federal money for research and development that they did two years ago.

And as a member of the Senate's Government Operations Committee which had jurisdiction over the bill creating the new Energy Research and Development Administration, I can assure you I know significant precautions were taken to insure that ERDA will not revert to the almost total nuclear orientation of the past.

Promise of Renewal

(Ezekiel 36:22-32)

Dr. F.B. Meyer said: "God's promises are ever on the ascending scale. One leads up to another, fuller and more blessed than itself. In Mesopotamia, God said to Abraham, 'I will show thee the land.' Later, 'I will give thee all the land, and children innumerable as the grains of sand.' And even these promises were eclipsed. It is thus that God allures us to saintliness; not giving anything until we have dared to act—that he may test us; not giving anything at first—that he may not overwhelm us. And always keeping in hand an infinite reserve of blessing. Oh, the unexplored remainders of God! Who ever saw his last star?"

Ezekiel's message to the people of God in captivity was a message of encouragement and hope. Judah had sinned. God had used the Babylonian army to punish Judah. The people of Jerusalem were carried to Babylon where they were to remain some seventy years. But God never leaves his people without his witness. Ezekiel was there to proclaim God's promise of Restoration.

Restoration, Ezekiel 36:22-24

The people of God were to understand clearly that God wasn't acting because they deserved his favor. They had sinned grievously. They had profaned his holy name among the pagans. What greater sin can the people of God be guilty of today than this sin? Yet there are large numbers of people who enter into covenant with Christ who are soon walking in the ways of the world. What do unbelievers think when they see this? What did the pagan nations think of Israel? They thought God was not able to see his people through. But God will show the nations that he does keep his promises. Israel would be restored. The nations of the world would then know that God was the Lord.

Note that the restoring of Israel to the promised land was God's own act. "I will take you and gather you and bring you into your own land." "Not only will God's people be restored to the promised land, they will be renewed by God's Spirit.

Renewal, Ezekiel 36:25-30

There would be, first of all, a cleansing. The sin question in our lives must always be dealt with. As we seek God's blessings, let us make sure we have not overlooked the matter of sin in our lives.

Following the cleansing, God promised a new heart and a new spirit. The change they needed was an inward change. It is better to change a person inside than to give him a new set of circumstances. The stony heart had to go before they could be given a heart of flesh. They would be given a new and right spirit which would enable them to walk in God's way.

God's promise included their return and residence in the land he had given their fathers. They would be his people and he would be their God. Increased blessings would come in the form of abundance of fruit and crops. God's guidance, protection, and presence are with his people when they walk in his laws, keep his judgements, and practice them.

One other thought remains in this passage. We have already pointed out the fact that Israel was in captivity because she had sinned. God's chastisement and his redeeming acts of love will stir Israel to repentance.

Repentance, Ezekiel 36:31-32

The people would remember their evil ways. They would be genuinely sorry for their deeds which did not meet God's approval. They would detest themselves for their iniquities and their abominations.

Here is a message most helpful to man today. How does man meet God's approval? How does man come into right standing with God? It is not by works of righteousness which man does to gain favor. It is what God has already done redemptively on our behalf. But man must come to see himself—the sinner he really is. Only the Holy Spirit is able to do this. This we call conviction for sin. The man who sees himself for what he really is will loathe or detest what he sees. Such a man is then ready for God's saving work in his soul.

We are reminded again in verse 32 that man does not deserve what God does for him. God's mercy and grace reaches out to man and takes away his stony heart and gives him a right spirit. Such a man then will find fullness of life as he joyously walks in the ways of God!

FEARLESS FORECAST

by R. W. Lancaster

November 14, 1974

The fish will be biting until noon then the Moon moves in to the fire sign Sagittarius and the fishing will be poor until next Thursday. The afternoon would be a safe time for all other sports and outdoor activities, the evening hours when the Moon conjuncts Venus would be a good time to enjoy a dance or movie.

November 14th
We have a new Moon early this morning so if you started on that diet a couple weeks ago you should be pounds lighter, and be able to control your eating habits the next couple of weeks while the Moon is increasing in light and giving us the urge to increase our daily habits of eating more than is good for us. Drive careful during the morning hours as the Moon aspects Mars.

November 16th

A very harmonious Saturday is in the making, good aspects to Jupiter and Mercury at noon will make any business deals go smoothly and a good time to take care of legal matters. Take in any of the auctions today and be pleased with your merchandise. The evening would be a good time to write any personal letters and an excellent time to write your advertising for next weeks paper.

November 17th

The great orator and statesman Daniel Webster had this to say about the Sabbath. (The longer I live the more highly do I estimate the Christian Sabbath, and the more grateful do I feel to those who impress its importance on the community.)

November 18th

The new Moon in Capricorn would be a good time to start the week out with some home baked bread and cookies, maybe a fruit cake to put away for the holidays. The morning hours would be a good time to collect outstanding debts and a good time to shop for economical food purchases.

November 19th

The Moon went in to the fixed air sign Aquarius early this morning so today or tomorrow would be a good time to get married if you want to spend the rest of your life with one mate and with all good planetary aspects there will be. A lot of harmony toward the road to happiness.

November 20th

A good day for traveling and a good time to enjoy any sporting activities. If you have been planning on some new appliances, today or tomorrow would be a good time to make the selection. If you move in to a new home today you will be there a long time so make sure you like the new environment.

Open House At Anneliese's

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the Tenth Annual Open House at Anneliese's Art Studio and Gallery in Walton on Friday, December 8 from 12:00 p.m. Refreshments will be served and several original oil paintings will be given away.

Over five hundred paintings will be on display. Most of them done by students, but some also by their instructor, Anneliese. Of these paintings, many are ribbon and grand award winners at various art shows throughout the state.

Anneliese's students range in age from nine year old children to senior citizens and come from many communities, including students from a class recently started at Warsaw. Her pupils also have varied ability from beginner to professional status.

Anneliese Wahrenburg, a well respected artist throughout the state, is a graduate of the Art Academy in Ha burg, Germany. Her paintings have been shown from New England to Florida and have won countless awards.

If you are unaware of the quality of art work available in the Northern Kentucky community, come view this display and you will go home knowing you have seen some of the finest art found anywhere in this area.

Sewage Plant Operators Met

Almost one out of every four water and wastewater operators in Kentucky gathered in Lexington, with John Taylor representing Walton.

The division of sanitary engineering held its 21st annual water and sewage operators schools, Nov. 18-21. It's a refresher course leading up to the certification tests given the last day.

Every water and wastewater operator in the state must be certified for one of nine job classifications. Before a person can be promoted from one classification to a higher grade, he must become certified in the higher grade.

On Wednesday, November 13, 1974 at 7:00 in the new W-V Gym the Walton-Verona Bearcats opened their 1974-75 tournament season by playing the Augusta Panthers in the opening game of the NKIAC.

The hard playing Bearcats showed their great basketball playing ability against the Augusta Panthers by staying ahead of them in points, but in the last playing minutes of the game, the Panthers came from behind and defeated the Bearcats by only a few points.

The first seasonal game was held on Tuesday, November 19, with the Bearcats being the host to the Silver Grove Trojans.

We wish the Bearcats the best of luck in their coming basketball season.

The Bearcats are coached by John Scheper, head coach and Bill Klopp, assistant.

The cheerleaders showed great spirit and support through the game and kept the crowd yelling and the boys going. They are sponsored by Mrs. Rosemary Newcomer.

Attractions during the game was when the Walton-Verona Band and Drill Team performed for the supporters of all the basketball teams represented during the tournament.

Farm Bureau Meeting

Your county Farm Bureau Board of Directors has made it possible to purchase farm chemicals, including herbicides and insecticides, for such crops as corn, soybeans, tobacco, vegetables, orchards, and also many livestock products. This program is available through your county Farm Bureau and will begin accepting orders on November 22, 1974.

We are planning a farmer meeting at 7 p.m. on Friday, November 22, 1974, in the new Verona Elementary School. The chemical companies will sponsor the meeting which will include sandwiches along with information about the products offered. Please notify the Boone Co. Farm Bureau Office by Thursday, November 21, 1974, if you plan to attend so arrangements can be made.

We hope you would come prepared to place orders with your chemical committee at this time, although it will not be necessary to make payment then. In addition to ordering chemicals at this meeting we will have specific days where you can visit your Farm Bureau Office and one or more of the chemical committee will be there to assist you in your needs for 1975. By grouping our purchases together we anticipate great savings through our chemical program.

With a few minor exceptions we have been assured that we will have a plentiful supply of products for all those members who wish to purchase through our Farm Bureau Program.

To Our Walton Readers:

In the past several weeks we have had a few people ask us about Local News.

To begin with, local, we presume means Walton News. Other than a few women's club announcements last week, we received no Walton locals. What is in the paper was gotten by making calls to see if anyone had social items for your paper. If news is not turned in, it cannot be printed. We do not know who is ill, died or otherwise, unless we read it in the Kentucky Post, which seems to have the inside track on local news. We generally know about it last.

The other communities send in their articles faithfully. We serve them as well as Walton. Sometimes we occasionally receive double news items such as PTA activities. In this case, we use the one which came in first. This recently happened and one PTA member put out, because her article did not appear, said if we were not going to use her articles, she would take them to Boone County Recorder.

We are your local paper and can only serve you with your cooperation. We are here!

Where is your news!

Holidays Can Be Fun For The Hostess, Too

The "hostess with the mostess" can prepare a lavish dinner for 50 friends and relatives without batting an eyelash. But can she have a good time?

For the hostess who doesn't always get to enjoy the party, here are some holiday entertaining tips collected from Scott Paper Company's Home Service Center. In addition to being practical, they are very economical as well.

Fix a treat for the youngsters by mixing various candies and wrapping them in Cut-Rite wax paper. Tie each bundle of candy with a colorful ribbon and put one at each child's place setting. You can make these far in advance of the party date; the wax paper will keep the candy fresh.

Make instant coffee by the pot and store it in the refrigerator in a glass jar. All you'll have to do is reheat the coffee when you need it.

Also, if you're planning a holiday party and there are guests in your glassware, get an assortment of silver-finish plastic glasses. They're inexpensive, reusable and disposable.

Planning a cocktail party for 50? Have the bartender write the name of the person and drink on a Scott paper napkin and wrap the napkin around the glass. Then when it comes time for a refill, the guest just returns the napkin and glass. There's less chance for drink mix-ups. Also, keep a roll of paper towels on the bar for quick wipe-ups or for drying hands.

The best way for a hostess to have more fun at her party is to prepare some food at least a week in advance and store it in the freezer. When party time rolls around just heat and serve...and have a good time.

Betty Crocker Search College Scholarships

The 21st Annual Betty Crocker Search for Leadership in Family Living, a $111,000 college scholarship program sponsored by General Mills, gets underway Tuesday (Dec. 3). High school seniors here and throughout the country will join in a written knowledge and attitude examination which will determine individual college scholarships awards of $500 to $5,000.

Participating seniors will compete in a 50-minute examination prepared and graded by Science Research Associates, Chicago, who are also responsible for all judging and selection of winners. The local winner will receive a specially designed award from General Mills and will, together with other school winners, remain in the running for state and national honors.

State winners—one from every state and the District of Columbia—will each be awarded a $1,500 scholarship. Chosen in judging that centers on performance in the written examination, state Family Leaders of Tomorrow will also earn for their schools a 20-volume reference work, "The Annals of America," from Encyclopaedia Britannica Educational Corporation. Second-ranking participants in each state will receive $500 college grants.

On April 20-25 of next year, the 51 state Family Leaders of Tomorrow will gather in Washington, D.C., for an expense-paid educational tour of the capital city and Williamsburg.

Personal observation and interviews of the state winners during the tour will be added factors in the selection of the 1975 Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow and three runners-up. Scholarships awarded to the four national winners will be $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000. A $1,000 Nutrition Scholarship is also awarded to a student planning a college major in nutrition or a related field.

More than nine million students have been enrolled in the Betty Crocker Search since its beginning in the 1954-55 school year. With this year's grants, total scholarships awarded will exceed $2 million.

Hawaii Tour & Aloha!

On October 16 the following people of the local area left for Hawaii.

Ben and Lillian Fennell, Jessie and Harry Fisk, Virginia and Leslie Wagner, Jim and Elizabeth Creamer, Harry and Joyce Sprout, Janet and Fred Harding, Nathelee Bailey, Edna Gashorn, Lillian Bridges, Margaret Stephenson, Stella Saylor, Edna Alexander, Brenda Goodridge, and Jack and Verna Lake.

We left Cincinnati Airport by Delta to Chicago then boarded a 747 to Hawaii on a nonstop. We arrived in Honolulu at 2:30 p.m., at six o'clock it was 12 o'clock our time, so some of us were walking around half asleep. We stayed at the Napulani Hotel for five nights on Honolulu, a grayhound bus would pick us up in front of our hotel every morning taking us out eight seeing. Our tour guide for the entire trip was Karen Zoller, she stayed with us the entire time, had a room on the same floor with us. She was 21 years old, a big girl and very attractive. We would have parties at nights either in the room or the hotel lobby. She taught Mr. Fennell how to do the Hawaiian dance. Also it was Karen and Mrs. Fennell's birthday while we were there, the hotel made a beautiful birthday cake for them and we had Hawaiian Punch.

We visited the sugar fields and pineapple fields on the island of Oahu and on Sunday afternoon we went by boat to Pearl Harbor. One of our men with us was stationed there the time Pearl Harbor was attacked. Monday we flew to the Island of Maui, this was a beautiful island, it is shaped just like a lady's body, the flowers and trees were beautiful with a lot of rain fall and warm climate the year around.

The next morning we flew to Island Hawaii which is the largest island of the eight. This island is known as the Orchard Island, we visited the Orchard factory and had an orchard pined on us. This island is where they have the volcanoes. There was an eruption in July of this year. It was still hot and steaming, there would be just hundreds of acres of nothing but burnt ground or lava.

We saw a lot of coffee trees and the monkey pod tree is beautiful, this is their main tree over there.

We stayed one night in the Kona Hilton Hotel, which was great. We went by bus around this island, saw the Black Sand Beach, a chain of Craters. We had the afternoon and evening free in Hilo, this was a beautiful hotel there with a Japanese Garden in the back.

At 1:30 p.m. we went to the airport by bus, to board the 747 back home. Karen had three boxes of orchards of lilies for us when we left the airport. This was a wonderful trip and all 21 of us advise any one that can to make this trip. "Aloha Again!"

a sunrise, the rapture of wide open spaces, the exhilarating sight of your land greening each spring.

I believe true happiness comes from watching your crops ripen in the field, your children grow tall in the sun, your whole family feel the pride that springs from their shared experience.

I believe that by my toil I am giving more to the world than I am taking from it, an honor that does not come to all men.

I believe my life will be measured ultimately by what I have done for my fellowman, and by this standard I fear no judgment.

I believe when a man grows old and sums up his days, he should be able to stand tall and feel pride in the life he's lived.

I believe in farming because it makes all this possible.

Dollars & Good Sense

An estimated 25 percent of American car owners now perform their own tune-ups and minor repairs to reduce auto expenses dramatically.

You don't need specialized skills or expensive gear to keep your car in top running condition, just some basic knowledge and tools and a repair manual for your car.

Probably the quickest way to learn about repairs and adjustments you can make is to enlist the help of a friend who handles his own auto maintenance.

Many high schools and community colleges offer evening courses in auto mechanics. Libraries, book and auto parts stores offer manuals which will take you step-by-step through everyday maintenance and advanced repairs. And auto parts stores are usually helpful in advising their do-it-yourself customers.

You might start by performing basic maintenance such as oil changes, chassis lubrication and battery maintenance, for example.

As you learn about the mechanics of your car, you'll discover how minor a "minor" tune-up really is. You'll find your car is running better than ever. And there's no charge for labor.

The Life 'Of Zero

My name is Zero. I am a three-fourth Santa Gertrudis and one-fourth Hereford Steer. I was born on October 14, 1972. I had the red Santa Gertrudis coat.

I was trained and shown by Jeff Afterkirk. In my first year of showing which was 1973 I went to a few shows. The judges said that I should fill out more. I got mostly red and white ribbons. I went to the Kentucky State Fair and won a red ribbon.

After a long winter of corn and other feed I thought that I was ready for the 1974 showing year. Jeff worked hard, he walked me, and taught me more than ever. I was very gentle. So I went to the Woodford County Fair and got third a white ribbon. I was disappointed because I knew that I was better than that. The judge said that I needed more muscle and that I would not cut as good as most steers.

So I went to a few more shows just doing average getting mostly reds. I went to the Kentucky State Fair again this year but I got a white instead of blue or red. The judge just said that I wasn't a U.S. Choice Steer.

So my final show was the Kentucky Agriculture Steer & Carcass Show. Out of 52 steers, Live placing 45 which was way down the line. All of the judges said I just wouldn't cut out U.S. Choice. So I proved them all wrong. I placed third, 3rd and got a blue ribbon in the carcass show, nine tenths of a point from winning. I weighed 1225 when I got killed and my carcass weight was 742. So as you can tell, the judge was all wrong about me.

Eastern Ky. Corn Crop Called Best In History

by: Nevyle Shackelford

Based on what has happened in other states, this may seem a bit hard to believe, but many upland farmers of long standing in Eastern Kentucky say they now have one of the finest corn crops in history. In fact, in some counties like Owsley, for instance, farmers are wondering where on earth they are going to store it all. Some farmers like James Wilson are building new cribs. Others are offering to sell it in the fields, and in desperation a few are resorting to the age-old, time-consuming method of cutting the corn in shocks and letting it remain in the field until needed.

The reason for this bumper crop, as many farmers say, is that this has been a good season for corn in the area and, as James Wilson pointed out, Eastern Kentucky farmers have more and more begun to "listen to their county agents."

Wilson, who put in around 100 acres of this all-important grain this year at strategic points on his mountain farm, added that the UK College of Agriculture was largely responsible for his bumper crop.

"My corn plantings," he said, "were based on seed varieties recommended by University specialists—varieties shown by field trials to be disease-resistant and high-yielding."

Wilson's statement was repeated by several other farmers in the area and Owsley County Extension agent Albert Stamper, added still another reason for this great increase in corn yield. "Farmers in the area," he said, "are doing a better job of fertilization based on soil tests."

He indicated that, as a rule, no longer are farmers fertilizing willy-nilly and hoping for the best. They are finding out exactly what kind and how much fertilizer their soil needs and are applying accordingly.

Something else a bit unusual about Eastern Kentucky Corn Crops this year is that the majority of the stalks produced two ears instead of one. In a 15-acre corn patch on Ben Moore's farm in Lee county, it was noted that by far the majority of the stalks bore two large ears of golden grain and nary a nubbin in the field.

"I never in my life," Moore said, "saw anything like best."

In talking with several farmers, there was an indication that not as much corn silage will be stacked up this year as last. They listed "30 cent cattle and $4.00 corn" as the reason.

In other words, it will be more profitable to sell the corn at $4.00 per bushel than to feed it to cattle that may bring only 30 cents a pound.

And will corn command a price of $4.00 per bushel? Many of the farmers contacted think so. Large corn crop failures in the Midwest is one reason for this line of thinking. Then grain dealers from other places have already been "scooting around" in the area checking on the corn situation. The farmers feel pretty certain they will be able to sell all their surplus grain and at a good price.

Inflation And World Hunger

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

The World Food Conference in Rome the last two weeks focused attention on the starvation in underdeveloped countries and stirred controversy over our country's role. Some say we are not doing enough to help.

We have provided aid for needy nations for a long time—in disasters, to help them become self-sufficient, and to keep them safe from conquest. Herbert Hoover headed a U.S. relief mission feeding the hungry in Soviet Russia before he was elected head of our country. Since World War II we've poured billions upon billions of dollars in currency and commodities into practically every country on earth. These were not only tax dollars, but money borrowed by the government to meet these outlays. We have depleted our wealth through outright grants, low-interest and interest-free loans, foodstuffs and other commodities, including military hardware and our most advanced technology to help needy peoples in every corner of the globe—even our enemies.

Materially speaking we do have more than other peoples, but it is equally true that our national debt of just under half a trillion dollars exceeds the indebtedness of all the free world countries combined! Yet these nations—and our enemies—keep asking us for more. This year alone, the interest on our national debt is some $30 billion dollars! Congressman Otto E. Passman, Democrat Chairman of the Foreign Operations Subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee, used to issue annually his own one page tally of all our foreign aid. I quote his summation on his last tally of the incredible figures this aid amounted to: "Total net disbursements to 127 foreign nations, fiscal 1946-1971...$138,446,200,000. Total net interest paid on what we have borrowed to give away, 1946-1971...$74,434,597,000. Grand total cost of foreign assistance 1946-1971...$212,880,797,000. Of the 3 1/2 billion people of the world, all but 36 million have received aid from the U.S."

We didn't have the money to give away, so we borrowed it—at a cost of over $74 billion in interest—and the figures have kept going up every year since that tabulation. The Agency for International Development gives $163.69 billion as its latest total for this country's foreign aid through June 30, 1973. Of this sum, $101.52 billion was economic assistance and the rest military aid. The interest figure has risen accordingly from the $74 billion it was in 1971.

Since government borrowing to pay for programs not covered by tax income is the chief cause of inflation, it seems obvious our priority effort in reducing hunger must be halting our deficit spending. Inflation has had an enormous impact on the hunger problem. Rising prices have made food more costly to produce, to distribute and, of course, to purchase. Higher prices which have increased the numbers of the needy, have also forced generous nations and individuals to reduce their contributions to the needy—a truly vicious circle. More inflation means more needy and diminishing help. The increased borrowing to give help actually hurts the needy more than the help aids them, because prices are outstripping the assistance. Without any new outlays to help the world's poor, next year's U.S. budget reportedly will have a deficit of $10 to $30 billion, forcing still more government borrowing—and that means still higher food prices.

None of this, of course, helps the hungry right now. But each of us today can dig into our own pockets and send help through the religious and charitable organizations working selflessly among the world's poor. Many consider their Christian duty anyhow—one they can't shunt off on a faceless government to carry out. And it's more effective since our dollars go farther. No inflation results, and high priced bureaucrats' salaries don't have to be subtracted from what we give.

Tips On Keeping Better Tax Records

It's soon going to be tax time for farmers and if you are like me you probably will wish you had kept better records this year. Although taxes are the main reason many of us keep records it is not the most important. The more important reasons are for analyzing and adjusting our business, and for credit or financial reasons.

Many of us have good record systems, however, here are ways to improve if we don't.

- (1) Timely posting of income and expenses may be the biggest improvement that can be made. By the way, do you throw everything into one drawer or do you have a yearly record book and a file cabinet?
- (2) Add a depreciation schedule and detailed inventory to the existing record book.
- (3) Take an accurate inventory at least every year and at the same time each year. List everything you can think of. After the first year, it's easy.
- (4) Keep farrowing and calving records up to date. By the way, a sixty day calving season means you only have to carry that book two months a year.
- (5) Pay all bills by check. This helps verify records.
- (6) Get itemized statements and bills from your supply stores.
- (7) Deposit all receipts in your checking account and record the source of income on the deposit slip. Keep a copy of the deposit slip for your records.
- (8) If you don't have a record keeping system you can purchase a Kentucky Farm Record Book and a Five Year Inventory Book at the Extension Office in the Courthouse at Independence for 75 cents.

Furadan has been registered and will be recommended for use on tobacco in 1975. The target insect is the flea beetle and the recommended rate will be 30-40 pounds per acre of a 10 percent granular formulation. The method of application will be to broadcast it and work it into the ground before setting your tobacco. Furadan is a systemic insecticide which means it gets into the system of the tobacco plant to kill the flea beetle when he eats on the plant.

Ward For Lt. Governor

"The economic development of Eastern Kentucky is essential to a healthy Kentucky," State Senator Tom Ward, Democratic candidate for Lt. Governor, told the Boyd County Democratic Women's Club in Ashland Tuesday, November 12. Speaking at the Boyd County Farm Bureau Community Building, the Woodford County legislator stated that the recent developments with regard to coal liquefaction and increased demand for coal brought on by energy crisis should be incentives for a massive effort directed toward the upgrading of education, health services and roads to attract more industry to Eastern Kentucky. Ward said "the children of Eastern Kentuckians should not have to go to Cincinnati, Dayton, or Detroit to get a decent job."

The candidate added that he hopes that this method of campaign finance would become a model for future campaigns by all candidates throughout Kentucky.

Further, he noted that he will introduce a bill to the Interim Committee on State Government that will require all state leases to be subject to public bidding. This measure, he observed, will end "cronyism" in such contracts as has been practiced in many instances in the past.

Ward said that it was through his efforts that several such leases based on political friendship were cancelled recently and that his action was a major factor in the establishment of the present policy of letting such contracts by public bidding.

However, he added, such lease lettings must be protected by law rather than as a policy of any particular administration.

GI Bill College Courses

Few of the 727,000 veterans and servicemen enrolled in GI Bill college courses this fall will need tutorial help, but the Veterans Administration will pay for it if needed.

Under a program not available under the World War II and Korean GI Bills, VA pays costs of tutoring, not to exceed $50 in any month, up to a maximum of $450. The benefit is not charged against the veteran's or serviceman's basic educational entitlement, was also pointed out by VA officials.

Any post-secondary trainee eligible if he trains half-time or more and has a deficiency in a subject required in an approved program of education.

In order to receive payment for tutorial assistance, the agency advises eligible GI Bill trainees to complete a VA application and have it certified by the school. Applications should be sent within a year of the tutoring to the VA regional office which has the veteran's claim folder, said VA.

Totla GI Bill enrollments, including other schools, flight, apprenticeship and on-job training, stood at 1.3 million in September.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORT to the People

Coal Plant and the Economy

Kentucky's efforts to become the leader in coal research took a giant step forward with the government's announcement that the Nation's first coal liquefaction pilot project would be located in Catlettsburg, Kentucky.

This announcement was the culmination of more than two years of work by the entire Kentucky congressional delegation, Governor Wendell Ford and the state administration, the state legislature, and Kentucky industry. Our success in this endeavor will result in substantial economic benefit to Kentucky and it should also contribute greatly to the country's energy efforts.

Now we will have a coal liquefaction and coal gasification project in Kentucky. Earlier, the state announced plans to construct a gasification plant in Western Kentucky to be built in cooperation with Texas Gas Transmission Company. The liquefaction plant will be operated in cooperation with Ashland Oil Company.

Congress has passed, and the President has signed into law, legislation creating a new Energy Research and Development Agency, which should spur additional coal research over the next few years. Another energy research and development bill, which provides more funding for coal research, is now before a Senate-House conference committee.

Altogether, I think these developments indicated an increasing commitment by the federal government to coal research that can only be good news to Kentucky, because it will bring about expanded coal utilization and the development of an environmentally-acceptable process of using coal.

As Congress reconvenes for the post-election session, several major items will be on the agenda. But taking precedence will be proposals to deal with the economy both the "double digit" inflation and the current recession. Although the prime concern in recent months has been inflation, I believe the prospect of a deep recession is just as dangerous. We already have 6 percent unemployment and every day there is news of additional layoffs by plants and factories across the Nation. Hopefully,

Congress and the administration can get together on legislation that is fair and equitable and that will provide stability to our economy.

During the 90 minute special the cast will call forty people in the tri state area. Among the many valuable gifts will be a trip for two to the Orange Bowl, an autumn haze mink stole, a color television, a $1,000 certificate of deposit, a four horse power outboard motor, a child's playhouse and storage building, a $4,000 college scholarship at the accredited school of the winner's choice, and one million Top Value stamps, pre-licked.

Consumers Fooled By Furnace Inspectors

The furnace inspector who drops in to check your furnace free of charge may warm your heart, but he may not warm your house. Beware of phoney furnace inspectors who may try to persuade you to have unnecessary work done on your furnace.

As the weather turns colder, consumers are reminded to have their furnaces inspected, cleaned, and repaired, if repairs are needed. There are many reputable firms that will do just that.

There also may be others who want to sell you unnecessary parts or a whole new furnace, if possible.

To protect yourself against the unscrupulous ones, follow a few basic rules:

Be cautious when approached by anyone who offers a free furnace inspection.

Don't let anyone take your furnace apart for inspection or cleaning unless you are sure that he is qualified to do so.

Don't take an inspector's word that he is qualified. Investigate every home improvement firm you deal with. Call the Consumer Protection Division, the Better Business Bureau, the National Home Improvement Council, the National Remodelers Association or a local home builders group. Ask around.

Investigate inspectors and dealers in advance, if possible. If there is ever a real danger of an explosion or of poisonous fumes, you will want to act quickly to have your furnace repaired. Advance checking can do away with the possibility that an inspector might use scare tactics to get you to panic and sign a contract too quickly without checking past service or shopping for the best price.

During an inspection, watch carefully. A fraudulent inspector may bring his own broken parts with him and pretend that they are yours.

After an inspection, get a second opinion. If you've been told your furnace is beyond repair, have it confirmed by a heating engineer. If an inspector recommends a particular heating engineer, it could mean that the inspector and the engineer are working together.

Obtain estimates or competitive bids on replacements or major overhauls.

As always, get any guarantee or warranty in writing. If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Office, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Tea In A Perc

The British traditionally used loose tea for tea-making, believing a brewed tea was better than tea made with tea bags, as Americans usually make it.

The tea bag method is easier though, right? Wrong. Not if you own a coffee percolator. Freshly-brewed tea made from loose tea is simple to make in a coffee percolator, Sunbeam says.

Why do it? For one thing, there's usually a broader selection of loose teas available for exciting, new tastes. It is simple to even combine loose teas to reduce a spicy flavor to just a hint of something special and extra to suit your own taste.

The steps for brewing tea in a percolator are easy to follow.

First, make sure the percolator is clean. Rinse it well with hot water and wipe the interior dry, including the basket.

Second, put in the amount of cold water needed to brew the number of cups desired.

Third, add loose tea to the basket of the perc that normally holds coffee. Now plug it in and let the percolator do the rest.

One tip from Sunbeam: It takes a lot less loose tea than is indicated in the instructions on the container when using a percolator. With the flavor setting at "mild" they found nine cups of brewed tea required just three level teaspoons of loose tea. One or two more will give you the combination that suits your taste. Happy tea party.

Ignition Changes

Some 65 per cent of all motor vehicle breakdowns are due to ignition system failures, and with the days growing shorter, the number of those breakdowns will grow longer.

Besides the usual winter tune-up, motorists would be well advised to take a look at some recent advances in ignition system engineering.

Since first designed in 1914, the Kettering ignition system—battery, ignition switch, coil, distributor, spark plugs, and high tension wires—has been one of the few systems on the American automobile not to undergo major changes.

After 60 years, the changes are coming by the basketful. In 1973, Chrysler added breakerless points to its models, followed by Ford in 1974 and American Motors, International Harvester and Jeep on 1975 models.

With roughly 100 million "older" models on the road in the United States today, several add-on units have been developed.

Advantages of some of the more efficient electronic ignition units include increased horsepower and mileage and decreased exhaust emissions.

This comes by providing a hotter spark, quicker, for greater combustion efficiency and sharply reduced tune-up degradation with virtually no points current.

A free booklet detailing some of the ignition changes is available from Tri-Star Corporation, Grand Junction, Colo.

THE MAN WHO SOLD HOT DOGS

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs. He was hard of hearing, so he had no radio. He had trouble with his eyes, so he read no newspapers. But he sold good hot dogs. He put up signs on the highway telling how good they were. He stood by the side of the road and cried "Buy a hot dog, Mister." People bought.

He increased his meat and roll orders. He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him out. But then something happened.

His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio? There's a big depression coming on. The European situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse."

That made his father think; "Well, my son's been to college, he reads the papers, and he listens to the radio, and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and roll orders, took down his advertising signs, and no longer bothered to stand on the highway to sell his good hot dogs.

Sales fell fast almost overnight.

"You're right son," the father said to the boy, "We certainly are in the middle of a great depression. There just isn't any business." (Need we point out the moral?)

SUNDAY SERMON

God's Concern For All Men
(Jonah 4)

The great evangelist Dwight L. Moody used to tell the story of a small boy in Chicago who walked many blocks across frozen streets to the church served by Mr. Moody. On one occasion a Sunday School teacher stopped the little fellow and inquired where he was going. He answered the man, "To Mr. Moody's Sunday School." The man replied, "Why, that's many blocks away. Come into my class in this Sunday School nearby." The boy refused. The teacher persisted and finally asked the boy why he went so far through the cold across the city to Mr. Moody's Sunday School. The small boy answered, "Because they love a fellow over there!"

Sam Hadley of the famed Water Street Mission in New York once said, in telling of the kind of people the mission was trying to help, "We don't want anyone here who is welcome anywhere else."

Though we readily understand such an appeal to the down-and-outs, we rejoice that the gospel is also for the up-and-outs. In fact, the gospel is for the whole world. Isaiah 43:5-7 says, "Bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth."

A Pouting Prophet, Jonah 4:1-4
The book of Jonah was written to counteract the mistaken idea, held by Israel that God cared only for them. They knew they were God's chosen people. They forgot why. God had chosen them to be a missionary nation to all other nations of the world (Genesis 12:1-3). It is always easy to become so wrapped up in the

Dedication For: Morning View Church

The Morning View United Methodist Church in Morning View, Ky. will hold dedication and burning of the mortgage on Sunday, November 24th at 2:30 p.m.

Rev. Walton Gardner, Covington United Methodist District Superintendent will be present with past pastors.

Special music by the young people and choir.

The old church was built around 1887, the new basement was built fall of 1961. The first service was December 31, 1961. October 28, 1971 the first brick was laid for the new Sanctuary. With all new pews, pulpit and choir pews the first service was held May 21, 1972. On October 29, 1974 last payment on the church debt was made.

The Wishing Well was built to house the church bill, then was transferred to the bellfry of the new church. Regular church service at 11 joy of our privileges that we forget our responsibilities.

This book was not written by Jonah but it was written about him. He was a man who lived about 800 B.C. 2 Kings 14:25 speaks of the prophet Jonah, the son of Amittai.

The book of Jonah was probably written after the Babylonian Exile, 400 B.C. would be a fairly accurate dating of the book. It is the inspired word of God and comes to us in the form of a short story. Its vital message has too long been lost in the wranglings over the fact of the fish. If God could create the universe, He could do anything else He wanted to do. The book was not written merely to entertain.

God's word came to Jonah the prophet instructing him to go preach to Nineveh, the capital city of Assyria. Jonah, a Jew, didn't like the Ninevehites. They were bitter enemies. Jonah took a ship going to another destination. But the story clearly reveals that one doesn't escape his responsibilities to God simply by changing his address! Jonah, after spending three days and nights in the belly of the great fish, got second chance and took it. He preached God's message to Nineveh and Nineveh repented. God then turned from His judgment upon the city and Jonah became very angry. Jonah asks God to take his life from him. But God has other plans. God knows the needs and what is best even for a pouting prophet.

A Providing God, Jonah 4:5-8
Jonah went outside the city and found a place where he could look back and see what he knew wasn't going to happen. He built himself a booth, sat in its shade and waited.

head of Jonah. Again Jonah wished he would just die and get out of it all. Jonah was by nature a good man. This helps to explain his unhappiness. A lesser man could have cared less, but Jonah was torn between a life-long prejudice and what he was coming to see as God's will.

Nineveh was filled with 120,000 people who could not discern between their right and left hand. A Perishing People, Jonah 4:11

Jonah cared for the gourd and expressed anger when it perished, but he could not allow God to care for a whole city of perishing people.

FEARLESS FORECAST

by R. W. Lancaster

November 21, 1974

The Moon goes in to the watersign Pisces this evening so if you have any concrete work to do try to finish it up today. Also complete your purchase of any major appliance before the day is over, or else wait until the 28th to make the final decision, if you want to be satisfied with your purchase.

November 22nd

With the Moon in Pisces the next couple of days the true sportsman can do very well catching fish and should take his camera along to prove what might be termed another fish tale. If you want a comfortable fit in foot wear, do your shopping today or tomorrow. If your hair has been getting a little thin on top and you want to stimulate growth, get it cut today or tomorrow and have a good massage.

November 23rd

This Saturday would be a good time to finish anything you didn't have time to do yesterday and start thinking about the house plants you want to grow inside this winter. This is an excellent time for re-potting or grafting and any seeds planted inside will make quick growth and be decorative for the coming Yule-Tide season.

November 24th

The 19th Century Clergyman Caleb Colton once gave his congregation some good advice on their associations. (In all societies it is advisable to associate if possible with the highest; Not that they are always the best, but because, if disgusted there, we can always descend; but if we begin with the lowest to ascend is almost impossible.)

November 25th

The Moon is in the right sign for successful home baking, and with Thanksgiving coming this week why not bake those pumpkin and mince pies today or tomorrow and not be rushed later, and don't forget that a fruit cake baked now will be just right at Christmas. The afternoon would be a good time for collections either what is owed you, or to help some worthy cause.

November 26th

Finish your home baking during the morning hours if you didn't get it all done yesterday, as the Moon goes in to the earth sign Taurus in the afternoon and your thoughts will turn to house cleaning and other chores after lunch. If you need a permanent try to get an appointment for tomorrow.

November 27th

If you got that appointment for a permanent wave today you will be well pleased with the results, as it will hold curl a long time and look nice for months. Another good day for buying new shoes and clothing if you want the latest styles and a good fit. The aspects look good for safe traveling the next few days.

"The Kaiser's Dream"

Recited by Thomas C. McDonald, age 11 yrs., at Macedonia School, Bethel, Ohio, in the year of four Lord, 1918.

There's a story I'm told,
Tho strange it may seem,
How the Great Kaiser Bill
Had a wonderful dream.

He was dreaming of Allies
As he lie on his bed,
When his dream switched about,
He dreamed he was dead.

In a very fine coffin,
He was lying in State,
Tho thousands were there,
None mourned his Fate.

His soul buzzed about
And found to his cost
That he and his soldiers
Were doomed to be lost.

He wouldn't believe it,
So to Heaven went straight,
Arrived at the Portals,
Knocked loud at the Gate.

"Hey, Peter, Get Bust!
Quick, open the door!
See who's here; it's the Kaiser!
Make everything roar!

Beat the drums! Blow the Horns!
Have a swell banquet made!
Tell God I have come,
And we'll have a parade."

St. Peter looked out.
Then in voice loud and clear
Said, "Try down below Bill.

"Tut, tut," said the Kaiser.
"You're very unconvil.
Don't probably know
I'm a friend of the Devil.

I'm going with pleasure."
So he started to go,
A whistling like blazes
To make a big show.

When he arrived at Hell's door,
He was filled with dismay,
For while waiting outside,
He o're heard Satan say.

"Look here, boys!
I give you all warning!
I'm expecting the Kaiser
Down here in the morning!

But don't let him in,
He'll start musing about.
So give him the Ha, Ha!
And kick him right out!"

"O Satan, Dear Friend,"
The Kaiser then cried.
"Excuse me for listening
While waiting outside.

But please let me in,
For where else can I go?"
"Indeed," said the Devil,
"I'm damned if I know."

"Please let me in,
For I'm feeling quite cold.
If you want money,
I've plenty of gold.

Let me sit in a corner,
No matter how hot.
"Nix," said the Devil,
"Most certainly not!"

Here are sulfur and matches;
Go make a Hell for yourself.
Don't skimp; use them freely.
For by Donner and Blitz,
For Sultan and Fritz."

From his troublesome dream,
Bill awoke in a sweat!
And said, That's a dream
I shall never forget!

I won't get to Heaven;
I know very well.
But I never once believed
I'd be kicked out of Hell."

Treat For Two With California Dip

Twenty years ago, California Dip - that delicious combination of onion soup mix and sour cream that everyone loves - made its first appearance at parties all over the country. Now on the scene is instant onion soup which makes the same tasty California Dip but in small quantities. If you're planning an anniversary celebration of your own, or a special dinner just for two, try these onion stuffed pork chops made with the instant onion dip. They're fast and easy to prepare, have a marvelous flavor, and are ideal for intimate dinners. Double the recipe if you invite another couple - they'll all enjoy it with you.

Onion Stuffed Pork Chops

1 1/4 cups seasoned croutons
1 cup Lipton Instant Onion Dip
1 Tbs. solid shortening
4 pork chops, 1/2-inch thick
2 Tbs. water
Preheat oven to 350.

In small bowl, combine croutons with 1/2 cup of Instant Onion Dip.

In medium skillet, melt shortening and brown pork chops. In shallow dish, place 2 chops and spoon half the stuffing mixture on each; top with remaining chops. Add water; bake covered 30 minutes. Blend remaining Instant Onion Dip into liquid and bake covered an additional 30 minutes or until chops are tender. Makes 2 servings.

Veterans Administration expenditures for auto grants and adaptive equipment in fiscal year 1974 decreased 27 per cent from the previous year and 53 per cent from fiscal year 1972, reflecting the end of military operations in Southeast Asia.

Give to Your Christmas Seals

One holiday tradition got underway last week, as 1200 bags carrying more than 800,000 pieces of mail launched the 68th annual Christmas Seal Campaign. The mailing by the Louisville and Kentucky Lung Association contained Christmas Seals and requests for donations.

Simultaneously with the mailings, the agency's Blue Grass Region, headquartered in Lexington, announced the official start of the 1974 "Miss Christmas Seal" Contest now in its 25th year.

Nineteen University of Kentucky coeds will compete in the contest sponsored by sororities, fraternities and dormitories on the campus. Ballots were included in the Christmas Seal mailing to the Blue Grass area. Voting will be in the form of contributions to Christmas Seals, with each dollar equaling one vote. The contest ends at midnight Saturday, December 7, but the Christmas Seal campaign continues through the first of the year.

Funds raised by the Christmas Seal Campaign will be used to support treatment centers for those suffering with lung or respiratory disorders; provide training for health professional at all levels; support research in lung disease; provide health education in schools; assist in the provision of "breathing machines" and emergency transportation for those otherwise unable to obtain such needs, support continuing efforts for cleaner air and a number of related activities.

The Lung Association is asking every Kentuckian to "Give more to Christmas Seals! a matter of life and breath."

Gardening Tips

Against the backdrop of the sky, leafless twigs of woodland trees appear as etchings. Green pasture fields have changed to brown, fence rows are festooned with cottony fluff of Old Man's Beard, and the purple plumes of the tall Queen-of-the-Meadow are gray and brittle to the touch. Fallen leaves, subject to the whims of vagrant winds, sweep over the ground like hosts of frightened fiddler crabs on a sea shore. The sun drops behind Western Hills in a blood-red glow, to be followed by the great hunter's moon that inspires each object to cast strange shadows across the land.

In the glory of their youth, young foxes whelped last spring yap at this rising moon, and from the dark pines ringing the cliffs the great horned owl stirs on its perch and adds its unearthly voice to the other eild sounds of the night, bringing frightful sensations to roosting crows, foraging field mice, and bark-eating rabbits. For this autumn when, since times out of mind, all these sounds have been heard and all these changes have taken place.

Soon, in the endless cycle of the seasons which never hurries and never wearies, winter will come boiling down from the North. The last remnants of summer will be erased from the face of the land but, in the cellars and pantries, cribs and barns of the provident, much of its evidence still remains.

Summer remains in the form of great heaps of potatoes and apples and other good vegetables in the cellars; in cribs bursting with golden corn; and in dark, commodious barnlofts stuffed with fodder and hay.

In the homesteads of the industrious, summer never really departs and, as long as grass will grow, it never really will. Like love, summer springs eternal, and with sufficient will, strength, and proper effort, it is a season that, in a sense, can be captured in a sealed jar and through the long cold months of winter, ever held in the hand.

Few people who live close to the earth and get their living from it really love this period of winter, but they know it must come and therefore prepare for it. It is for this time that all the summer's farm and garden work has been done: potatoes, apples, cabbages, onions, and turnips in the cellar; crows of kraut, pickled corn, and mulling meat in the smoke house; bins of grain and racks of hay in the mow.

When the snows come and the days are chill they still have a lot of summer and take comfort in the knowledge that they will be sustained until it comes again.

Fiscal year 1974 expenditures for medical and related care and supplies climbed to $2.8 billion up $300 million from the previous year, the Veterans Administration reported recently.

Southern States Big News

Charlie Gibson of Crittenden represented Southern States Cooperative's members at the association's 51st annual stockholders' meeting held in Richmond, Va. November 13 and 14. Also attending the session was Christopher C. Combs, Manager representing Boone County Farm Supply in Walton local Southern States retail outlet.

They heard General Manager John J. Freland, report to the 1400 delegates, guests and employees who attended the session that net purchases by patrons exceeded $243 million, an increase of about $63 million over 1972-73, and net savings totaled $13.7 million, an increase of $4.9 million before taxes. Both were new high marks, Freland told the session.

He shared the reporting at Tuesday's business session with Controller F.M. Armbricht, Wholesale Services Director J.H. Buchholz, and Community Services Director Paul E. Mullinix.

"While inflation played a role in the large dollar increase," Freland emphasized that the number of "units handled also showed substantial increases. This is particularly significant in light of the many shortages that existed throughout the year."

"Fertilizer tonnage increased 10.5 percent in spite of the acute shortage that was prevalent worldwide... farm supplies and formula feeds also had heavy tonnage increases," he reported.

Fertilizer volume for the year topped $45 million while tonnage shipped stood at 608,000 tons over last year. Seed volume hit $16.5 million and miscellaneous farm supply volume reached $56 million. Freland told the session that after payment of dividends on outstanding stock and taxes, about $10 million in cash will be refunded by the cooperative's total system to its patrons on their year's purchases. The cooperative will pay a 3.6 percent wholesale patronage refund while its local affiliates and branches, in some cases, will pay considerably more.

Mrs. William Locke gave a report on the 57th annual 5th District Meeting, held at the Riverfront Holiday Inn.

Members attending were: Mrs. Locke, Mrs. David Peebles, Mrs. Asa Rouse, Mrs. Gayle McElroy, Mrs. Jack Rouse, Mrs. Wally Wireman.

The Spiritual Guidance was given by Mrs. Jack Rouse and the Hostesses were Barbara Treadway and Connie Lauterwasser. They served refreshments to the following members and guests: Mrs. Malcolm Simpson, Mrs. Asa Rouse, Mrs. Willie Mathis, Miss Joella Sleet, Mrs. Gayle McElroy, Mrs. Ruth Glenn, Mrs. Wendell Rouse, Mrs. Chester Sturgeon, Mrs. Robert Slayback, Mrs. George Black, Mrs. William Locke, Mrs. David Peebles, Mrs. Jack Rouse, Mrs. Ira Harris, and Mrs. Jim Lawrence.

Addition Being Considered

An addition to Simon Kenton High School would be built if citizens attending an open hearing at the school have their way.

The hearing was held by the Kenton County Board of Education to consider building programs for both Simon Kenton and Dixie Heights.

At the close of the meeting a member of the audience suggested a show of hands which indicated addition would be preferred to the construction of a third high school. School board officials, although not taking a final stand, said that the state department of education in 1973 had called facilities inadequate for industrial arts, home economics, music, commercial and physical education.

Supt. Don Davis said that the finding of the hearing would be forward to the State Department of Education but that it would require two years after a decision is made before construction could be completed.

He did not rule out a third high school in the future should additions be built for the present schools.

When The Party's Over, Then What?

Entertaining can be fun, but it's also WORK for those doing the entertaining. This is especially true during the holidays with all the special preparations usually required.

For those who hate to face the thought of after-party cleanup and that includes just about everyone, the Home Service Center at Scott Paper Company has compiled a list of suggestions that may help ease the situation.

Although, after-party cleaning is inevitable, the job will go quicker if you try a little prevention first. Save a lot of after-dinner cleaning by serving food in attractive cookware that you take right from the range to the table.

If you anticipate a lot of youngsters at your holiday party, don't use expensive linen tablecloths. Instead, use colorful paper placemats and napkins. These can be thrown away after the party and, best of all, you won't have to worry about removing stains from your best linen.

When the party's over, you'll probably find food crumbs inadvertently scattered over rugs and furniture. To make cleaning easy going, use a vacuum cleaner with a special attachment for sweeping up crumbs in the hard to reach corners of the sofa.

Candle wax can be removed from fine tablecloths by carefully scraping the wax with a dull knife. After this is done, place the stained area between several layers of white Scotties tissues or white paper towels and press with a warm iron. Launder the table cloth in the usual way. It will be as clean as the day you bought it.

Barbecue Your Holiday Turkey

For something extra special, why not barbecue your holiday turkey? If you enjoy the flavor of outdoor cooking, you can barbecue year 'round, even in the chilliest weather.

The trick is to do the cooking in a covered kettle. The kettle protects food and hot coals (or gas) from frosty air and bakes food to a golden brown. Barbecuing your turkey is surprisingly easy, say home economists at Weber Stephens, the country's leading producer of barbecue kettles.

And, with frozen sweet corn generally available all year long, barbecue some ears to go with your festive holiday fare.

Barbecue Turkey (Unstuffed)

Stuffed turkey take more time to cook. If stuffing is desired, bake it separately in a casserole along with turkey the last 45 minutes of roasting.

Oven ready turkey
Salt
Pepper
Cooking oil

Clean turkey, sprinkle cavities generously with salt and pepper. Lock wings behind back or fasten next to breast and tie securely; tie legs and tail together securely or press legs under band of skin. Insert meat thermometer into thickest portion of thigh with point away from bone.

Center turkey on greased cooking grill or in roast holder on cooking grill directly over drip pan. Brush with oil. Cover kettle; cook to 185 degrees.

Add briquettes or adjust gas temperature control as needed to maintain temperature.

Turkey-A-Laking and dressing were the main foods relished by all at the November meeting held the 21st at the home of Mrs. Zona Floyd with Mrs. Carrie Hall as co-hostess. Mrs. Minnie Letcher read a devotional entitled "Thanksgiving is thanks living". The meeting was presided by the president, Mrs. Joan Ellis.

Secret pals were revealed and new pals were selected for December and the coming year.

The "Metric System" was the lesson given by Mrs. Ruth Kelly and Mrs. Judy Spegal. United States is the only major country not using the metric system. However, changes are being made all the time. Therefore, within ten years we will probably be using only the metric system. The leaders showed various articles which displayed our present system of weights and measures and, also, gave the metric system figures.

The members decided to write and urge their representatives and senators to pass the bill to get prayers back into public schools.

Members at the meeting other than those named above, were Ruth Ann Andrews, Pat Blanton, Margaret Dickson, Henrietta Endres, Hazel Kumer, Ronnie Mutch, Alice McHale, Georgiann McHale, Ruth Powers, Connie Schneider, Betty Skelton, Loretta Sterling, and Ann Wolsing. A guest, Mrs. Susan Kelly, will become a member in December.

The Christmas meeting will be held at the Town and Country Restaurant December 19th. Santa might not be there but gifts will be exchanged at that time.

Oak Ridge Homemakers

The Oak Ridge Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. C. Cummins on Decourcy Pike on Tuesday, November 19 at 10:30.

The lesson of Metric System was presented by Mrs. S. Tallent and Mrs. Cummins. They told about what you need to know about the Metric System, Basic Units, Comparative Sizes and some commonly used units of other units.

Those present at the meeting were: Mrs. R. Kennedy, Mrs. F. Gause, Mrs. L. Setters, Mrs. M. Willenberg, Mrs. C. Slaughter, Mrs. R. Stephenson, Mrs. M. Kemper, Mrs. P. Bishop, Mrs. S. Talbert, Mrs. M. M. Thompson, Mrs. C. Cummins, Mrs. A. Monson, Mrs. C. Harvey, Mrs. D. Jones and R.A. Yates.

Keen-Agers Visit Georgetown

The Walton Kenn Age Group enjoyed a trip to Georgetown College on Monday, November 18. Following a welcome by the vice president of the college, the group ate lunch in a private room at the college union building.

At the planetarium, a view of the stars and the movement of the planets were featured. In the science building, a three story perpetual motion pendulum illustrated the rotation of the earth on its axis.

Highlighting the tour was the visit to the ante-bellum Greek Revival home of the president. Gifts from alumni and friends have added special charm to the home.

The following attended the tour: Mrs. Allie Mae Williams; Mrs. Mary Acra; Jessie Hoffman, Fannie Adams, Opal Pelfrey, Ora Lee Benton, Lucille Neumeister, Clarence Banforth, Frances Code, Lelia Wasson, Clara D. Presser, Kleo Vallandingham, Betty Fairchild, Bro. Dale Hottle, Bro. Bob Sheffield.

Live in Love

Ministers of churches from throughout the Covington area met today with members of Live in Love to hear that group's plans for a nationwide television campaign aimed at carrying the message of Jesus Christ to every living American.

Live in Love is a recently formed organization that believes the medium of television, coupled with modern advertising technology, can be used to "sell" Christianity to an audience in a manner similar to that by which commercial products are marketed.

Live in Love plans to reach the largest possible audience by using prime air time for its messages instead of the traditional Sunday morning programs.

At the meetings, ministers were given packets of information that explained the history and purpose of Live in Love and also contained samples of ads that might be used on television.

By using this approach, the message of Jesus Christ can be effectively spread at a cost of about 50 cents per 1,000 persons.

Live in Love members point out that they fully support the work of such ministers as Billy Graham and Oral Roberts. They feel that such evangelists show the potential television has to reach large numbers of persons.

If it is possible to motivate some one to buy deodorant with only 30 seconds of TV time, then Live in Love feels it is surely possible to interest that same person in finding out more about a product that could save his life and revolutionize his existence.

CARE Aids Bangladesh Famine

Moving to offset developing famine in Bangladesh, CARE today authorized the purchase of 1,000 tons of wheat to be used in immediate feeding programs in mother-child feeding centers. The international feeding and development agency said that an additional 3,700 tons of rolled oats were being programmed through CARE by UNICEF for immediate use in the emergency programs.

"Starvation in Bangladesh deepens by the hour," Judith A. Johnson, Ohio Ky. Regional Director of CARE said. "As always in such cases, the very old and the very young are dying in large numbers. Unless immediate action is taken an enormous human tragedy is in the making."

Ms. Johnson said that the 1,000 tons of wheat were valued at $300,000 and their purchase would place a heavy strain on CARE's resources in view of the growing need for similar emergency programs in other parts of the world.

"We must save every single human being that we can in Bangladesh," Ms. Johnson said.

"CARE, as always, must do everything that contributions permit. Our staff in Bangladesh has had long experience in feeding millions."

CARE has had programs in Bangladesh since 1961.

taxes to pay for them. Farm exports have greatly helped the US balance of payments and without exports the dollar would be in very serious trouble. Inflation would be more rampant than it is now and imports would cost you more. Look around your house and see all the imported items you enjoy. How are we going to pay for them unless we have something to ship overseas? And what better way do we have to pay the bill than to export farm products from our highly productive agricultural plant. "If you ask me the farmer must be getting rich. . ."

-No, not really. His income is higher than it has been for a long time. But the farmer's costs have gone up just as yours have. While farm income is running 44 percent higher than during the period of 1961 to 1968, it is still only 80 percent that of non-farm people.

The goal is to make the average income of farm people at least equal to that of their city cousins. That's fair enough. If farmers make profit and agriculture remains healthy and prosperous, you can be pretty sure that there will be an abundant supply of high quality food throughout the year. And good prices down on the farm mean good business in our towns and cities.

These Boone Co. 4-H boys and girls showed their 4-H beef animals at the District 4-H & FFA show in Lexington at Clay Ward's Stockyards on September 23rd. The Carcass banquet was on Saturday night, September 28th at U.K. where these boys and girls received their ribbons. This was a steer show and sale in which the animals were placed by a judge on foot and then judged again after the animal was slaughtered and dressed according to their carcass yield.

Susan Hetteman has had a beef project for several years in 4-H and has a small herd of her own. One of her hobbies is training her animals to show in local fairs. Susan was recently Polled Hereford Queen of the Ky. Polled Hereford Assoc. In the live line-up Susan placed 43rd but when the carcass was judged she placed 13th out of 48 and the top Hereford in the carcass test. She received a red ribbon in both live and carcass show. Susan is a senior at Walton Verona.

Mike Benton is a new comer in 4-H, but has been working with his family several years with beef animals, they own a herd of Santa Gertrudis and Mike has several head of his own. He also carried a strawberry, rabbit, garden, and horse project. Mike placed 46th in the live line-up but in the carcass judging he placed 23rd. He received a red ribbon in both the live and carcass judging. He is a 5th grader at Ockerman Jr. High.

Jeff Afterkirk has been in 4-H beef project for 2 years. At the Boone County Fair, he was chosen the Outstanding Senior Boy in 4-H he also received the Courier - Journal Award. At the steer show he placed 45th in the live judging and 3rd in the carcass judging. His animal was an outstanding steer and he received a red ribbon in the live show and a blue ribbon in the carcass test. Jeff is a student at Walton Verona.

This show is sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture in Cooperation with the 4-H Department of U.K. & FFA of America.

Consumer Comments

For persons trying to fight rising building costs and inflated interest rates, a mobile home may seem very attractive. But before sinking thousands of dollars into a mobile home, take some precautions.

It is very important to do business with a dealer who will honor a warranty or guarantee when and if repairs are needed. To find out about a dealer, you may check with the Consumer Protection Division and the Better Business Bureau. Ask the dealer to give you the names of some of his customers; their experiences might be very helpful in making your choice.

When you inspect a mobile home, check for damages or faulty workmanship. Check the exterior for dents or for joints which do not fit tightly. On the inside, look for water spots on the ceiling or on the floors that might indicate leakage. And while you are inside, look at the appliances. Check each one, making sure they all work properly. Notice the brands or brand of the appliances so that later you may find out if servicing is available and convenient. Ask the dealer if all items within the home are included in the purchasing price.

Cheaper Food

Perhaps temporarily, but in the long-run it would raise food prices. Not only that, but such a drastic action would reduce the number of jobs in shipping, processing, marketing, banking, and other activities. Someone in your family might hold one of these jobs now. Exports take the harvest from one out of four acres of American farms and these acres would be idle because we cannot consume here at home all that farmers can produce. The costs of government farm programs would rise and so would

Tightens Up Antitrust Laws

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Last week the House of Representatives passed the Antitrust Procedures and Penalty Act. The Senate had previously approved it. I hope it will affect somewhat the prices you have to pay for some of the things you purchase.

The measure, which now awaits the President's signature, fulfills one of Mr. Ford's requests on October 8th when he gave his anti-inflation message to a joint session of Congress. He asked that fines for violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act by corporations be increased to one million dollars. Later the Administration asked that jail sentences for individuals found guilty of violation be increased. The new measure does both.

It raises maximum corporate fines from $50,000 to $1 million, and raises maximum fines for individuals from $50,000 to $100,000, and maximum sentences to five years. The offenses have been changed from misdemeanors to felonies.

As long as I have been in Congress, I have pointed out the dangers of Big Government, Big Labor, and Big Business. This new legislation is another check on the latter.

The consumer is assured of the highest quality products at the lowest possible prices only when there is free competition among producers. Cartels, trusts and lesser monopolies which succeed in restraining trade and commerce for selfish profit, directly affect every citizen's pocketbook.

One of my colleagues on the House

Judiciary Committee, which has responsibility in this area, Mr. Wiley Mayne of Iowa, summed it up well in supporting the measure.

"The open and competitive market place is the best regulator of industry. . . Antitrust laws provide rules for competition and can prevent predatory conduct or combinations which unreasonably raise prices to consumers. They encourage businesses to seek increased efficiency which lowers costs and prices. They help our system allocate scarce resources of capital, management, and labor among the competing sectors of our economy."

"However, antitrust laws can not do the job if they are not enforced promptly and fairly or if violators receive minimal punishment so that they can afford to ignore the law. . . this modest bill is a good first step in the direction of improving antitrust enforcement."

I have been, and will remain, a 100 percent supporter of the free enterprise system. But the accent must be on free since that means dynamic competition which benefits you!

A Typical Story

How quickly the world moves! The year 1949 lies a quarter of a century in the past. In that year, a new car could be purchased for around $1,500. The phrase "sounds as a dollar" was still valid. The G.I. Bill was turning out its first crop of college graduates from among the millions of World War II veterans, and no one had heard of an energy

Cook Tours Kentucky

Instead of writing this column, I wish I had the resources to produce a travelogue on Kentucky.

I have just finished an eight-week tour of our gorgeous state. As you may know, I visited in five or six counties every week. Traveling by car the entire way gave me a marvelous opportunity to see the contrasting sections of our state.

We have been blessed with a variety in our land. . . mountains, streams, rivers, rolling hills and flat lands. And over the years men have added expansive lakes, cultivated rich lands into highly productive farms, and built some pretty wonderful cities.

The weather during the two months was incredibly good. After a wet August and early September, the air cleared leaving an unusually green (or should I say blue?) central section and Bluegrass region. There were no brown pastures this fall, as is normally the case. The softly rolling hills were lush indeed!

The eastern and southern mountains were alive with color. What a treat to drive through them in the autumn. The blend of the golds, reds, coppers, lime-greens and yellows is spectacular.

Another contrast. . . the "garden spot of the world" according to one proud Kentucky lady. . . is western Kentucky. The extensive fields of crops there are a beautiful sight. . . acres of corn, tobacco, wheat, soybeans.

We're so fortunate to have a diversified terrain and such beauty. I would like to encourage everyone of you to see a much of Kentucky as possible.

But my travels this fall had more meaning to me than just a tour of various areas. It has been particularly gratifying because of the people. Everyone has been so very hospitable, warm, and friendly. I suppose it is just a Kentucky trait to extend plain friendliness and goodwill. We have learned to live together in spite of a wide range of political, religious, and social attitudes and characteristics. It has indeed been a privilege for me to have met and known such a large number of my fellow Kentuckians.

shortage. Those were the good old days, at least so they appear from the vantage point of 1974.

The year 1949 was also the last time that one of the major electric companies in the state of Kansas sought and received a general electric rate increase. In the 25 years since then, following an industry pattern, three general decreases in rates were put into effect. But greater efficiencies of operation can no longer off set the sharply increased cost of generating electricity. And so, the Kansas utility, like nearly all of the other electric companies throughout the U.S., has asked for a rate increase in this case, amounting to around 13 percent. With maintenance costs up 289 percent, fuel 700 percent, wages 245 percent and taxes 600 percent, a 13 percent average rate increase seems pretty reasonable.

As the president of the company put it, "Inflation finally has caught up with us. We can no longer cover increased costs of construction, wages, operation, and maintenance, fuel and taxes by improving our own operating efficiency. We must seek additional funds, through rate increases, in order to pay for expansion and improvement of electric production and delivery systems. Otherwise. . . electric service to our customers can only deteriorate."

REPORT to the People

World Food Concern

Many US farm leaders are concerned that the World Food Conference in Rome heard too much from the food demanders, and too little from the food producers.

They also fear that media-embellished reports of imminent mass starvation in some poor countries may cause American agricultural policy makers to over-react to what is, in many instances, a temporary situation.

Speaker after speaker from the developing countries mounted the United Nations-sponsored rostrum and asked of the United States, "What are you going to do for me now?" Less frequently did their presentations include details of what they were going to do for themselves.

High-speed improvement of their own food production technology will be much more valuable to food-deficient nations than will a temporary bulge in food aid from the United States. In addition, the limiting of population growth will be necessary if many of the poorer countries are to overcome the threat of famine.

Our "Food for Peace" program has pumped billions of dollars worth of food into needy foreign countries over the years, and there is every indication that such programs should be continued, and even increased.

But to recklessly call for the immediate doubling of American food giveaways to countries who show little willingness to improve their own farm situations or runaway populations increases evidence of poor judgement on the part of some of the US delegation to Rome.

The US will not be able to feed the entire world, especially through unilateral charity. Reasonable levels of food aid, increased sharing of production figures and continuing efforts to upgrade farm technology in needy countries constitute the balanced approach that is needed.

Especially troublesome are the increasing calls by foreign leaders and some US government officials for an internationally controlled food reserve. As with many humanitarian projects in recent years, the US would be looked upon to supply much of the foodstuffs for such a reserve, then probably have a very small voice in its control and disbursement.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger proposed an "internationally coordinated but nationally held" system of grain reserves. Under a system, more sharing of food resource availability data would be done, but the control of each country's grain would remain on the inside.

Butz told the conferees that the immediate formation of a large reserve for future use would strain current short food supplies, raise the price of food and further fuel inflation.

"We are not here to talk about what to do with more food," he added. "We are here to talk about what to do with more food."

As a final footnote on the World Food Conference, the Farm Bureau leaders in attendance said many American taxpayers would be disappointed that not one nation expressed any kind of appreciation to the US for our past food aid efforts.

Currently, US food sharing programs cost about $1 billion a year, and are larger than those from any country. But the unfortunate consensus of the recipients at Rome was criticism, not gratitude.

SUNDAY

SERMON

Anticipating A New Beginning

(Isaiah 40:1-2, 27:31; Galatians 4:1-4)

Clovis G. Chappell has said that "many of us never think seriously of Christ or of his salvation until we get into some kind of trouble. Our little baby is near death and we want help. We ourselves are nearing the crossing and we are afraid. A cyclone is on hand and we feel the need of a refuge. But the same winds carry the clouds away carry away our penitence and our prayers. There are few folds so hopeless as those who never want Christ except when they are threatened by some kind of disaster."

Israel had become so corrupt in her idolatries and rebellions that God had to use drastic measures to get her to look up. God's people had been in captivity in Babylon for decades. These years of captivity had succeeded in turning them away from idolatry. God is now ready to bring them back home. God's word came to his prophet. His message is to be a call to comfort.

Call to Comfort, Isaiah 40:1-2

Many of the Israelites had given up all hope of deliverance. They needed the message of hope, comfort, and encouragement. Pastors and teachers should be aware of the need for such a message in this day. Many people have lost hope. They do not believe life can be any better for them. God's word is to "Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem."

Jerusalem here represents His people who are in Babylon.

The prophet was to publicly proclaim God's message of encouragement to His people. Their hardships were coming to an end. Their sins of idolatry, corruption, and rebellion were pardoned. They had suffered for their sins long enough.

The call to comfort is a theme running through Isaiah Chapters 40-66. In verses 27-31 of chapter 40, the people are reminded of God's care.

Care of Creator, Isaiah 40:27-31

God's people had not kept their faith in Him. They thought surely God had forgotten them. After all, years and years had gone by and God had not intervened. They are rebuked by the prophet. Can it be that they really do not know that God is an everlasting God? Does God change every time man changes? Is not God the same God who had divided the sea and had delivered His people out of Egyptian bondage? Is not God the Lord? Is He not the Creator limited in his knowledge and understanding?

Verse 28-31 answer these questions. God not only creates but he gives strength to the weak. Many fail to ask God to save them because they are afraid they could not continue to the Christian life. Please remember, God not only creates and redeems, but He also sustains the believer.

In this life of difficulties and hardships, even the youth faint and be weary. Young men shall utterly fall. Both young and old find life too much for them at times. But there is a solution. "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

"Waiting" means confidence in the ability and goodness of God. It is to trust God and lean on Him. It does not mean to sit passively while God does every detail. It means that man fits into God's plan for him in all things. The man who "waits" upon the Lord is the man who is going to be busy doing God's will.

These verses from Isaiah have looked forward to a new beginning. The New Testament counter-part to this is related in the next passage from Galatians.

Coming of Christ, Galatians 4:1-6

Each of us has experienced a bondage to sin. We were under the law and unable to experience genuine freedom until something was done to set us free. The law had its purpose. The law served its purpose. It was our instructor concerning sin. The law was given to make us aware of sin. Galatians 2:16 says "Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ." This means that a man does not come into right standing with God by doing the things which the law demands. Galatians 3:13 tells us that "Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us."

So "when the fullness of time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law." Now we are free in Christ. We have received an adoption of sons. This is not merely a legal status, but God has sent the Spirit of His Son to indwell our hearts. This Spirit of sonship causes us to cry out Abba, Father!

New Bethel Mission Emphasis

The Baptist Women, Baptist Young Women and Brotherhood of New Bethel Church held a joint meeting on November 21, at which time a very interesting program was presented.

The Call to Prayer was given by Dorothy Porter, bringing to our attention and praying for our missionaries who were celebrating their birthdays on this day. Some were Home Missionaries and living within the boundaries of their homeland, many were on foreign fields, all were doing their bit in trying to present Salvation to the lost people of the world.

Following this, Miss Susan Tessenner, who has recently returned to the US from Brazil after serving a two year term as a Journeyman, showed slides and told of her work while there. Miss Tessenner knew personally two of the missionaries to Brazil, who were on the calendar of Prayer, and told of their work, their trials and accomplishments.

Among the very interesting slides shown was one of a Baptist Church in Northern Brazil which was built entirely from Lottie Moon Christmas Offerings. Since we have seen how our offerings are being used, May we be generous in our offerings when the Lottie Moon season arrives.

Miss Tessenner told us her job as Journeyman was to teach the children of our missionaries but she was more of a learner than a teacher, as her stay in Brazil had taught her much, both in a spiritual as well as a secular way, she came from Brazil a much better and more dedicated Christian than before.

In the age in which we are living when the Media makes front page headlines of all the bad things that are being done by young people, we at New Bethel want people to know all are not bad. We want to say "God Bless You Susan" and all of our youth who are taking their stand for Christ and letting it be known.

The fascinating window

It wasn't much as stained glass windows go. But for me it held a strange fascination.

I guess it was the letters that puzzled me. The first was obviously "A". The second was trying to be "Q" or possibly "O" but didn't quite make it. And if the book portrayed were the Bible—why not put something on its pages that made sense?

It was Grandma who explained it simply. The New Testament was originally written in Greek. In the Greek alphabet, Alpha, like our letter "A," was the first letter, Omega the last. For centuries Christians have treasured these two letters as a symbol of God who said in Scripture:

"I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending . . ."

That sums up why the Bible, revealing to men God's truth, is the first and last word in daily reading.

Short Rows

In the Book of Proverbs it is promised that, if the Lord is honored with the first fruits of "all thine increase, so shall thy barns be filled with plenty and thy presses shall burst out with new wine."

It is not known how seriously gardeners took this promise or heeded the admonition, but one thing for sure: practically all who worked hard in the garden last summer, whether in wide expanses of rural Kentucky or in city backyards, now have well-filled cellars, freezers and pantries. Not in a long time has there been such evidence of abundance and, as the Thanksgiving season approaches, many people throughout this good land will have a tremendous bounty for which to be thankful. With the summer sun and rainfall conspiring to "fill all fruits with ripeness," this has been a good crop year. More than that, it was an affirmation of the underlying rhythms of the soil and the gardener's ability to get in tune with them—a happy culmination which, since the beginnings of agriculture, gardeners have strived for all the end of the summer season.

In the midst of all this abundance, there is only "one fly in the ointment." Not all peoples of the world, or maybe in the community, are so likewise blessed. The bountiful products of our piece of earth are not theirs to have to hold. And it seems, too, that no matter how much we share or attempt to share with these unfortunates, the suffering and the hunger still goes on.

So what can we do to make our food taste better and to keep it from turning to ashes in our mouths as we enter into this festive season of Thanksgiving?

Like the ancient Greeks and Romans who laid their first fruits on the altars of their temples, we can, in an extension of that strangely beautiful pagan custom, offer some of our abundance. We can offer to share it with our aged and infirm and with those in need who, for reasons beyond their control, could not have a garden or work a piece of land this summer. No matter how well-stocked our cellars and pantries, we can not save a starving world, but in our abundance we can help just a little bit.

In fact, that is all that is required: a little of the first fruits placed on the altar of less-flavored humanity.

Actually, the orchard and garden abundance this year, as evidenced now in row upon row of colorful glass jars enthroned on pantry shelves, in freezers bulging with packages and cartons of varying sizes, and in bins and heaps on cellar floors, is a pleasure to behold. In these storage places of the able, provident, and industrious is mirrored the goodness of the sensuous earth and is enough to make a person proud to be a gardener.

Happy Thanksgiving!

Consumer Comments

Shoppers frequently compare mobile homes by length. If you do this, take care that the length of the hitch or an awning or any overhang is not included in the length stated by the dealer.

As in all consumer purchases, it pays to study the contract very carefully. If there are any terms you do not understand, don't sign the contract until you have discussed it with someone who does understand it.

Study the warranty to determine what the actual coverage is for the mobile home. Does the warranty become void if the mobile home is ever moved from its original location? Will damages that occur during the delivery be repaired by the dealer? Depending on your answer to those questions, you may decide to insure a mobile home for damages such as these.

Where are you going to put your new mobile home? Consider the location before you buy. Check several sites in a desired area. Ask others who live there about the conditions. Investigate the possibility of flooding, high winds or other locational hazards. Inquire about entrance and exit fees, fees for garbage disposal or utility fees.

And as long as you are comparing, compare the various financing arrangements which can be made in the purchase of your mobile home. Ask the dealer, your bank or savings and loan institutions. Find out if you are eligible for any federally guaranteed loan programs.

If you have suggestions to aid in consumer problems or if you wish to make a complaint, Kentucky residents may write to the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, Room 34, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

When possible, do your grocery shopping when the store is not too crowded and when you have time to compare prices and select with care. This suggestion comes from Extension Foods specialists at the University of Kentucky.

FEARLESS FORECAST

by R. W. Lancaster

November 28, 1974

This is our 35th. Thanksgiving Day since Governor Bradford of the Plymouth Colony declared the first Thanksgiving on December 13th, 1621. For the next 168 years each governor proclaimed a day of thanksgiving for his colony or state until 1789 when President George Washington issued a general proclamation for a day of thanks. Then thanks to 40 years of work by Mrs. Sarah Hale, the editor of Godey's Lady's Book, President Lincoln in 1863 set aside the last Thursday in November as a day of giving thanks and again in 1864.

November 29th.

The Moon goes full at mid-morning so the next couple of days should be excellent for hunting game in season as the full Moon gives the animals and birds a tendency to roam and be active at this time. This is a good time to buy a new car and also a safe time for traveling if you want to try it out for a mileage check.

The Moon in Gemini is a good time for any activities that require mental coordination, a good time for any competitive sports and hunting is one of the most competitive when you remember the game animal or bird is competing for his life and in some cases the hunter is competing for his next meal. A good evening for writing letters while you are mentally alert and a letter to some older person would do much to brighten a gloomy day.

December 1st.

This Sunday lets give more thanks for our blessings and think of the words of our 31st President. Hoover, (My country owes me nothing. It gave me, as it gives every boy and girl, a chance. It gave me schooling, independence of action, opportunity for service and honor. In no other land could a boy from a country village, without inheritance or influential friends, look forward with unbounded hope.

December 2nd.

The Moon went in to the water sign Cancer yesterday and although the fish will bite it will take a true sportsman to go after a mess this time of year. On the home front this would be a good day for home baking or making economical food purchases. The morning hours would be a good time to collect outstanding debts and you can use the unexpected cash for some early Christmas shopping.

December 3rd.

The Moon went in to the fixed fire sign Leo early this morning so now is the time to start on any project requiring self-discipline to name a few. Overeating which makes us fat, unhealthy and poorer financially. Tobacco which makes us wheeze, burns the upholstery and costs too much in money and health. Setting up late at night watching the tube which robs us of sleep and adds to the energy crises. Start your resolutions now and you will have two easy weeks to break any habit.

December 4th.

If you want your hair to be slow growing back get it cut any time today, yesterday was also a good day. If you want a good fit in shoes and the latest style in clothing do your shopping anytime today. This is a good day to take care of legal matters. And if planning a legal marriage try to have the ceremony at noon while the Moon is in trine Venus.

"Reflections From The Tormented"

By: Bob Fonde

I have faced the look of death, I have looked into the face of death. My very soul, rages in turmoil of conflicts, which I cannot define, nor subdue.

My mind and heart, now seemingly in two different beings, make it impossible to determine right from wrong.

My heart, struggling to hold a tiny spark of human decency and moral obligation, can give no comforting beat to console me, or to condemn the God forsaken tasks I must perform in the name of justice and freedom.

My mind, hopelessly confused and weary, seems to have reverted to the old laws of the jungle. Survival of the fittest.

Kill or be killed. Compassion is weakness. Mercy brings disaster. I wonder, am I my own enemy?

I am here, yet I am not. I am myself, yet I am not. God is with me, yet He is not. I am a man torn apart. Reduced to a machine, with no will of my own. Capable only of obeying a command.

Or is it a command? Could it be reality, a distorted commandment?

FARM NEWS AND ANALYSIS

By Darvin Foley, Kenton County Extension Agent

December and January will be busy months for farmers in Kentucky. Kentucky Farm Bureau Members and Kentucky dairymen can get away from it all by attending state wide meetings in Louisville.

The State Farm Bureau Convention will be held at the Executive Inn in Louisville December 12-14. Thursday December 12 has been designated as Commodity Day. Commodity Day will start with an All-Commodity Luncheon scheduled at 11:30 a.m. with Under Secretary of Agriculture, Phil Campbell, as the principle speaker. The Commodity Conferences will go into session at 1:15 in the afternoon with Tobacco and Feed Grains running from 1:15 to 3:15 and Livestock, Dairy, and Crops Conferences running from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The Fourth Annual Kentucky Dairymen's Conference will be held at the Holiday Inn on Brownsboro Road in Louisville with registration at 9 a.m. January 30. Topics on the program include: The Farmer's Processor's and Handler's Share of the Milk Dollar. What Place Does Big Package Hay Have in the Dairymen's Feeding Program. Understanding the New Sire Summaries, Management Decisions that Affect Profits, and Farm Credit A Toll or a Tombstone.

The department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has been designated the Lead Agency for implementing the new State and Federal Pesticide Laws. These laws place the responsibility for any pesticide accident on the individual user of the pesticide that caused the problem. The new Federal Regulations are going to require all people who use restricted chemicals to be certified.

Regional meetings have been set up to inform commercial applicators of the new requirements, to organize Kentucky Commercial Pesticide Applicator's Association, to explain how insurance costs might be reduced, and to give tests to those who wish to take them at the end of the meeting. Commercial applicators should not spray without a license. Questions should be directed to Fred Waters, Frankfort, Ky.

Information or recommended pesticides for farm crops can be obtained at our Extension Office on the second floor of the Independence Courthouse.

Industrial Park Has Walton Plans

The W.P. Butler Co., Crescent Springs, announced plans Wednesday for a $30 million industrial park to be built on 120 acres of land it holds option on outside Walton.

The property, adjacent to the City of Walton at the southeast quadrant of I-75 and Ky. 16, is known as the Stu-Mc farm and is owned by Gayle McElroy and Chester Sturgeon.

A spokesman for the Butler firm said the company is talking with Walton officials about the possibility of annexation and would like to tie in with the city's water and sewage facilities.

The planned park will employ 1000-1500 people, depending on the number and types of plants that would come in. He added that some industries have already indicated an interest in locating in the park.

Engineering is planning to begin in February or March, and actual earth moving could begin in early spring.

Walton began construction of its long-awaited municipal sewage system earlier this month, opening the way for possible future development of the area.

The system is expected to be completed next year.

Two Departures For Eastern

Eastern Airlines will resume flights at Greater Cincinnati Airport, offering nonstop service to Chicago and Sarasota, Florida on Tuesday, December 3rd.

Eastern Flight 615 will arrive in Cincinnati at 1:10 p.m. from Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, and continue on to Sarasota, Florida, departing at 1:38 p.m.

Changing at Sarasota to flight 614 for the northbound return trip, the DC-9 with 89 seats arrives back in Cincinnati at 6:40 p.m. and continues to Chicago, departing at 7:05 p.m.

"Eastern is very pleased to return to serve the people of the Greater Cincinnati area," says Stanley J. Brown, Eastern's Manager of Sales and Services. "We are offering a transportation link between Cincinnati and two of the important areas of the United States."

"Chicago and Cincinnati, both centers of commerce and industry, share a large community of interest," he said. "Florida is a famous vacation area. More importantly, recent US Government studies show that during the coming decade, Florida will experience the fastest population growth of any state in the Union. Much of that growth is expected to occur in the Sarasota Bradenton area of the State."

Mr. Brown said that Eastern will continue its present schedule of two departures daily until the spring of this year. At that time Eastern's plans call for additional service to be scheduled.

"Bumper Stickers" For Ky. State Police

The Kentucky State Police are going into the advertising business.

With two more holidays Christmas and New Year's just around the bend, they aren't taking any chances that the state's heretofore record low highway death toll for 1974 is going to suffer a sudden, disastrous turnabout.

In a joint announcement issued here today, Gov. Wendell Ford and State Police Commissioner Ron L. Johnson disclosed that state police strategy for keeping road deaths to a minimum for the remainder of the year contains at least one surprise for motorists.

In addition to all the usual ploys that most motorists have come to expect roadblocks on secondary roads, plus maximum use of the air patrol, radar and road patrol every trooper in Kentucky also will be sporting a large, brilliant yellow bumper sticker on his cruiser which reads simply, in bold, black lettering: "55 MPH."

Ford said that the idea for the bumper sticker grew out of fears expressed by state police that the 1974 highway death toll may be starting to climb.

"During the first half of this year, Kentucky was commended publicly by the National Safety Council for reducing its traffic death toll by 32 per cent. In fact, we did so well that we bettered the national average rate of reduction by a significant nine per cent," he said.

But more recent reports indicate that more drivers are becoming increasingly careless behind the steering wheel, he said.

Johnson said that speed, especially, has been one major factor behind the rising death toll, and it was concern over that particular problem which led state police to the idea of using bumper stickers as a speed law reminder for motorists.

The number of motorists cited by state police for speed and speed-

S.K. Survey Being Made

A survey will be made of Simon Kenton High School to determine the feasibility of additions to the school.

Supt. Don Davis reported the Board of Education has commissioned Robert Ehmet Hayes, architect, to take a look at the two county high schools, Simon Kenton and Dixie Heights, and bring back his findings.

The survey follows a year old report by the State Department of Education pointing to inadequacies in facilities for the band, commerce programs, physical education, industrial arts and home economics.

Also possible is the construction of a third high school.

Davis said no decision will be reached until the Hayes study is completed within the next 60 days.

Construction will alleviate crowded conditions at all grade levels, the superintendent said.

Holiday Bazaar

A Holiday Bazaar, featuring hundreds of handmade items, will be held at Florence Christian Church from 2 to 5 and 6 to 8 p.m. on Saturday, December 7.

The pre-Christmas sale is sponsored by the Christians Women's Fellowship of the church. "The largest selection of gift ideas will be among the ceramic items, all attractive and colorful. A crochet corner will offer unique pieces from skilled hands."

Cuddly stuffed animals toys, as well as handcrafted afghans, ponchos, hats and vests will be on counters and shelves.

All sorts of foods including baked goods, preserves, home canned delicacies and candies will be there to tempt.

The first edition of the cook book "More Than Bread Alone," made up of favorite recipes of members of the church, will be on sale for the first time.

Proceeds of the bazaar will go to meet human needs.

Kids Christmas Show

The annual Lions Christmas Show will be held at the new Walton Verona Gym on December 15, starting at 2 p.m.

Santa will arrive at 4 p.m. with toys, bikes, fruit, and candy.

Everyone come out and enjoy yourself.

related violations, such as reckless driving, since the first of the year, currently stands at nearly 120,000 as compared with just over 85,000 a year ago.

To test motorist reaction to the new bumper stickers, state police recently put one on an unmarked vehicle headed for Louisville on I-64 from Frankfort. Surprisingly enough, said the trooper driver, "not one car passed me."

The 1973 death toll for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's was 16, eight and nine fatalities, respectively.

Boone County Garden Club

The Boone County Garden Club will have their Christmas Luncheon at the Ft. Mitchell Country Club on Tuesday, December 10, 12:00 p.m. The program will be a "Christmas Reading" by Mrs. L.L. (Carrie) Franks followed by fellowship and games.

Kenton County Garden Club

At 7:30 on November 14, Mrs. Stephens of Independence was hostess for the Kenton County Garden Club, Mrs. William Straw, president, presided during the meeting.

Plans for providing a plant, a floral arrangement and help with a Christmas Tree at the Kenton County Library were made.

The spiritual devotion was given by Mrs. Wesley Hall and she read selections about the "Scared Lotus", a water lily reversed in China, Japan, India and other countries. A stylized representation of the lotus lily is used in art, architecture and scripture from I Corinthians, Chapter 13, was used for her meditation on Truth, Beauty, and Love.

The program "Winter and Christmas Arrangements" was presented by Mrs. Diane Keys of the Golden Keys Floral and Gift Shoppe in Independence. She exhibited fresh flowers or live plants arranged in baskets of fresh fruits, appropriate for Thanksgiving or Christmas gifts, and unique and original arrangements of pine cones and greens for doorways. She also demonstrated the planting of a beautiful terrarium with a "Nativity Scene."

From Bobbie's Desk

I started working with Jo Ann a little over seven years ago. Her entire face is accented by a huge pair of blue eyes that simply blaze with twinkles. She lives in a new house in Florence complete with orange shag, Gene (her great big bear of a husband whose roar is far far worse than his bite), two kids, Donnie and Julie, and the ramrod of the outfit, Muffit. (She arrived in a box from Missouri a few months ago and completely has captivated everyone she has barked at, growled at or begged ice-cream off).

If you think the IRS is hard to fool, you should just try with Jo Ann as bookkeeper, time clerk and payroll clerk. Ye gods, it just wouldn't be worth the effort. She is meticulous in her work and takes much pride in it. She should. She is invaluable at Daniel Boone, because her attention sees those things that might pass less attentive eyes.

Now, there are a few things that you don't bring up when talking to her. I've really learned over the years. Funerals (for heathens, only); Conservation (you think the Burke society is rough, Hal!); Cruelty to animals. Jo Ann's lifelong ambition was to be a vet, and she dearly loves animals. I'm sure some of you remember my mentioning Zeke to you. Well, things have happened since then. Someone seems to have left us a coon-hound and now Zeke has a girlfriend. She appears to have been shot, and was more than half starved when she arrived. No more. Not with Jo Ann around. On her daily trip to the store to get a Diet Pepsi, you can count on a can of dog food also. Sure, "Zelda" gets food from others, too, but Jo Ann leaves nothing to chance if there is any chance of hunger anywhere. At this rate Zelda will need a girdle soon, with staves yet.

Jo Ann is not over five feet tall in stature, but her shoulders can assume huge proportions to someone in trouble. No trouble can be too great for her to try to help. She'll pitch in and help, no matter what the trouble might be. If you'll just let her, her sense of humor is great in a crisis, too, because she'll always see humor in the trial, somehow.

So, this is a salute to a good friend and comrade in arms. Daniel Boone would just not be the same without you.

Briarcrest Briddlers Hold Meeting

The Briarcrest Briddlers held their monthly meeting, Monday, November 18th at the REA Building in Nicholson.

The meeting was called to order and Mrs. Coleman discussed two chapters in the Horse Science Book.

Some reports were presented at the meeting. Jeff Keeney reported on Ringworm, Keith Barton on Tetanus, Susan Rierce reported on Rabies and Shawna Coleman had a report on Bacterial Cell and Protozoa.

The club also discussed their skit "Til Death Do Us Part" which won first place in both county and area competition.

A decision was also reached on the date of the club's bakesale and Christmas Party. The bakesale will be held at Cherokee Shopping Center at 10:00 on December 7th and the Christmas Party will take place at the Hickory Grove Baptist Church, December 14th at 6:30 p.m. The meeting was then adjourned.

Briarcrest Briddlers

On November 9, at Twenhofel Jr. High, the Briarcrest Briddlers 4-H Horse and Pony Club gave its first performance of "Til Death Do Us Part" in the Kenton County 4-H Talent Show. Under the direction of Mrs. Carolyn Barton and Mrs. Phyllis Feagan, they won first place and a beautiful trophy.

On November 16, at Ludlow High School, they represented Kenton

County in competition with six other Northern Kentucky counties for the Area Talent Show. A win there now gives them the honor of performing at the 4-H State Fair in Louisville.

Their play is a comedy marriage with many unusual guests. The only written script was the Preacher's part. The children ad-libbed the other roles during rehearsal and the spontaneity carried through to the actual performance. Twenty-one children took part in the play, which 4-H rules stipulated must last no longer than eight minutes. The rehearsals often ran fifteen minutes. Imagine the panic of opening night! All our worries were dissolved when the children performed as professional troopers. This poise is a result of 4-H training and discipline which children get as they become more involved with 4-H activities.

Social Security

Students, housewives, and other people planning to get holiday jobs should apply soon for a social security number if they don't have one, according to John Walter, social security district Manager in Covington.

"Applications from people who don't recall having had a social security number before generally are screened against central files in Baltimore to make sure a second number isn't issued to the same person," Walter said.

"Screening takes time," he said, "so you should apply for your number at least several weeks before you need it for a job covered by social security."

People can get information about applying for a number by calling or writing any social security office. More than nine out of 10 jobs are covered by social security.

A worker builds retirement, disability, survivors, and medicare protection by work and earnings credited to his social security number. "Your social security number is yours alone and remains the same for life," Walter said.

"When you get a job covered by Social Security, be sure your employer copies your name and number correctly from your Social Security card to his records. People applying for a social security number for the first time may be asked to prove their age, identity, and citizenship, according to Walter.

Dollars & Good Sense

With the winter season at hand, the family spends more time indoors, often turning to television for entertainment. But with an estimated 10,000 TV's catching fire each year, your set could become a source of danger if you fail to take a few simple precautions.

All TV sets are supplied with air vents, but these are often defeated by placing the set too close to a wall. Allow enough room for the set to breathe. And, if yours is custom installed in a wall unit, you may require a small fan to insure sufficient air flow.

You should never leave the set on and unattended for more than a minute or two. If you plan to be away for more than a day, be sure to unplug the power and disconnect the antenna.

If your set has an "instant on" feature, it is wise to plug it into a socket controlled by a wall switch. This allows you to cut the flow of power when the set is not in use without causing excessive wear to the cord and plugs. And, this saves energy too.

If a fire should ever break out, unplug the set and call the fire department at once. Use a dry chemical fire extinguisher if you have one, but never attempt to douse the flames with water.

Following these few simple steps, your TV watching can be safe as well as enjoyable.

No Cost Relief

If you're trying to find a less-expensive substitute for granulated sugar to use in holiday baking, you're out of luck unless you have your own honey or sorghum. According to UK Extension foods specialists, brown sugar, confectioners' sugar, corn syrup, honey and sorghum all now cost more per cup than granulated sugar.

Rural-Urban Population Distribution

The increase in the urban portion of the population of the United States has been significant change in American History. Until the middle of the last century, approximately 9 out of 10 persons in the US were in the rural population. Until 1930, more than half the population of the US and three-fourths of the residents of Ky. were classed as rural. In 1970, however, the rural population declined to a little over a quarter of the population of the nation.

In Ky. the decline in rural population has not been so pronounced. In 1920 rural residents comprised three-fourths of the population and by 1970 it had declined to slightly less than one half of the population of the state.

In addition, the composition of the population in rural areas has been changing. At the beginning of the century, the rural and farm populations were largely the same. Since 1920, however, the population living on farms in the US declined from 32 million to 9.7 million or from 30 per cent to 4.8 percent of the US total.

In Ky., the farm population has declined from 34 percent in 1920 to 11.9 per cent in 1970. During this same period, the rural nonfarm population more than doubled in Ky. and the nation (from 481,000 to 1,148,000 in Ky. and from 20 to 44 million in the US). Nonfarm rural people live in villages and places of less than 2,500 inhabitants and in nonfarms homes in open country.

Not only is the US population concentrated in urban places but it is also becoming increasingly metropolitan. Seventy-three percent of the Nation's population now resides in Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSAs). The percentage has increased slightly from 1960 when 70 percent lived in such places.

As evidenced by the following information, American as a nation has undergone a significant transformation from that of an agricultural society to one that is increasingly urban. However, even though similar trends are evident in the state, Ky. remains very rural in nature with almost half of its population residing in rural areas, compared with only a quarter of the nation's population. And of those million-and-a-half rural residents, 381,691, or 25 percent, continue to reside on a farm.

We have received the 1974 Farmer's Tax Guide. The guide is designed to help you prepare your 1974 Federal income tax return. Examples throughout the booklet show how the tax laws apply to farming situations. Samples of the records and tax forms normally used by farmers illustrate how good records help you prepare an accurate tax return and pay only the correct amount of tax.

Stock Exchange For Frisch's

Meat Certificates

"Meat gift certificates a perfect gift for an old-fashioned Country Christmas."

This slogan keys a December promotional effort by Kentucky Farm Bureau to sell meat gift certificates through retail grocery outlets and help boost sales of beef, pork, lamb, turkey and other meat varieties.

The campaign, which has employed television, radio and newspaper publicity, primarily rests with county Farm Bureaus across the state. Each county organization is being urged to promote the sale of the certificates through cooperating community grocery stores.

Statewide, A & P, Kroger, and Winn-Dixie have joined the Farm Bureau effort and are offering meat gift certificates for sale at their stores. In addition, other chain and independent grocers have the opportunity to sell certificates provided by county Farm Bureaus.

The impetus for this effort in Kentucky and several other states is the livestock price and supply situation which threatens to stretch into the new year. Cattle prices, in some instances, are less than half what they were a year ago. And an oversupply of beef is said to be a primary factor.

"The only way to improve livestock prices is to sell more meat," J. Robert Wade says. "As a food item, it has flavor appeal, nutrition appeal and traditional appeal. And right now, prices have come down and it's an especially good buy."

Wade also stresses the appropriateness of meat as a gift item. It's a valuable and useful gift, he said. "A $20 gift certificate for steaks or a ham, for instance, makes a lot more sense than the trinkets which are too common as gifts during Christmas."

In a recent series of press conferences kicking off the meat certificates campaign, Wade told reporters that cooperation among the various segments of the meat industry from producer through retailer "will do far more than finger pointing, blaming-placing or ill-conceived publicity stunts."

Wade encouraged support for all constructive programs to aid meat producers, noting that "we all have a stake in maintaining an adequate supply of good-quality meat." "Increased sales and an opportunity for a reasonable profit by all segments of the industry will ensure the continued availability of this high-quality food item."

Prices Are Up

Egg prices like those for most other foods, are up, but eggs are still a good buy, according to UK Extension poultry specialists. When a dozen large eggs cost 90 cents, you're still paying only 60 cents a pound for them, since the large eggs weigh 1 1/2 pounds per dozen. And, since the shell is only 11 percent of an egg's total weight, you're left with 14 ounces of edible product so the eggs you eat actually cost about 67 cents per pound at that 90 cents a dozen price. In addition, eggs are low in calories and provide a good source of high-quality protein.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

It may not be generally known is that the cattail, which sometimes chokes out small farm ponds, makes fishing with artificial bait difficult in others, and in many ways makes itself a nuisance, is nevertheless a valuable weed. It is good to eat and may have been one of the first plants cultivated in North America as a vegetable.

Digging into the remains of the dawn people of this continent, archeologists have shoveled up evidence indicating that, along with beans and squash and maybe a few other plants no longer found in seed catalogs, the cattail was grown for food as far back as 7,000 years ago.

Although a lot of people still eat the cattail, it is no longer cultivated.

However, if the current prophecies of impending world-wide food shortages come true, we may have to fall back to growing it some day.

According to wild-food specialists, the cattail is a highly versatile vegetable and can provide several different kinds of dishes. In fact, the first bread ever baked in the Americas may have been made from flour pounded from dried roots of the cattail or from the bright yellow pollen shaken from its bloom spikes. One noted authority on wild foods says that this pollen, when mixed half and half with whole wheat flour, makes pancakes of unparalleled taste and flavor.

Along the margins of ponds in early spring the cattail sends up tender shoots about the size of asparagus spears. These tender shoots can be gathered and eaten raw, chopped up in salads, or cooked like asparagus. The young flower spikes can be boiled and eaten with butter like roasting ears, and the bulblike roots can be prepared like new potatoes. Actually, when the cattail is very young, just about all its parts are edible. So if the worst comes to the worst and stocks in the supermarket grow scarce, instead of cursing the cattail when it hinders our fishing, we can eat it along with what blue-gills we can catch.

The cattail produces myriad, minutes seed, attached to tiny, downy hairs, that are flung to the winds in autumn and are carried and spread over great distances. Songbirds rarely ever bother to eat the seed because they are so hairy and tiny. Notwithstanding, the plant is valuable to other forms of desirable wildlife. Wild geese and muskrats love the starchy, nourishing underwater stems and in the thick growths find refuge from predators. Marsh wrens, redbirds, and yellow-headed blackbirds also nest regularly in cattail marshes.

If the wild foods continue to gain acceptance as table fare, the cattail could become as popular with humans as with wildlife.

Ford Meets Soviet Slavemaster

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Once more an American President has met with a General Secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. President Eisenhower and President Nixon met with Nikita Khrushchev, the "Butcher of Budapest." President Nixon, and now Ford have met with Leonid Brezhnev, who has been called "Crucifier of Czechoslovakia." Khrushchev sent Soviet tanks and troops to crush the Hungarian revolution against Communist domination in 1956. In 1968 Brezhnev sent Soviet tanks and troops to occupy Czechoslovakia and crush opposition to a Moscow-oriented Communist government. It's ironic and hypocritical that criticism was made of President Ford's visit to South Korea by some who praised his meeting with Brezhnev on the same Far Eastern trip on the grounds that this indicated support of a "dictatorial" government in South Korea. Khrushchev and Brezhnev are just the latest tyrants to head up the most brutal and absolute totalitarian dictatorship in the history of mankind. The Soviet Union has always been recognized by students of the World Communist Movement as one gigantic slave labor empire. Now millions everywhere have had this truth brought home to them by the work of the Russian writer, Alexander Solzhenitsyn. In this book "Gulag Archipelago," he demonstrates that the whole slave camp network was the creation of Lenin himself, and not a horror to be attributed only to a "mad" Joseph Stalin, as has been claimed by some who were forced to acknowledge the existence of the labor system. He says that some 66 million people were processed through this system from 1918 to 1959.

Senator

Dee Huddleston

REPORT to the People

Being Ripped Off

"Who's ripping us off?" That question, posed by a Ky. based television reporter during a recent farm related press conference, illustrates the canyons of misunderstanding between the various segments of the food industry and the consuming public. Actually, the questioner was referring to meat, and he pointed out the retail grocery profits on meat sales were up, at the same time that farmers' livestock prices were way down.

But his question, and the frustration over the current food price and supply problems that it reflects, has implications much farther reaching than the meat counter.

And the lack of answers for similar questions from confused consumers all over the nation threatens to radicalize the American people, and add to the difficulty of producing and marketing food.

The answer given the reporter that day was, "In all likelihood, nobody's ripping off anybody." And nobody he looked skeptical as he heard the answer, it is surely true.

Too often, since food prices became the subject of intense controversy more than a year ago, newspapers and airwaves have been jammed with spokesmen for various interests who have been trying to place blame for higher food prices on someone else.

Some have blamed farmers, while some farmers have blamed retailers. Others, not wanting to be more specific, have generalized that the middleman, whoever he is, deserves the major share of the blame.

Thankfully, the high tide of blame placing and finger pointing among those who make their living in the food industry seems to be slowing, as it becomes evident that current profit margins are not out of line. While strident voices still can be heard every time a cost-of-living rise is announced, there are promising signs that more constructive approaches are gaining favor.

For instance, the state's largest farm organization announced recently a campaign to promote the sale of meat gift certificates, through retail grocery outlets, for Christmas.

Abandoning the temptation to criticize pricing by meat retailers, the Farm Bureau has decided that farmers, processors, retailers and consumers will be served better through cooperation, not accusation.

If grocers can't sell the meat, farmers will have no market for meat animals, the farm leaders reason. By the same token, if farmers can't make a reasonable profit on livestock, meat availability for consumers may be threatened in the future. Such an approach offers a refreshing contrast to recent blame-swapping and public antics by some farm and consumer groups. Giveaways, steelside slaughters and threats of boycotts do little to shed light on cost-price factors in agriculture.

Increased demand for farm products through additional retail sales, on the other hand, offers a logical chance to alleviate some of the financial inequities in the food industry.

Reasonable profits for all segments of the industry and continued abundance of food are directly connected.

The meat gift certificate campaign, if successful, should head step in the direction of both.

The US Treasurer's proposal to issue red paper money in place of green just might cool inflation by encouraging wallets to say "Stop!" instead of "Go!"

Anti-Tobacco Defeated

Reacting to a new challenge to the federal tobacco program on Nov. 25 in the US Senate, Marlow Cook charged the move was really a proposal for a total ban on tobacco. He called for the defeat of what he described as a "back door effort." Cook implied that by a simple amendment, presented without a hearing or a national evaluation, the sponsoring Senator - Frank Moss of Utah - was trying to pick to death a legitimate industry of more than 20 states.

The amendment, being considered during debate on the agriculture appropriations bill, was defeated on a roll call vote of 24 in favor versus 65 against the legislation.

Senator Marlow Cook has expressed his concern regarding a proposal by the Tennessee Valley Authority to purchase the Peabody Coal Company for an estimated $1 billion. Cook said his reaction to the news was similar to that of Secretary of the Interior, Rogers C. B. Morton, who was quoted as saying the possibility, "scars the heck out of me."

In his Nov. 26 remarks, Cook cited 6 points which raised legitimate questions for Congressional study of the purchase. He questioned, first, the effort of the commitment of such a large amount of funds on other TVA projects.

Other points the Senator raised pertained to the effect of a federal agency owning the largest coal producer in the nation, conflicts between the goals of separate federal agencies, involvement in labor relations, matters of taxation, and the foreign holdings of Peabody.

Veteran's Travel

If you're a veteran with a yen to travel or establish residence overseas, you'd better check first with the Veterans Administration.

Under the law, VA cannot provide certain benefits in foreign countries, the agency advised. Knowing what benefits are available could become crucial to a veteran's well-being, it was stressed, especially if medical problems arise.

Before traveling outside the US, a veteran should obtain a statement of his service-connected disabilities from the VA office which maintains his medical records.

In an emergency, an eligible veteran is entitled to VA paid hospitalization for service-connected conditions if he or a representative presents the VA statement to the embassy or consular office within 72 hours after hospitalization begins, together with an application for medical benefits.

Care for veterans with both service-connected and non-service-connected disabilities is available only in the Philippines at the Veterans Memorial Hospital in Manila. As in the US, however, veterans with non-service-connected disabilities are eligible on a space available basis, and only if they are unable to defray expenses.

Only veterans who are retired servicemen are eligible for medical benefits from military hospitals and clinics.

Education benefits are available overseas to eligible veterans, eligible wives, widows and children pursuing degrees in VA-approved foreign schools.

Compensation and pension checks also may be mailed to most overseas addresses but GI home loans are not available to veterans living in foreign countries.

To insure prompt receipt of checks, veterans traveling in foreign countries should maintain stateside mailing addresses, where possible.

Ever hear the tale about energy savings ?

It's a true story. Saving energy means saving money. And it's not all that hard.

Since everyone is caught in an energy squeeze right now, saving is a mighty important idea. The cost of generating clean electric energy is rising fast. Increased coal costs are part of the reason. Gas and oil shortages hurt, too.

The only effective approach today is to use our energy efficiently, and only when we need it. Ask us. We can help you save both energy and money.

Electricity is too good to waste !

Preparing The Way

(Matthew 3:1-12)

Emerson observed that "Men of God have always from time to time, walked among men, and made their commission felt in the heart and soul of the commonest hearer." John the Baptist was a man of God. He was God's man sent to walk among men. He made his commission felt in the heart and soul of those who heard him.

These next two lessons will lead up to the Christmas message on December 22, today our lesson is concerned with the preparation for the coming of Christ in the flesh. In this preparation God used a man.

The Man, Matthew 3:1-3

Some 400 years before Matthew wrote, Malachi the prophet had spoken for God, "Behold I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me: and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold he shall come, saith the Lord of hosts."

And always keeps his promises. The day had come. God's man appeared. John the Baptist came preaching in the wilderness of Judaea. God has made special preparation through this man. John was wholly suited for the tremendous task. His father was a priest. His mother was of the daughters of Aaron. "And they were both righteous before God, walking in the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless" (Luke 1:6).

John was to be filled with the Holy Spirit even from his mother's womb and Matthew calls him a prophet. He was a bold and courageous preacher. He was the fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy that there would be "a voice crying in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God." (Isaiah 40:3).

Well, next at the manner of this man who literally emptied the city of Jerusalem and all Judaea?

His Manner, Matthew, 3:4-6

His coat or robe, was made from camel's hair which had been woven. A cheap leather girdle held his robe together at the waist. His dress was much like that of the prophet Elijah. His meat was locust and honey from wild bees. This was food very common to the poor of John's day.

There must have been a genuineness about this simple man. He was a man of convictions with the courage to stand by them. He drew the multitudes. The came from all over to hear what this strange prophet had to say. It soon became obvious to the multitudes that this voice they were hearing was from God. They began to get themselves baptized in the Jordan River, confessing their sins. Verses 7 through 12 of Matthew Chapter 3 tell us of John's message.

His Message, Matthew 3:7-12

His message was a message of repentance. John saw himself as the forerunner of the Messiah. His mission was to get the people to prepare their hearts for the kindly rule of God. Many confessed their sins and turned away from them, even submitting themselves to baptism. Before John, baptism had been only for Gentiles who desired to become Jews.

Even the Pharisees and Sadducees came to John requesting baptism. It is obvious that they were not sincere. They had not turned from their sinful ways and God's Spirit filled preacher saw through their pretension. They reminded John of a brood of snakes scurrying across the desert to escape the fire and he told them so! He went on to demand of them a change of attitudes and actions.

They must bring forth evidence that they had truly repented.

It was not enough for them to know they were descendants of Abraham. No body can go to heaven on the merits of somebody else. If God had merely wanted numbers He could have turned the stones to children of Abraham.

John's message was a message of judgment. God had come before in judgment. The Israelites had suffered captivity and other forms of chastisement. But now the axe was lying on the very root of the trees. There must be a genuine repentance on the part of the people or this time there wouldn't even be the stump left! Verses 11 and 12 consist of a promise and a warning. True repentance and faith in God's promised Messiah will bring a baptism with the Holy Spirit and fire. This means no less than the abiding presence and power of God within the believer. "With Fire" is probably a reference to judgment. Fire purifies. It brings a spiritual cleansing. Christ will gather the ones who belong to Him. He will reject those who have rejected Him.

Ryland spoke truthfully when he said, "No sermon is of any value, or likely to be useful which has not the three I's in it. I in it. I in it. I in it. Redemption by Christ, and Regeneration by the Holy Spirit."

The only general agreement on how to end inflation is for everyone else to spend less money.

Courting*

Amy and George are going together.

Don't ask George if he's courting Amy. He wouldn't know what you're talking about. Nobody courts any more. They go together.

And there are significant differences. A couple of kids going together do not necessarily have marriage as their objective. They just may have found that afternoons like this one are more delightful when you're with someone you like.

The vital prerequisite for going together is to have a sense of values, a set of standards, that will help you make and keep this a wholesome relationship. Religious education, the moral and spiritual principles fostered by our churches—these are the keys to meaningful relationships throughout life.

FEARLESS FORECAST

by R. W. Lancaster

December 5, 1974

The Moon goes in to the earth sign Virgo early this morning and on the home front this would be a good time to get caught up on your sewing or mending, also make a few friendly calls and you will get a warm welcome. Get a new recipe and shop for the ingredients today as Saturday will be an excellent time for baking.

December 6th

A good day to take care of legal matters and about noon might be a good time to get a bargain in a new car or used car. This is a safe day for driving so you can make a good mileage check before you close the deal. The aspects are right for making a loan so maybe you can get a favorable interest rate.

December 7th

If you got the ingredients for that new recipe Thursday this would be a good day to get them mixed up and in the oven. Also a good time for making anything with yeast in it, as it will rise well make some extra and put the surplus in the freezer so you won't have so much to do over the yuletide season. Another safe day for traveling if you want to do more Christmas shopping.

December 8th

After church would be a good time to get out a good book and spend a quiet afternoon. Here is a quote from Charles Kingsley an 18th century English Clergyman. Except a living man there is nothing more wonderful than a book "A message to us from the dead-from human souls we never saw, who lived, perhaps, thousands of miles away. And yet these, in those little sheets of paper, speak to us, arouse us, terrify us, teach us, comfort us, open their hearts to us as brothers."

December 9th

If you didn't finish your home baking Saturday try to finish up during the morning hours as the moon goes in to the fixed water sign Scorpio at 2 p.m. The afternoon would be a good time to dye cloth if you want the colors to stay fixed and look nice. Not too safe a day for traveling but the afternoon would be a good time to see your dentist for fillings or plate impressions.

December 10th

If you didn't make it to your dentist yesterday, today or tomorrow would still be a good time for those fillings or plate impressions. If you are going to do any interior decorating before the holidays today or tomorrow would be a good time to apply paint as it would flow smoothly and dry nice.

December 11th

This would be a good day for a haircut as it would be slow growing back and should last the year out. If you have been feeling bad this is a good day for seeing the doctor and getting your system toned up for the holidays, also get your eyes checked today if you have been needing new glasses. Move in to a new residence today and you will stay a long time.

"Is This My Land"

By Bob Fonde

Is this my land?
With its' smog filled skies,
Its' caughing inhabitants,
With their watery eyes,
With its' beer can beaches,
Its' broken roads,
Its' smokeing chimneys,
Its' littering modes.

Is this my land?

With its' pollution gloare,
Its' inapt ecology,
Its' abstract amour,
Its' filth infested gettos,
Its' children of pain,
Its' brawling humanity,
Its' break of the land.

Is this my land?

With its' commies and cur,
Its' murderers and rapists,
With their increasing slur,
Its' constant corruption,
Its' black against white,
Its' campus rebellion,
Its' ignorance of rite.

Is this my land?

With its' muss penal state,
Its' dupe of the red man,
Its' immorality and hate,
Its' pushers and addicis,
Its' marchers and mobs,
Its' ragged, hungry urchers,
Its' poor and snobs.

Yes! This is my land!

Home of the brave,
Land of Old Glory,
Long may She wave,
Though troubles now plague Her,
She's still proud and free,
A land filled with promise,
For my loved ones and me.

Yes! This is my land!

And it forever will be,
I have looked to the future,
And here's what I see,
She'll be Queen of all nations,
With God as her King,
The whole world will listen,
As her Freedom Bell rings.

FARM NEWS

AND ANALYSIS

By Darwin Foley
Kenton County
Extension Agent

Because of increasing costs you'll not want to put on more fertilizer in 1975 than you need. On the other hand how will you know how much is enough? The amount of fertilizer you will need is based on the crop you are growing, the yield you expect from it and how much fertility is in the soil that crop grows on.

A cost of $1.25 on a soil test right now could save you up to $100 or more per acre next year. This year our office has received more than twice as many soil tests as were received in 1973 reflecting an increased interest in soil testing. From a soil test you can find out whether or not your crop will need lime or fertilizer. Lime corrects soil acidity. If your soil is too acid nutrients can't get into the plant even though they may be in the soil. Manganese toxicity in tobacco is an example of this.

Your soil test results will nly be as good as the sample you take. Use a spade or auger and take 10 or more samples from each field you plan to crop in 1975. Mix up those 10 or more samples from each field and bring us a pint of air dried soil from each mix. In 10 days you'll know how much fertilizer per acre you will need to feed next years crops. Each dollar of investment in soil testing now may mean savings of up to $100 in 1975.

Northern Ky. was shipped 21,983 tons of fertilizer between January 1, 1974 and June 1, 1974 compared to 19,915 tons in the same period of 1973, yet there appeared to be a fertilizer shortage. This included 4,000 tons of ammonium nitrate shipped to Northern Ky., during this six month period compared to 3,584 in the same period in 1973.

The most important reasons for the shortage this past spring was increased demand for fertilizer and not reduced supply. First there were increased acreages of both corn and tobacco. There was also the availability of financial assistance for conservation practices through both the 1973 REAP and the 1974 RECP programs.

Of the fertilizers shipped to Kenton County 10-10-10 led in tonnage with 34 percent of the total compared to the area leader which was 5-10-15 with 38 percent of the total.

Walton Verona Christmas Program

The Annual Christmas Program of the Walton Verona Schools will be held on Tuesday, December 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Walton Verona High School Music and Physical Education Building. Performers will include the Walton Verona Elementary School students with songs performed by each grade level. Christmas music will be played by the elementary, junior high, and high school bands. A routine will be given by the W.V. Majorettes and Drill Team. Music Director James Lyne will conduct with accompanist Mrs. Paul Beighle. The public is invited.

A Christmas Tradition

Christmas, that season of good cheer, is hard upon us again. It is time again to take a break from the troubles of the nation and the world, relax for the year just past, make plans for the year to come.

Traditional music, traditional celebrations abound, making life easier and more pleasant for us all. Other traditions of the season are not quite so pleasant - the crowded streets, the jammed stores, the rush and bustle engendered by still another tradition, that of exchanging gifts. This age-old custom is one of the best - because of it, friends meet, old contacts are renewed, the self-satisfaction of giving is fostered.

One way to avoid the perplexing problems of gift giving is to give those on your list US Savings Bonds. Buying Bonds is easy. One stop at your local bank can take care of your entire gift list. And each Bond is personalized - registered in the name of the recipient.

Savings Bonds are a gift that will be appreciated by everyone now - and for years to come. They draw 6 percent interest, compounded semiannually, when held to maturity - 5 years for E Bonds, 10 years for H Bonds. And they are easily cashed in the event of a rainy day.

So, this Christmas, make your gifts US Savings Bonds. They can help keep you out of the shopping "crush," while making dollars and cents for everyone on your list. It's a Christmas Tradition.

Save Your Labels

The Walton Verona PTA is still participating in the Campbell Soup Label Drive, but the time is drawing to a close. January 3rd will be the last day to bring the labels to school. The last count we had was 2,500 labels and we are far short of our goal of 12,000 labels.

Naturally, this is a voluntary project for students and their families. However, if you do have any Campbell Soup or Beans products in your cupboard and if you ordinarily had Campbell's products, we would appreciate your contributing the labels.

If you are as enthusiastic about this program as we are, you may want to encourage relatives and friends to save labels. The more labels we collect, the more or better equipment we can get for our school.

We are planning to get playground equipment, such as jump ropes, balls, ball sets, and a much needed portable cassette recorder.

Thanks very much for your help and support.

County Agent's 1/2 Acre

by: Joe Claxon

Today, American agriculture is a powerful force in US international trade—a mightily underpinning in the world economy. The boundless energies harnessed by our Nation's farms are being translated into wheat, soybeans, and feed grains for peoples of all countries.

Increased agricultural trade is a symbol of increasing affluence in the world. People everywhere are able to eat better as a result of increased trade in food. Countries which buy agricultural products from us can use more of their energies and natural resources for the production of other products that we want. We can increase our agricultural production, thus cutting the cost of food per unit of production. They benefit and we benefit. It's a simple matter of producing what we can produce best, and exchanging products with someone who produces something else more efficiently.

This specialization and trade is one of the fundamental principles of economics that has enabled people to rise from primitive poverty to greater economic affluence.

It is a policy, that we in the United States have pursued from the beginning. We have, since the early days, piled the seven seas in search of markets for agricultural products. In turn, we have traded for products that have increased our level of living.

The colonies thrived on the sale of tobacco, fish, and rice to Europe. Yankee clippers carried cotton abroad in the 19th century. Now we trade wheat, feed grains, cotton, soybeans and other commodities for imported fuel, shoes, clothing, cars, television sets, and other products vital to our level of living.

From Bobbie's Desk

Ye Gods! There goes a black cat in front of the car. Now Dad will stop the car, spin his hat around on his head three times and spit out the window. One of my co-workers swears her dad does this to this very day. And don't laugh. What is YOUR favorite superstition?

I am not about to get on a platform and act as if I am any better. If you come in my front door, you needn't think you will be allowed to leave by the back. You won't. I've always thought that you get enough bad luck anyway; you don't need to "beg" for it.

I'm funny, how each of us has a favorite black cat hanging over our head? We love to laugh at another's foibles, but there isn't anyone that doesn't have one lurking, if we'll just admit it to ourselves, let alone another. Superstitions undoubtedly age back to Adam just spying another snake. You can imagine what the sight of one caused in him after he had to leave his garden. Probably the sight of a dinosaur was mild, compared. I think each of us have to learn something to fear. I can remember quite vividly the time that Mother came in the front rose garden to spy me sitting down flat on my fat little fanny in the roses with two big black snakes crawling over my legs and me just adoring the whole experience. I can still remember how nice and warm and sorta rusty they felt. They were quite shiny and pretty to me then. Just then, Mother screamed, grabbed a hoe and chopped them to pieces no larger than two inches long. I have been simply terrified of anything bigger than a worm since. She in her turn had been taught to fear them too, I'm sure.

Wouldn't it be great if we could each rid ourselves of our superstitions? Just think of all the troubles we could throw off and not have to worry with? We wouldn't have to watch for ladders, Friday the 13th's, birds flying into the houses, nothing. Wow.

However, since we are all still just folks, I'll make a deal with you. I'll keep my door phobia, and you keep yours, whatever it is. It does make life sorta interesting sometimes, anyway, doesn't it.

Be careful. There's a Friday the 13th coming up real soon.

Anti-Tobacco Amendment Defeated

Once again an attempt to cripple the Nation's tobacco program has been defeated in the Senate. Last week, on a 65-24 vote, the Senate killed an amendment offered by Senator Frank Moss that would have eliminated funds for the tobacco support program from the agricultural appropriations bill.

If enacted, this amendment would have jeopardized the entire tobacco program in Kentucky because the support programs provide stability and protection against inordinate fluctuations in the market price.

As I said on the Senate floor, to jeopardize the tobacco program would hurt the thousands of small farmers throughout the country who grow tobacco. In Kentucky, some 137,000 farmers grow tobacco and 88 percent of the farms have quotas of less than 5,000 pounds. That amounts to about two acres or less per farm.

And since tobacco in many instances is the only profitable crop these farmers have, if they are forced to stop farming tobacco, they naturally will go out of business.

This would cut back productions of many other farm commodities.

Tobacco is by far the most important crop produced in Kentucky with sales in 1972 totaling $321 million and in 1973 some $306 million. It would be an economic disaster for Kentucky to have the tobacco program crippled because of arguments based on inconclusive medical evidence.

As the economy continues its downward slump, we have begun working here in Congress on legislation that would provide help for the victims of the current recession.

Specifically, we are working on legislation to provide extended unemployment insurance benefits and public service jobs for the unemployed. Unfortunately, the administration's proposals in this area are quite restrictive and many Kentucky counties and cities which have high unemployment would be able to qualify.

However, I am highly optimistic that we can get the criteria changed sufficiently that at least some areas of Kentucky will enjoy the benefits of these new programs.

Celebrating
The Promise
(Luke 1:39-55)

Some thoughtful person has suggested that—

"There is something appropriate in celebrating the birth of our Lord in the darkest season of the year. He came into the world in the darkest night of its history, when the blackness of sin was everywhere, when men groaned under oppression, and when despair had settled down upon the earth like a great pall."

God's promise brings us into this darkness. Our lesson tells us how. The story is well known how God's angel appeared to the aged priest Zechariah and informed him that his wife Elizabeth would bear a son. Some six months later God's messenger from Heaven breaks the news to Mary, a young virgin in Nazareth that she is to be the mother of the promised and long-awaited-for Messiah. The angel further informs Mary that her kinswoman, Elizabeth, is now in the sixth month of her pregnancy. Mary lost no time in setting out on the long eighty miles journey to visit Elizabeth.

The Visit, Luke 1:39-40

"The hill country" of Judah was very likely a reference to the territory near or around Jerusalem. This would tell us that Zechariah and Elizabeth were country folk. It is not possible to identify the city where they lived.

This must have been a most meaningful visit, especially to Mary. She received comfort and assurance from these God-honoring people. She makes this her home for three months. This would mean that Mary stayed here until time for the birth of Elizabeth's child. Mary seems to have left before the birth of John.

From the response of Elizabeth to Mary's greetings, we learn more of the blessed virgin.

The Virgin, Luke 1:41-45

It would not be strange for the baby to move in Elizabeth's womb, but being filled with the Holy Spirit, Elizabeth interpreted the movement as a leap for joy! People who open their lives to the Presence of God through the Holy Spirit see God moving in the affairs of men when others cannot.

There is no sign of jealousy of Elizabeth's words to Mary. In a voice of great excitement, she sees Mary as "Blessed... among women." This comes from a Hebrew construction meaning "the most blessed of women." Elizabeth perceived that Mary's child was to be the Messiah and so, He would be much greater than the child she was to bear. Elizabeth considers herself highly honored that "the mother of her Lord" should visit her.

Elizabeth further recognized Mary as being blessed because Mary had demonstrated true and genuine faith. Zechariah had found it difficult to believe what God's angel has said to him. Elizabeth voiced conviction inspired of God that what was told to Mary would certainly come to pass.

In verses 46-55 we have the song of Mary. It is a song of victory.

The Victory, Luke 1:46-55

It has been suggested that "Mary on her four days' journey to Elizabeth brooded over the story of Hannah and then uttered her won inspired son." There is a similarity between the song of Hannah in 1 Samuel 2:1-10 and this one uttered by Mary.

Mary praises God continuously and she had found occasion to rejoice in God's dealings with her. Even though Mary was a virgin and chosen of God to be the mother of the Messiah she recognized her own need and the provision for that need "in God my Saviour."

Verse 48 expresses Mary's awareness that God had took notice of His slave in her humble state. Mary turns to contemplation on the person of God. She speaks of His power for "He had done mighty and great things." She speaks of His holiness for "His name is holy." She speaks of His mercy on those who reverence Him in every generation.

Because of who God is He had acted in a certain manner. God had bared his arm in strength on various occasions. He had scattered the proud with their proud thoughts. He had unseated the enthroned kings and rulers. He had made significant the forgotten people of the world. He had filled the hungry and allowed the rich to feed on their own emptiness. God often reverses the human values of the age.

Mary saw this promise of God's Messiah as "help" for His People, Israel. The Messiah will come through Israel and to Israel. Mary also saw God's act of mercy as a continuation of His mercy to Abraham. God acts in mercy because that's just the way God is!

Goshen Ladies Meet

The Goshen Christian Missionary Ladies Group met in the church basement for their December 4th meeting and Christmas program.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mary Cook, roll call was answered by eleven ladies reading a verse of scripture with the word "blessed" in it.

The Sunshine Report showed that 40 cards had been sent out and 18 visits made to the sick.

A letter was read from Grundy Mission thanking us for our support and inviting our group to come and visit them.

The ladies group assisted with the church Turkey Dinner which was held on November 27th and our annual Christmas project is to give fruit cakes to the shut-ins of our church.

At the noon hour, all the ladies enjoyed a very nice luncheon. The program consisted of all ladies reading something pertaining to Christmas.

Those present were: Mrs. Esther Glenn, Mrs. Darlene Thornberry, Mrs. Nannie Fisk, Mrs. Faye Bray, Miss Ruth Piner, Mrs. Hazel Mullins, Mrs. Lillian Elliott, Mrs. Mary Cook, Mrs. Goldie Glenn, Mrs. Rachel Daniels, and Mrs. Eula LaFollette.

Hostess for January will be Mrs.

Mary Cook, program leader. Mrs. Hazel Mullins and the word for roll call will be "Master"

EVERYONE WELCOME

Beyond the timber line rises sheer rock, towering above the clouds themselves. Looking at this great giant of nature we marvel at God's creations... and are aware of the comparative insignificance of man.

Yet, man is far from insignificant, save in physical size. For God, after all, made man in His image. And He gave man a brain, and a soul, with a sense of right and wrong. He gave him character and responsibility.

It is man who can progress to heights far greater than this mountain. But he needs help to do it—God's help, through the help of the Church.

You weren't meant to stand alone in this world. Remember that... and go to Church this Sunday.

FEARLESS FORECAST

by R. W. Lancaster

December 12, 1974

With the Moon decreasing in the last quarter this would be a good day for shopping. Check the newspaper ads for economical food purchases and try to shop close to home as the driving isn't too safe today and with the high cost of gasoline you probably wouldn't save enough to pay for the extra mileage. Also a good day for sewing and mending but save the baking for Saturday, check your recipes before going shopping and you may save an extra trip to the store.

December 13th

We have a new Moon at 10:35 a.m. local time, so today would be a good time to start something new, make some friendly calls on friends or look for a new job if you haven't been too well occupied lately. If you are in need of new house furnishings this is a good time to shop, the afternoon would be a good time to do house cleaning so it won't interfere with your baking tomorrow. Plan on entertaining at home tonight and you will have an enjoyable evening.

December 14th

The Moon went in to the Cardinal

Earth sign Capricorn early this morning so this would be a good Saturday for sports, any outdoor activity such as football or hunting should be enjoyed. If you have any outstanding debts this would be an excellent time to collect before you go Christmas shopping. This is the day you planned on doing that home baking so get an early start and put the extras in the freezer for the yuletide season.

December 15th

This Sunday with the strongest aspect from the Moon to Saturn at mid day, our thoughts will probably turn to the aged J.P. Richter the German humorist had this to say in 1800 (Like a morning dream, life becomes more and more bright the longer we live, and the reason of everything appears more clear. What has puzzled us before seems less mysterious, and the crooked paths look straighter as we approach the end.)

December 16th

The Moon goes in to the air sign Aquarius at mid day so if you didn't finish all your baking Saturday, try to finish during the morning hours and have the afternoon free to do some visiting, this is an excellent time for forming new friendships and they have a tendency to last. So give some serious thought before you become too involved with any new acquaintance.

December 17th

The next seven days will be a good time to sell any personal property that you no longer have any use for so if you have an ad in tomorrow's Advertiser you can expect to move out the old and have room for the new you will be getting for Christmas. If you have been wanting someone to grant you a favor contact them today or tomorrow and the chances are you will have it granted.

December 18th

An excellent day to start any long lasting project or to buy anything you expect to last a long time such as an automobile or a new home and the aspects are good for settling legal matters. If you are planning on a marriage the evening hours have favorable aspects between the Moon and Mercury and the Sun so it will probably be a till death do us part affair. Also a safe time for traveling if you want to elope.

To The Editor:

Dear Editor:
We at the National Foundation-March of Dimes are beginning to understand more and more about the causes of birth defects and are making tremendous strides in diagnosis, treatment, and, in some cases, prevention. Many birth defects which once caused grave damage to babies are now preventable. It is our hope that eventually many more can be prevented entirely.
January is the beginning of our 17th annual year of battle against birth defects through support of research and medical services. In the past, the press has been a vital agent in keeping the public concerned about the problem and informed of advances. We hope that you will again find use for the enclosed public service materials to insure continued success of our campaign. It is a success that millions of Americans rely on each year.

Sincerely,
George P. Voss

Tax Guides

We have just received a limited number of the 1975 edition of the "Farmer's Tax Guide" in our office. It is for your use in preparing your 1974 Federal Income Tax return. Examples throughout the booklet show how the tax laws apply to farming situations. Samples of the records and tax forms normally used by farmers illustrate how good records help you prepare an accurate tax return and pay only the correct amount of tax. Come in and pick up one while they last.

Fair Board

The Kenton County Fair Association elected Harold Bray, Charles Casey and Julia Wicklund to three year terms as directors during the annual meeting in October. Three directors are elected annually for a total of nine elected directors plus appointed directors from the Kenton County Farm Bureau, county Extension Agents and Vocational Agriculture Teachers.
Officers for 1975 are President Cecil Cummins, Assistant President Ben Heeger Sr., Vice President Stanley Bird, Treasurer Bob Maddox, Secretary Julia Wicklund and Assistant Secretary Matilda Richardson. People interested in participating in the Kenton County Fair or assisting the Fair Association should contact Julia Wicklund or attend the monthly meeting. The Fair Board meets at 8:00 the fourth Monday of each month in the RECC Building at Nicholson.

Christmas Trees

It's time to pick out your Christmas tree. A helpful tool in your selection would be the same points a commercial tree grower uses. Look at the density. A US premium tree has the main stem partially obscured with at least light foliage. Observe the taper. The ideal tree forms a cone, the base of which is not more than 70 per cent of its height. Turn the tree to see its balance. A premium tree has four complete faces. Examine the foliage. Needles should be pliable, full of moisture and firmly attached. The foliage should be clean. Look for deformities. The perfect tree has no weak branches, barren lower whorls or curved stems. The variety that's best for you will depend on your likes and dislikes.

To The Editor:

Dear Sirs:
I would like to express my thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Banks of Taylor Mill, Ky. for their subscription as a Christmas Gift of the Walton Advertiser. I wish a Very Merry Christmas to all.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Gladys Shumote

American farmers are remarkably efficient. They can produce far more food and fiber than we can consume in this country. This is particularly true of such vital crops as wheat, soybeans, and feed grains.

This productive capacity has been both a blessing and a burden. It has blessed us with abundance of basic food needs and has helped feed millions of hungry people throughout the world. But it has also burdened us at times with taxing, income-depressing surpluses.

This ability of US farmers to produce much more than we consume has made exports increasingly important.

Export sales almost took care of themselves in the last 2 years. It was

Santa's Sleighride

Santa Claus is coming to town. But he must be dreading the trip. Sleighrides in the midnight air aren't the fun they used to be. Every year another 200 million tons of unwanted gases and particles are dumped into our air. Breathing in that pollution doesn't help keep anybody jolly.

Sure, the earth's atmosphere is several hundred miles high. High enough, you might think, for any amount of aerial garbage. Not so. About 95 per cent of the total air mass is concentrated in a layer of 12 miles thick around the earth's crust. It's scary to think that the amount of air we can breathe is limited. And that we're polluting it more every day.

A national three-year study showed that most American have higher amounts of carbon monoxide in their blood than standards allowed by the Clean Air Act in 1971. Pollution is everywhere, but urban dwellers had consistently higher levels than rural residents. Taxi drivers had the highest concentrations of all occupational groups.

Car exhaust, of course, is one of the chief causes of pollution. All 1975 cars must meet stringent air pollution emission standards. The US Environmental Protection Agency also has issued regulations requiring more than half the service stations in this country to sell at least one grade of unleaded gas.

Santa is doing his bit. Reindeer-powered sleighs are the ultimate in non-polluting transportation.

To support the fight for clean air, answer your Christmas Seal Letter from the Kentucky Lung Association today. It's a matter of life or breath.

in fact, a seller's market for US farm products in 1973 and again 1974. Because of this, it is easy to forget that international agricultural trade is no easy task. Maintaining our agricultural trade calls for tough, continuous, competitive negotiations.

Three markets—the European Community (EC), Japan, and Canada—have been important outlets for US farm products for years.

Three others—Russia, Eastern Europe, and the People's Republic of China—have recently emerged as promising customers.

These six markets areas represent $12 billion in sales of American farm products—56 percent of our total agricultural exports in 1974.

We sell more farm products to the European Community than to any other region in the world. In 1974, 1 out of every 4 dollars earned by US agricultural exports came from the EC. Yet while we sell more, they are buying less of their total farm imports from us. Sales to the EC increased 48 percent between 1973 and 1974. But the US share of their market has dropped. In 1962 for example, they bought approximately 12 percent of their agricultural imports from us, but only 9 percent in 1973 and 8 percent in 1974.

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Congressman Gene Snyder, addressing the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast in Covington Sunday morning, affirmed a deep conviction that "most Americans recognize that the strength, fortitude and destiny of Our Country must rest solidly on the foundations of faith and trust in God if we are to survive and persevere."

He called for a still greater acknowledgement of the blessing of liberty that enables us to celebrate the Coming of God's Son on Earth in freedom.

Acknowledging the country's "appearance of devoting itself almost entirely to the acquisition of material goods this time of year," Mr. Snyder declared, "I still feel that most Americans when the hustle and bustle of the market place grows quiet stop to recall that this season is the celebration of the birth of Our Lord, for which we owe the opportunity for everlasting life."

"Let us be ever mindful that in many parts of the world this Holy Season must be celebrated secretly on pain of severe punishment or reprisal or not at all. It must be celebrated behind closed doors for in many countries the churches are closed and whole governments play Scrooge the year round."

"Here we openly gather with the avowed intention of prayer. In some places that is a Crime Against the State because the State is supposed to be the only recognized deity."

The Fourth District Representative said, "America's whole history speaks to us of our dedication to God."

"This Faith of Our Fathers has been undermined in recent years by those mistaken enough to believe that men alone can make a nation great, a country strong and free. America has had some bad experiences of late. Perhaps we shall recognize that if we are not able to live on our knees in slavery, we'd better get on our knees in prayer."

"Laws alone cannot keep a nation from folly, error and even evil. Only God and faith in Him can do that."

Congressman Snyder summed up his message with an appeal for faith in ourselves and our destiny.

"A strong America depends in the last analysis on our believing in ourselves, our country and our mission in the world. Without God and our faith in God, we cannot sustain our lofty vision as a people as a nation. We believe in ourselves and our goals as a great nation because we possess an unshakable belief in the Almighty and His Will and Direction for America. So, let us thank God for our resolve and pray to Him for continued courage."

Frances J. Mills Seeks State Treasurer

Frances Jones Mills

Frances Jones Mills today became the first candidate to file her notification and declaration papers. She will seek the office of state treasurer in the democratic primary next May.

In her statement Mrs. Mills said: "As you know, I am presently serving as Clerk of the State's highest court the Court of Appeals. At this season of thanks, I am particularly thankful for those friends who elected me and for the new ones I have been blessed with over the past three years."

"When I was elected to this office by the citizens of Kentucky, I pledged to serve with honesty, integrity and dedication."

"I have endeavored to fulfill this pledge and will continue to carry out the responsibilities and duties of this most important position until the end of my term."

"Today I have asked the media and my friends to join me here for what I feel is an important day of decision in my political future."

"For many years, I have served in state government - as a member of the Kentucky Legislature, in the Executive Branch, and presently as an elected official in the Judiciary."

"I wish to continue in another elective position to serve my state and my fellow Kentuckians. My greatest desire in life is to continue in a position where I can help and serve others."

"I wish it were possible for me to continue to serve as Clerk of the Court of Appeals, but, as you know, I can not succeed myself. Each day has been eventful and interesting, and I feel proud of the new policies and added duties that have been enacted since I went into this office."

"After prayerful contemplation, discussion with many friends, advisors, and staff, I am today filing my notification and declaration papers for the office of State Treasurer. This will clarify my final decision. To comply with Kentucky's election law, I will, of course, re-file in early 1975."

Mrs. Mills made her statement and signed her declaration papers in the Secretary of State's office.

Interpreting Christ's Coming
(Matthew 1:17-23; Galatians 3:23-26)

Many philosophers and educators living prior to the advent of Christ believed in a divine Logos, or Reason, who was actively operating in the world. This was their explanation of the harmonious and rational order existing in the universe. Heraclitus, Plato, and later the Stoic philosophers developed this teaching. But it was left for a humble follower of Jesus, by the name of John, to declare that this unknowable (to the philosophers and educators) Logos was really God in the flesh! "The Word (Logos) became flesh and dwelt among us" (John 1:14).

Today we give consideration to that first coming of Christ to dwell among us. Let us look at the manner in which He came.

The Manner of His Birth, Matthew 1:17-22

Matthew, writing to present Jesus as the son of David and therefore the Davidic Messiah, begins his gospel with the genealogy of Jesus. It was important to Matthew to establish the fact that Jesus was the son of David, the son of Abraham. Matthew will also establish the fact that this Jesus was also David's Lord (Matthew 22:41-43).

Following the genealogy of Jesus, Matthew relates the manner of His birth. It would be extremely helpful to make a word study of this section of Matthew. There are many significant words which would throw added light on the subject. But there can be no serious question as to Matthew's purpose in this passage. He is presenting the account of the divine origin of Jesus! He shows how all that took place concerning Jesus was in fulfillment of Old Testament prophecy.

Matthew Knew and relates to his readers that Mary was a virgin. To deny this is to deny the inspiration of the Scriptures. But we are to bear in mind that Matthew is not as much concerned about the condition of Mary as he is the Conception of Jesus! That conception was miraculous. Mary was with child of the Holy Spirit.

The experience of Joseph in this narrative would be proof enough that Matthew believed and presented Jesus born of a virgin.

He who had rested on the bosom of a Father without a mother, was now to rest on the bosom of a mother without a father.

His name was to be "Jesus." This is the Greek equivalent to the Hebrew name for Joshua which meant "Yehweh (Jehovah) is Salvation." Notice in verse 21 . . . for it is he that shall save his people from their sins. Salvation comes by a person and that person is Jesus, God's Son.

The Miracle of the Birth, Matthew 1:23

The prophet Isaiah prophesied the birth of Jesus and the significance of His birth. Jesus was in the beginning with God. He was the agent of the Father in all creation. Of all things that were created, nothing was created apart from Christ. God would enter into the struggle with man. God's Son would take upon Himself the body, nature, and limitations of man. He would be conceived in the womb of a young virgin by the Holy Spirit. The significance of His name Emmanuel was "God with us."

The miracle of miracles was that the Son of God became flesh and dwelt among us. That God is with His people today, is the tremendous miracle. God comes to make all things new, even the broken lives of people. The Son of God waits this day to be invited into your heart and mine. For one reason or another there was no room for Jesus in the inn that night over nineteen hundred years ago. Will there be room in our hearts for Him at this season of the year 1974?

Yes, the birth of Jesus was a miracle because God's Son had come to be the Savior of souls burdened down with sin. God's Son can bring a new birth of life to you today if you have never turned to Him in repentance and faith. "Today is the day of salvation." "Now is the accepted time."

What was the meaning of His birth?

The law was necessary. It had a good purpose. The law served its purpose well. The problem was not with the law but with man's misunderstanding of the law. The law was not given to put us in the standing with God. God tells us through the Apostle Paul that "the law was our schoolmaster to bring us to Christ, that we might be justified by faith" (Galatians 3:24). The law was given to show man his need for God's grace!

EVERYONE WELCOME

It was a tiny park in a small town. But I thought the tree was the biggest Christmas tree in the whole world!

A scent of evergreen and snowflakes mingling still comes back to me, and I remember looking far to the top where a huge star sparkled against a black velvet sky. I wondered if God were looking down, admiring our star.

Yes, God was there—in the heart of old Mr. Cunningham, his banker's dignity stuffed in a red flannel suit, and in the blue fingers of Miss Lucy, coaxing carols from a wheezy organ. He was there in baskets of food brought by the Ladies Aid Society and in neatly stitched quilts made for the orphans by the Women of the Church.

Today, more than ever, people need to learn the love of God from the warmth of their fellow-man. Your church teaches faith through works. Go to your church and know the joy that comes from helping others.

Reading Is Better Than Experiencing

There were snowflakes in the Commonwealth on October 19, but Eastern Kentucky recall that date in 1967 when "there was a right smart frost." That was nothing to compare, however, with one October 9, many years ago that brought two inches of snow to the hills.

But the people of Morgan County take all this stoically. As C.M. Peyton says, "I've planted corn and it snowin' and I've cut corn and it snowin'."

In the winter of 1966, a writer for the Lewis County Herald stated, "Man, oh, man! Old-timers who tell of old-fashioned winters of their childhood got to give the present generation a demonstration of what they were like. . . . He was referring to a blizzard that swept in at early dawn, piling up to 10 inches of snow through the county. But Lewis County and much of northeastern Kentucky had experienced a bad blizzard in 1951, and Vanceburg once recorded a low of 30 degrees in 1890.

There was a story once that old-timers became numbed with the cold before they could get their clothes on. Winters were so bad that hotel guests passed up breakfast and refused to get out of bed till the weather had moderated some.

Lawrence Countians remember the winter of 1918-19 as particularly cold. A big freeze hung around for a long time, causing rivers, creeks and ponds to freeze. Farmers had to break the ice each day for their stock to have drinking water. One family was not prepared for the freeze. When their cattle rushed to the ice, one cow fell into the pond. Neighbors and a section hand from a train crew used ropes to rescue the animal.

In 1905, Mason Countians recount that the Ohio River had so much ice on it the ferry couldn't operate. Ice was so thick on the river during the winters of 1913 and 1917 that automobiles crossed on it from Boyd County, Kentucky to Lawrence County, Ohio.

As can be seen, one of the most interesting characteristics of Kentucky is its weather. With extra seasons like Indian Summer and Dogwood Winter interspersed throughout the year, the Commonwealth can never be described as monotonous.

"Kentucky is like a beautiful woman," commented one observer. "She is lively and capricious in spring full-blossomed in summer, a bit flirty in autumn dress, but in winter she can be anything, wrapped in a soft ermine stole, running with the wind, moaning or laughing, or warm and cuddly."

Santa Gets Helping Hand

Through the efforts of Cincinnati Area Red Cross and their youth and adult volunteers, Santa Claus is getting a helping hand to brighten the holidays for hospitalized veterans and servicemen, community centers, other institutions, fire victims and Service to Military clients and their children.

Christmas activities began this week with the filling of Christmas stockings, made by Red Cross sewing volunteers, for children of Military Family clients. They are filled with crayons, coloring books, candy canes, small balls, erasers, rulers, harmonicas and other items purchased by contributions from the Red Cross School Youth Fund.

Colorful holiday decorations including tray favors, centerpieces and handmade ornaments, made by Red Cross youth in area schools, are being packed by volunteers for delivery to residents of area nursing homes, VA hospitals, community centers and other institutions.

Red Cross staff members, in lieu of sending Christmas cards, donated money for toys, so Santa would have enough for children of SMF clients and disaster victims.

During the holidays the chapter's Service To Military Families department will provide toys and funds for Christmas dinner for clients who are eligible for assistance. The Chapter's Disaster Task Force will carry toys in their vehicles for children of families involved in fires and will provide funds for a Christmas dinner if victims are without funds.

Other Christmas events included Christmas parties for youth at the Children's Medical Center, Convalescent Section and the Eastwood Village Recreation Center on Saturday, December 14.

Before the afternoon's festivities, some 70 members of the Red Cross Junior High Service Council spent the morning hours at the Chapter wrapping their handmade gifts which included bean bags, puppets, pillows for the youth at these centers. They entertained with a Christmas play and the singing of carols. Refreshments were served by the Recreation Center parents and Red Cross Motor Service volunteers transported the youth and their gifts.

The generosity and concern for others by these Red Cross volunteers brightened the holidays for many who might have been forgotten in our Greater Cincinnati area.

Select Safe Christmas Toys

Make the Christmas season happier for children by making it safer, parents were urged by the Cincinnati Area Red Cross today. They were advised to shop carefully for toys for their small daughters and sons, to insure that these playthings will not injure them.

"Many children are injured by unsafe toys each year," while few such injuries are fatal, all are painful. And it is a shattering experience for parents whose children suffer a serious injury from misused or defective toys.

There are many toys with features that are potentially dangerous, one thing to look out for is whether the toy is covered with lead based paint. The child who licks it could be poisoned.

"Another most important consideration in choosing a toy for a child is its construction and size," he added. "It should be so durably large enough so they cannot be swallowed. A safe criterion is that the toy or its detachable parts be larger than a child's fist."

Even soft stuffed dolls and animals offer potential hazards if they have button eyes that can be pulled or shoved off and swallowed, he added. Wire used to form an ear can protrude through the fabric and inflict scratches. Toys should be examined also for wood that can splinter, metal with sharp edges, or plastic that can break and leave sharp edges or fragments that a child can swallow.

"Electrical toys offer some hazards and must be kept in good repair," he said. "They should always carry the UL (Electrical Underwriters) test label, and should be used under supervision. An electric train or racing game should have a circuit breaker on the transformer, and a child should be taught the correct way to plug and unplug an electric toy. Play stoves, irons, and metal moulding and wood-burning devices can get hot and should be handled with care."

He urged parents to take the time when they shop to examine the toys they buy carefully. Try to match the toy to the age, ability and interest of the child. "Keep in mind how your child will use the toy, and ask if it is durable enough to stand up under rough play, and what its potential of damage from misuse is. Although consumer groups have sought to bring dangerous toys to the attention of the public, the parents still have the primary responsibility for assuring that they are safe."

"Daddy, Who Is Santa Claus?"

By: Bob Fonde

One evening, long ago, when I was a little boy, I sat on my daddy's knee and asked him an explain to me who Santa Claus really was.

I wanted to know how he was able to be everywhere, all over the world, visiting all the good little boys and girls in just one night.

To this day I have found no better answer to that question than the one Dad gave me then.

This was my Dad's answer:

Santa may be a bright shining star, Or a song that fills the air, He's the white when it snows, He's the North wind that blows, Santa can be everywhere.

He's the joy in the face of a little child, He's a present wrapped carefully with love, He's the carols we sing, He's the Church bells that ring, He's the wish came true from above.

So you see my son, you must understand, That Santa and Christmas are one, Believe while you can, He's more than a man, He's the spirit, of love, hope, and fun.

Relief Deadline For Disaster

The deadline for individual assistance disaster relief applications stemming from the April 3 tornadoes is December 13, according to Lt. Col. William Dotson, acting deputy director of the division of disaster and emergency services.

People who suffered personal property losses in the excess of the amount insured may apply for up to $5,000 through the Bureau of Social Insurance offices. The offices are in or near all counties affected by the tornadoes.

Dotson emphasized that the Disaster Relief Act of 1974, which provided funds for the program, does not apply to farms, businesses or churches. Those losses fall under the jurisdiction of other agencies, such as the Agriculture, Soil and Conservation Service, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the Federal Housing Administration.

People applying for relief should be prepared to substantiate their claims with repair receipts, cost estimates or other documentation.

I'm Coming Home - It's Christmas

Turkey and the fixin's
And homemade pumpkin pie
The smell of mince meat coming through the air.
Mom's in the kitchen cooking
And kids are everywhere
And me, I'm coming home
It's Christmas.

The presents are all wrapped
The tree is shining bright
The colored lights are twinkling everywhere.
The house is full of laughter and music fills the air
And me, I'm coming home
It's Christmas.

I'm waiting for the train
Alone, but in a crowd
The snow is falling softly to the ground.
It's not like the big city
But it's my home town.
And me, I'm coming home
It's Christmas.

Home for Christmas
That's for me
No matter where I roam
Tolks can travel near or far
But me, I'm coming home
It's Christmas.

Life Or Death Issue

Inflation is a word that strikes fear into the hearts of even the bravest among us. In the business sector, ever-rising operating expenses for investor-owned electric utilities make the need for enlightened regulatory policies literally a life-or-death issue. Without them, warns an analyst of public utilities securities and the money market, it becomes increasingly difficult, if not impossible, for electric utility companies to raise the capital necessary to meet future US needs, let alone achieve energy independence.

Such deterioration of the private enterprise system need not occur if there is stability in utility common stocks earnings to attract investors and assure adequate revenues. "This would require much less delay in granting needed rate increases," notes the analyst, as well as, "granting obviously needed interim rate increases prior to final decisions, and developing formulae which would feed other costs, in addition to fuel costs, into the rate structures without much delay." The substantial daily costs of operating the nation's electric and nuclear generating power plants is multiplied by the expense of financing Project Independence, with the electric industry's share estimated at a staggering $107 billion of investments in research, development, plant and equipment between now and 1980.

Clearly, the electric utility industry must be profitable enough to lure the large amounts of investments dollars required by escalating costs. This means higher rates are inevitable. As the analyst puts it, "While this would cost utility customers something in the very short run, it would be to their advantage in the long, and not so long, run by reducing the soaring cost of capital to utilities, which they ultimately must pay, one way or another." Public understanding of the problems and needs of the investor-owned electric utilities is fundamental to the existence of the private enterprise system.

Christmas From The Heart

I took Jimmy Christmas shopping
Just like I do,
He like to go from store to store
And look around.
He's always talked to Santa Claus
And told him what to bring
And picked out present from the Many toys he found.
But this year it was different
The interest wasn't there!
I'd show him toys I thought he'd like,
But he just didn't seem to care.
He led me to a shoe store
And showed me what to get,
We argued 'cause I didn't understand,
I knew he didn't need them.
But I got the shoes for him
And he walked out with them tightly in his hand
When I asked him for a reason,
He looked up so seriously
And said "Give my gift to Tommy, he needs
It more than me."
That night I lay and racked my brain
Who could Tommy be?
I knew all his little friends and there's None in the family.
But all that I could think of and all that I could see
Were his sad eyes looking up as he told me seriously.
"Give my gift to Tommy, he need it more than me."
The next day I went back to town
As Christmas shoppers will
In all the traffic and the noise
The car was strangely still.
Till Jimmy pointed up ahead and yelled "There's Tommy, See? Give my gift to Tommy,
He needs it more than me."
I looked up and when I saw what I'd been forced to see
It made me mighty proud of a little boy
And mighty ashamed of me.
There on a billboard was Tommy
In ragged clothes, on bended knee "Won't someone please help me?"
The tears rolled down my face
And I really didn't care
For when my eyes went to Tommy's feet
Tommy's feet were bare.

TRANQUILITY

Tranquility - what a peaceful word
And that's just what it means Anything that is tranquil
Is peaceful, calm and serene.
It's a walk out in the country
Close to nature, near the sod
Surrounded by beauty
And very near to God.

It's a sunny Sunday morning
Coming home from Sunday school
Where you've just heard a lesson
About the Golden Rule.
"Do unto others. . ."
That's the way it starts
And we should learn to live it
From the bottom of our hearts.

The world is full of trouble
There's turmoil and there's strife
If we could learn to live together
We'd have a better life.
I'm sure if we would all truly say
"I'll do others like I want them to do me,"
That this great wide wonderful world,
Could be a world of Tranquility.

Turkeys For The Theologians

"Our family didn't have meat on our table from the day we enrolled in August until a friend gave us a turkey for Thanksgiving." That statement by a fellow-student at Clear Creek Baptist School,
Pineville, Ky., inspired the late Rev.
Donald Burnett to vow that he would direct a project that would put a turkey on every student family's table for this coming Christmas. And he did, until the Thanksgiving day in 1969 when he died of a heart attack while rabbit hunting in Eastern Kentucky.

An active man who walked with the aid of crutches, Rev. Burnett sustained a crippling spinal injury when he fell more than a hundred feet on his ship during World War II.
But he didn't let his handicap stop him from being an energetic pastor in Bowling Green, Ky., and later a missionary in the East Kentucky mountains.

This year the annual project was led by the Rev. Bill Whittaker, pastor of the First Baptist Church,
Sturgis, Ky., Rev. Burnett's friend and former neighboring pastor. He was helped by dozens of alumni in several states.

The turkeys, weighing almost a ton, were distributed December 17,

just before classes were dismissed for the holidays at this theological school for adults. These turkeys will be the Christmas table centerpiece for students and their children who range in age from the six-weeks old twin sons (Jamie and Dusty) of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Farris, Owensboro, Ky., to Suzanne, college student daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Waddle, Lexington, Ky.

According to Rev. Whittaker, "We added $5.00 in cash and another $5.00 in groceries for each family, many of whom have taken up to $10,000.00 per year in salary cuts when they gave up their jobs or businesses to enroll at Clear Creek."

A former student recently explained what the turkey gift meant to his family, "When we were students last year we were not financially able to go home for Christmas and if it hadn't been for the turkey given us by the alumni we wouldn't have had a very good Christmas dinner. We appreciate the turkeys we received the three years we were Clear Creek students.
They were a tremendous help to us.
Now that we are alumni, we plan to help with the Christmas project. It helped us as much as anything we received at Clear Creek - just knowing former students cared enough to reach out in love at Christmas Time."

PEACE

May the joys of this holy season fill every heart and bring to all the true spirit of Christmas.

WE WANT TO WISH EACH AND EVERYONE A HAPPY CHRISTMAS AND A WONDERFUL NEW YEAR.
ONCE AGAIN WE ARE REMINDED OF THE BIRTH OF THE CHRIST CHILD, AND ARE EVER GRATEFUL FOR ALL OF HIS BLESSINGS AND IN THE COMING YEAR, MAY HE GIVE US GOOD HEALTH, HAPPINESS AND PROSPERITY.

Take Tea And Ski

After an afternoon spent schussing the slopes or trekking cross-country, nothing will be more welcome to a bunch of winter sports fans than a hot spiced tea drink. It'll warm them down to the tips of their tingling toes, and the inviting aroma of the apices will bring them back for seconds and thirds. Serve the tea in mugs or in glasses set in holders.

For nibbling while sipping, slices of pound cake taste good. Make a cake from a mix and give it a special touch with a glazed topping made by dissolving three teaspoons of lemon-flavored instant tea in five teaspoons of water; then blend in one and a quarter cups of sifted confestioneers' sugar.

Skiers' Special
2 quarts boiling water
12 teabags or 1/4 cup loose tea
1 teas. cracked fennel seeds
1 teas. ground ginger
1 teas. whole cloves
Grated rind of 2 lemons
1 c. sugar
1 1/2 teas. rum extract

Pour boiling water over tea, fennel, ginger, cloves, and lemon rind. Cover and let stand for 5 minutes. Strain into hot teapot, chafing dish or serving container. Add sugar and stir until dissolved. Stir in rum extract.

Buying A Tree

Keep the home fires burning at Yuletide, but only in the right places, the Cincinnati Area Red Cross advised householders today.

"One locale where unwanted fires should be guarded against especially is the Christmas tree," James D. Horney, First Aid Program chairman of the Cincinnati Area Red Cross Chapter, said.

The Christmas tree is one fire hazard that can turn holiday merrymaking into tragedy, Mr. Horney said. He listed these precautions that should be taken to prevent a tree from becoming a flaming pyre that can kill or maim:

1. When buying a tree make sure it is fresh. If the needles fall off at the touch, the tree is too dry. Keep the tree fresh by making a new diagonal cut in the trunk about two inches from a bottom and placing the tree in a stand with a water-filled container. Replace the water as it evaporates. This will make the tree more fire-resistant.
2. Set the tree up well away from fireplace, stove, radiator or wall.
3. Use non-flammable decorations on the tree and throughout the house. Never use lighted candles on the tree.
4. Before decorating the tree, check all electrical decorations for frayed, cracked or worn insulation.

and inspect the plug for possible damage. Electrical fixtures should carry the approval label of the Underwriters Laboratory. Be sure not to overload electrical circuits. Disconnect tree lights before leaving the house or retiring at night.

5. The Red Cross also has words of advice about other live Christmas decorations. "The berries of holly, mistletoe, yew, and Jerusalem cherry, and the leaves of poinsettia can cause serious illness if chewed or swallowed. In a home with small children, artificial greenery is recommended," Mr. Horney said.

Did You Know?

On December 31, 1962, the worst blizzard in a decade hit New England, and winds were clocked at 80 MPH.

A coast guard boat became stuck in the ice near Buffalo, New York while trying to rescue two hunters marooned on the Niagara River. Helicopters then had to rescue everybody.

Drifts piled as high as 20 feet in Bangor, Maine and the Daily News failed to publish a morning edition for the first time since 1899.

In Worcester, Mass. people who braved sub-zero temperatures to pick up their unemployment compensation checks were disappointed when the check writing machine was unusable because it had frozen overnight.

We wish joy and peace to everyone, with special "thanks" to our patrons.

Cincinnati Safety Council Warns

If you suddenly begin suffering from headache, nausea, abdominal pain and a feeling of fatigue for no apparent reason, you may have a form of carbon monoxide intoxication. The symptoms can mimic an upset stomach or a heart attack, and the inflection can be fatal. Because carbon monoxide is odorless, tasteless and invisible, you may not know why you are ill. The Greater Cincinnati Carbon Monoxide Safety Committee cautions that this is the time of year when carbon monoxide poisoning is most prevalent. The Committee suggests you check to be sure space heaters and furnaces are properly vented and chimneys are clean and free of debris. Don't run your automobile or other internal combustion engine in an enclosed area and don't use a cook stove for room heating.

Carpentersville Girl Wed at St. Monica's

Mr. and Mrs. Ben David Isreal

St. Monica's Church in Carpentersville was the setting for the November 2 wedding uniting Deborah Lynn Merriman and Ben David Isreal in marriage. Father John Slampack performed the double ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Merriman, Carpentersville, and the groom is the son of Mr. Betty Hensley and the late Mr. John Isreal of Covington, Ky.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a white chiffon oversatin gown with clusters of pearl chips and a detachable train edged in lace. The headpiece was a Camelot cap, with clusters of pearls, two illusion veils and a floor-length veil edged with lace. Repeating a family tradition, the bride also wore a necklace and earrings, given by the groom, and her paternal grandmother's wedding ring. She also carried a handkerchief given her by the groom's grandmother and wore a blue garter.

She carried a bouquet of white roses, carnations, and ivy leaves and baby's breath.

Attending the bride were matron of honor Diane Merriman, maid of honor Cindy Reinking and bridesmaids, Mary Kennedy and Kathy Kennedy. Junior Bridesmaids were Tina and Annette Sheffield, and Margie Sheffield was the flower girl.

The bridesmaids wore assorted rainbow-colored chiffon over satin empire styled dresses with braided Camelot headpieces and finger tip veils. They carried corsages of carnations, roses, violets, ivy leaves and baby's breath attached to long-haired white muffs.

Attending the groom, who was escorted down the aisle by his mother, were Danni Merriman as best man and groomsmen Scott Sturtevant, Rick Merchut and Bobby Sandman. Junior Groomsmen were Rusty Isreal and Ricky Merriman. The ringbearer was Chad Merriman. Terry Dingess and Floyd Merriman served as ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a floor length pink acetate gown with chiffon sleeves. The groom's mother was dressed in a floor length pink crepe gown also with chiffon sleeves. Each mother wore a white orchid corsage and received a single red rose during the ceremony.

After the ceremony 300 guests celebrated the bride and groom in St. Monica's Hall. Hostesses at the reception were Mrs. Joyce Sheffield, Mrs. Kathy Merriman and Mrs. Ernie Dingess.

Out of town guests included the groom's mother; his brother, Rusty Isreal; aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Denny; and sister Mrs. Pat Smith, all from Kentucky and Peggy Merchan, and David, and Garnett Tomlin also from Kentucky, and the bride's aunt, Mrs. Hulda White.

After a short honeymoon at Pheasant Run in St. Charles the couple now resides in Carpentersville.

The bride a 1973 graduate of Barrington High is studying nursing at Harper College and is presently employed at St. Joseph Hospital.

The groom attended Walton Verona High and is employed by the Algonquin Standard Station.

FEARLESS FORECAST

by R. W. Lancaster
December 19, 1974

The Moon went in to Pisces early this morning and with the aspects between mercury and Mars it looks like an active day. If you ran that in the Advertiser this week you should be getting some phone calls before the day is over and have some extra cash for your Christmas shopping tomorrow or Saturday. This is a safe day for travel, so the evening would be a good time for a visit or to take in a good movie.

December 20th

This would be an ideal day to ask for a favor or apply for a loan and if you are going to deal with an older person make the time about noon, while the Moon trines Saturn and you will have a good chance to get what you want. If your hair is a little thin on top, get a haircut today and it will grow back fast, get a good message and it may thicken up a bit. The afternoon would be a good time to shop for some new or used transportation.

December 21st

The Moon moves in to the fire sign Aries after dinner, so the afternoon would be a good time for house cleaning or some home baking. The evening would be a good time for sewing and mending, so if you get all those chores out of the way you can look forward to the holidays and maybe some idle time to enjoy them. If you are shopping for shoes try to buy them during the morning hours for a good fit.

December 22nd

The Sun entered the Cardinal Earth sign Capricorn at 12:19 a.m.

local time this morning. So we woke up to the first day of winter. With the Moon aspecting Mars we should be full of energy and ready for anything. To quote Shakespeare (Our remedies often in ourselves do lie, which we ascribe to heaven; the fated sky gives us free scope; only doth backward pull our slow designs, when we ourselves are dull.)

December 23rd

The Moon still in the fire sign Aries you can finish anything you didn't get done Saturday toward getting the home ready for the holidays. This is a safe day for travel so if you have some more shopping to do get it done any time today, and if you need a new permanent try to get an appointment for tomorrow. The evening hours would be an excellent time to catch up on your correspondence and you will have a clear conscience over the holidays.

December 24th

If you were lucky enough to get that appointment for a permanent today the set will stay in and your hair will look nice through the rest of the winter. If Santa should happen to bring you a new curling outfit try it out tomorrow and you should be well pleased with the results. The evening hours are well aspected for friendly calls and gourmet dining should be enjoyed by all.

December 25th

According to the World Book Encyclopedia in the year 354 A.D. by order of Bishop Liberius of Rome December 25th was adopted as the day of Nativity. The early Church fathers probably chose December 25th because the feast of the Sun or Winter Solstice, was a familiar Roman feast celebrating the victory of light over darkness. The idea was easily turned from a Pagan to a Christian one, since Christmas consider Christ as the light of life.

FARM NEWS AND ANALYSIS

By Darwin Foley
Kenton County
Extension Agent

What is a farmer? Since seeing the Farmer's Creed printed a few weeks ago in the column of Joe Claxon, my cohort in Boone County I've had the fortune to come across some definitions of farmers that I would like to share with you. A farmer is a man who wakes up surrounded by work. A man whose sons and daughters move to the city. A man who believes in the eight hour day; eight hours in the forenoon and eight hours in the afternoon. One who makes little money but is fed lots of beans. Lyndon Johnson said a farmer is the best fertilizer for the land. Ralph Waldo Emerson said a farmer is covetous of his dollars, and with reason. He knows how many strokes of labor it represents. His bones ache with the days work that earned it. Finally, Edward B. White said a farmer is a handy man with a sense of humor.

Whatever a farmer is he is not the same today that he was twenty or fifty years ago. Today's farmer may have as much or more income from off-farm as from on the farm. In Kentucky, 50 percent or more of the farms could be classified as part time. In Kenton County fewer than 10 percent of the farm owners are full time farmers with all of their income from farming. The number of farms in the county totaled 674 in the 1969 Census. This number would be larger today considering the number of farms which have been subdivided in recent years. There are approximately 1000 tobacco bases at the present time but these bases are grown by less than 650 farmers.

With increasing costs and reduced prices for beef and milk there is increased pressure for our full time farmer to turn to other sources of income to stay afloat financially. Livestock record keeping programs such as DHTA and Performance Testing are examples of proven tools that can be used to increase income by increasing pounds of meat and pounds of milk plus increase efficiency. Last year dairy herds which were production tested averaged about 12,000 pounds of milk. Untested herds averaged only 7,500 pounds. Call me to find out how these programs can be used on your farm.
